

Didn't interfere in school matters: Gill

School superintendent says Stavros 'helped' in village

by RICH HONACK

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill sent a letter Friday to U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will stating that James Stavros never interfered in school matters, and did, in fact, help in several community affairs.

For several hours Friday morning, Gill met with Herald reporters to discuss the letter, which he wrote at the request of Stavros' brother, August. Gill said he wrote the letter "as a matter of principle."

James Stavros pleaded guilty to federal charges of extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In pleading guilty, Stavros also admitted to having enough control over village operations to prevent construction of the three projects if he opposed them.

Gill told The Herald he wrote the letter to Judge Will to use for consideration at the time of Stavros' sentencing or parole. Stavros is expected to be sentenced June 4 and could get a maximum of 63 years in prison and fines totaling $35,000.

ACCORDING TO Gill, there was an understanding between him and Stavros during Gill's 15 years as school superintendent. "It started when I first became superintendent and a precinct worker

Kenneth Gill's letter to judge

"Dear Judge Will:

"This letter concerns James Stavros, who will soon come before you for sentencing. I would in no way condone any wrong-doing that is involved in his case. In fact I am totally distressed by the situation that has arisen in our community and am pleased that the judicial process is proceeding to bring it all to a conclusion. However, I do feel that at such a tragic time as this public opinion often has a tendency to concentrate only on the negative aspects of a person and that any positive factors in this person's life might never be presented to you. I believe deeply that every man has the right of having all aspects of him made known when he stands in judgment.

"In my 15 years as superintendent, Mr. Stavros was a staunch supporter of the school district. I have also during this time been very active in many charitable community projects and always found him to be concerned and willing to work to help the projects become successful. He was most directly responsible for the first community swimming pool to be built in Wheeling.

"However, the one most important point that persuades me to write this letter is the fact that when he was active politically, he always kept his promise to keep politics away from the school district. In all these years he never wavered from that resolve.

"I am taking the unusual step of writing this letter only as an attempt to give a sketchy picture of the positive side of Mr. Stavros. I hope you will find it helpful in your deliberations."

Kenneth F. Gill, Ed.D.
Superintendent

came up to me asking me to give someone a job. I went to Jimmy (Stavros) and told him to stay out of the district.

He (Stavros) said it would never happen again, and it didn't," Gill said.

Gill also had a meeting with Stavros last spring, when two candidates for the school board began receiving financial aid from Wheeling's To Overall Progress Party (TOP). "I told him (Stavros) to stay out of the election and keep his campaign workers away from the polls on election day. He said it would be taken care of," according to Gill.

The two candidates were easily defeated in the election.

Those were the only times Stavros had anything to do with Dist. 21, according to Gill. "I think he really believed that politics should have been kept out of the school system."

GILL BELIEVES that the letter may cause residents to say he is defending Stavros for his wrong doing. "That is not the case at all. I deplore what took place in this village. But I also think there are two sides to every person, and Jimmy (Stavros) did some good for this village," he said.

"It doesn't take guts to be against Jimmy Stavros now. In fact, a lot of the people he helped deny even knowing him. Again it's a matter of principles with me and integrity," Gill said.

While Gill said it was no secret that Stavros was a political force in Wheeling, he was not aware of any specific wrong doings. He added that he was never called before the federal grand jury investigating Wheeling to testify on Stavros' relationship to the school district.

ACCORDING TO Gill, he has talked to several people about the letter and said he contacted The Herald about the situation because he wanted the public to get the story first hand, rather than by rumor.

"I'm in the position where everything I say is linked with the school district. I don't think this is wrong, either, because I feel when you're in a community job it calls for you to get into the community process," he said.

Gill said it is about time the people of Wheeling started to take a stand and get involved in the village. "We've got to start getting some integrity and standing up for principles we believe in."

Sentencing of former trustee Valenza delayed

by LYNN ASINOF

The sentencing of former Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza was continued until Friday when the U. S. District Court expects to have more information on the resolution of charges against Valenza's codefendant, Building Director William Bieber.

Valenza pleaded guilty Feb. 28 to conspiring with Bieber to extort $1,700 worth of furniture from Wickes Inc. Bieber is scheduled to begin trial today on charges of conspiracy, extortion and perjury in that case.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Steven Kadison, however, told U. S. District Judge Bernard Decker that he does not expect the Bieber case to come to trial. Kadison said he has spoken with Bieber's attorney, David Schippers, about the pending trial.

"He has informed me that he does not expect the case to go to trial," Kadison said.

NEITHER SCHIPPERS nor Bieber was available to comment on whether they are in the process of plea bargaining with the U. S. Attorney's Office.

Judge Decker said he preferred to handle all sentencing in the case at the same time. He said often some information presented at one sentencing differs from that presented at a second sentencing in the same case.

Kadison said that if an agreement is reached between Bieber and the U. S. Attorney's Office, he expects a request that "all of Mr. Bieber's indictments be transferred to Judge (Abraham Lincoln) Marovitz for disposition."

Bieber is facing extortion, conspiracy, perjury and tax evasion charges in three other cases now pending trial. He and Valenza were among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 after a federal grand jury investigation into shakedowns of Wheeling developers.

JAMES STAVROS, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, has also pleaded guilty in the case. Stavros admitted to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U. S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop eight other charges against Stavros.

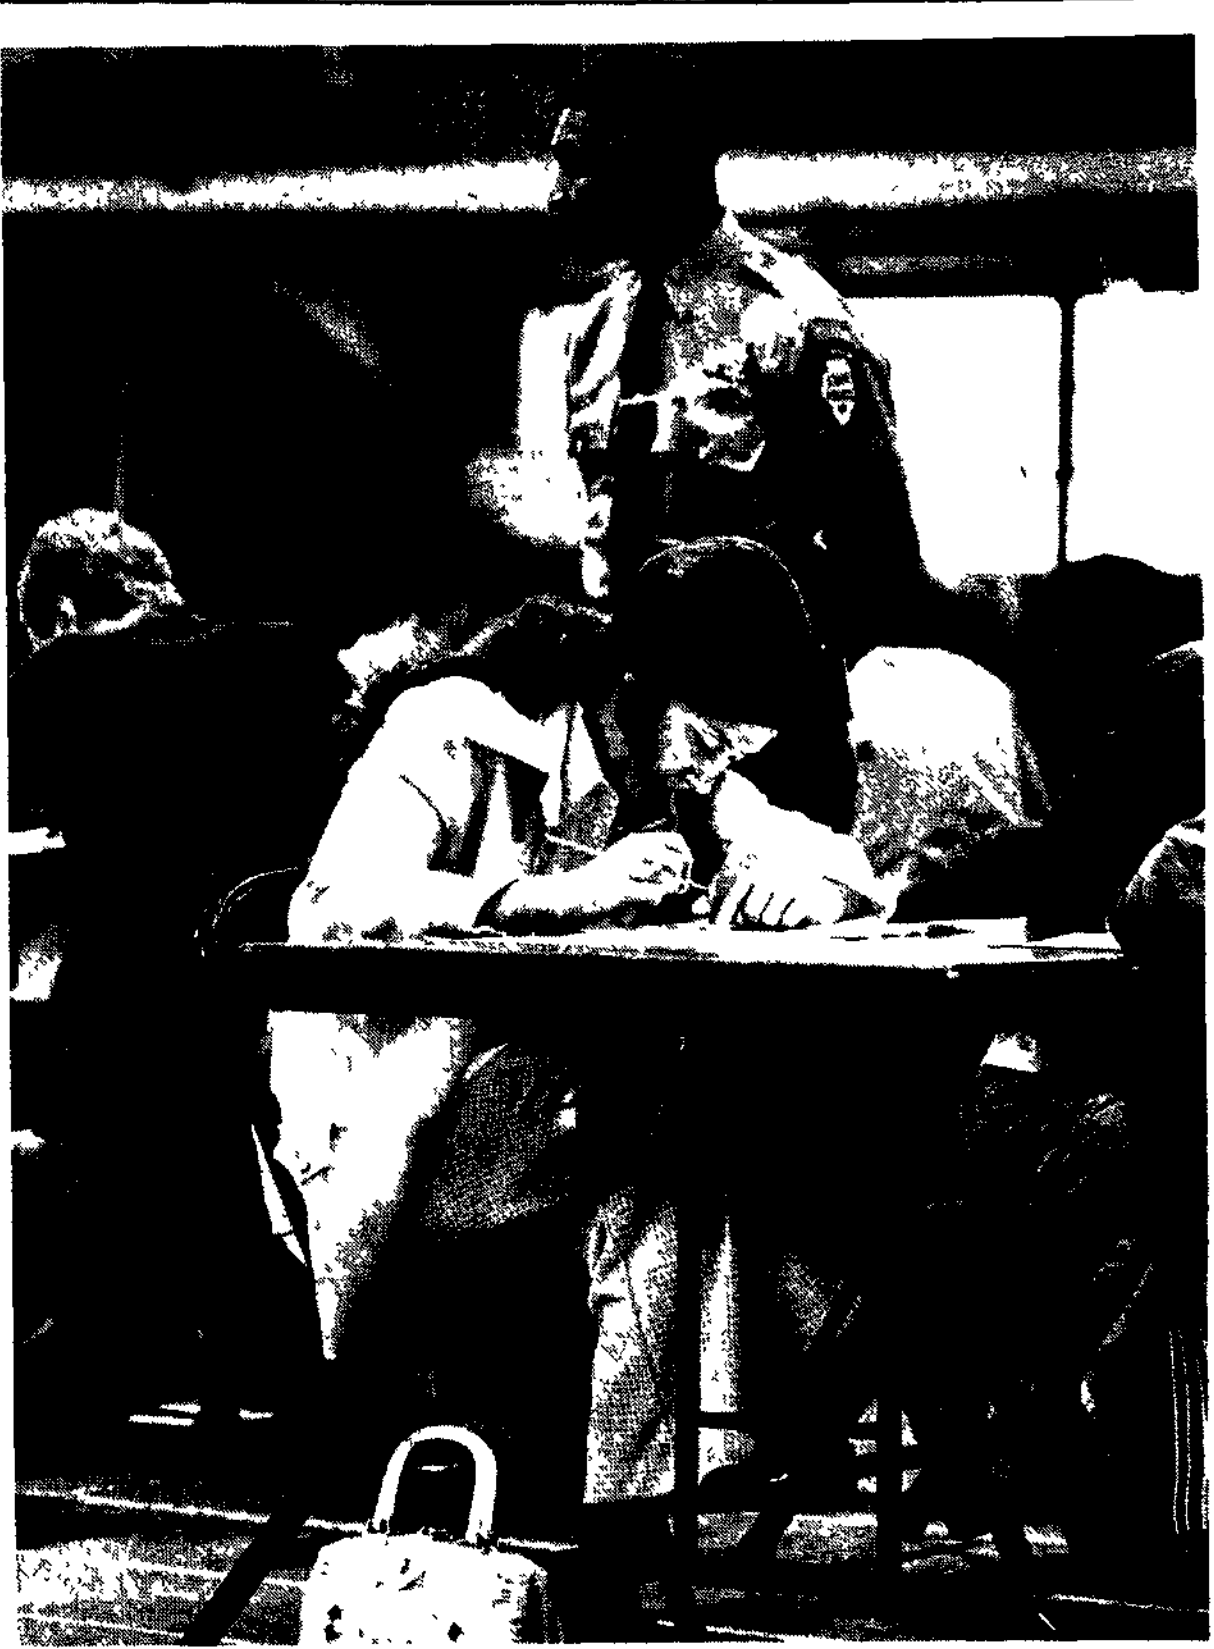

Judge Decker said he also wanted to continue Valenza's sentencing since he has not had time to study a report prepared by the former trustee's probation officer.

"I have read it, but I haven't really studied it to the point where I want to make a decision," the judge said. "That is another reason why I want to continue it."

Valenza faces a maximum of 20 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. The U. S. Attorney's Office said it will make known the extent of Valenza's cooperation with the government at the time of sentencing.

Jason Bellows, Valenza's attorney, said he will argue for a light sentence because of his client's cooperation with the government. While Bellows would not elaborate on the nature of Valenza's cooperation, he said his client agreed to do "whatever the government desires" when he pleaded guilty.

The government dropped a second charge of extortion against Valenza when the former trustee pleaded guilty on the conspiracy charge.

New era at hand: lady state troopers

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to start, the interest couldn't help but focus more keenly on the two young women in the group. They were, after all, about to make a bit of history.

The two women, 22-year-old Debo-

Parks reject bids for Heritage Park

by LYNN ASINOF

The Wheeling Park Board has tossed out all bids submitted on the remodeling of the Heritage Park recreation building, saying that the project would cost too much if the low bid was accepted.

The park will have to pay about $18,000 for the architectural and engineering plans drawn up for the project, promised in the 1972 referendum.

Park Comr. Lorraine Lark asked that the park district consider acting as its own general contractor for the remodeling, thus salvaging the $18,000 spent on the remodeling plans. The board will discuss that proposal at a meeting May 29.

THE BIDS RETURNED two weeks ago, were substantially higher than anticipated. While the park board had planned to spend a maximum of $81,500 to remodel the Heritage Park recreation building, the lowest bid submitted was $70,878 for only part of the proposed work.

For the $70,878, the park district could have converted the present maintenance garage into a board room and constructed showers and lockers for the gym. The park board had also wanted to build a storage room, vestibule and handball court, which would have increased the cost to $123,825.

Park planner Robert Greenless said that the bids were overpriced unless the park board wanted to take the whole package and build a handball court. This would have put the district about $70,000 over its referendum budget.

Greenless said that the cost for the basic remodeling was higher than he thought reasonable for the work being done. He said that if the park board rejected the bids, however, other contractors would probably not bid on the project.

According to Greenless, the remodeling is a small job which would be more economical for a small construction company. He said, however, that such small companies cannot meet the insurance and bond demands of the park district. He said that the alternatives would be to either accept the bids, have the park district become its own general contractor or abandon the project.

NOTING THE 1½ years of price increases, several park board members said they would like to see much of the remodeling abandoned, with the money spent on recreational and park development.

"If I had my druthers I'd take this whole building and leave it the way it is and put it in park development," Mrs. Lark said. "Put it outside where people can see and enjoy it and go out and use it when the building is locked up."

Other commissioners, however, said they believe that the showers and locker rooms were needed. Comr. Gene Sackett said the showers could be used year round while outdoor improvements are seasonal.

A decision on the remodeling will be made after the park district investigates the possibility of finding its own subcontractors to do the work.

THE PARK BOARD also is preparing to go for bid on the bulk of the referendum improvements promised for the park and school-park sites. The work will include tennis courts at Heritage and Husky parks, basketball courts, playground sites, repaving of park district parking lots, asphalt walkways and some grading and drainage improvements.

Village to consider bicentennial group

The Wheeling Village Board tonight will consider an ordinance creating a bicentennial commission which will oversee the local celebration of the nation's 200th birthday.

The ordinance was proposed to the board by the Wheeling Woman's Club after local civic organizations met to discuss the celebration.

The board will also review a zoning ordinance which would allow a 112-unit condominium project to be built on the southeast corner of Wolf Road and Manchester Drive. The eight-acre parcel is presently zoned for single-family homes.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

In Lake County Tuesday

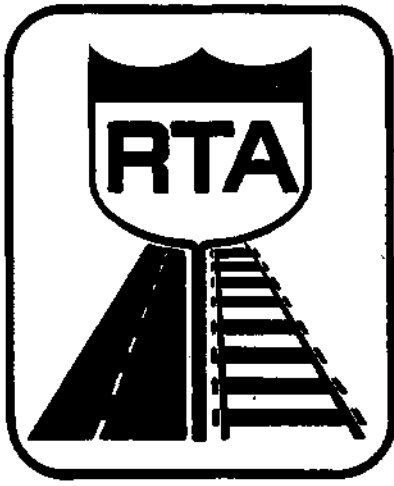

Court to consider effort to halt RTA

An injunction to halt operations of the Regional Transportation Authority board will be considered in Lake County Circuit Court Tuesday, only a day after the RTA board is first called to order.

Lake County State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian filed a suit early this month contending that the RTA is unconstitutional, and a pretrial motion for an injunction will be heard in Waukegan Tuesday.

RTA proponent Eleanor Wolf Jr., seeking the RTA board chairmanship, announced that she is filing a motion to intervene in Hoogasian's suit as a defendant. A resident of Round Lake, she said she has strongly supported the RTA, and contends she is a member of the same "class" of residents Hoogasian filed to protect. Hoogasian filed his suit on behalf of all residents of the six-county metropolitan area included in the RTA.

TODAY IS THE opening of official

RTA business as Secretary of State Michael Howlett convenes the eight appointed members of the board. They will have the responsibility of finding their own chairman, who will be the ninth member of the board.

A flurry of names is being mentioned as possible board leaders, including CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky. The RTA legislation requires that the chairmen have proven experience in management of public transportation, and the salary is to be set by the board.

Former Riverside Township Republican committeeman Joseph Tecson, one of two RTA appointees representing suburban Cook County, said the search for a chairman should extend worldwide, if necessary. The board members are evenly divided — four Chicago Democrats and four suburban Republicans — and the chairman must be agreed upon by six of them. Formers of the RTA legislation felt this would guarantee a nonpartisan chairman.

Suburban Cook County and the five outer counties in the RTA went through lengthy deliberations to select their appointees to the board, and they now face more work if pending legislation increases the board size to 21 members.

The Illinois House is nearing approval of such amendments, but the Senate has not begun deliberations on the subject. Political observers have said the Senate will not approve any of the several RTA amendments agreed upon last week in the House.

Car dealerships folding at unprecedented rate

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 100 new car dealerships have been forced out of business this year by slumping sales and up to 1,000 may fold by the end of the year, an official of the National Automobile Dealers Association said Sunday.

"It's not just the energy situation that's causing this," said Reed T. Draper, a Saginaw, Mich., car dealer and chairman of the NADA's Government Relations Committee. "There is uncertainty in the automobile buying public in regard to the total economy."

Up to 10 per cent of the 340,000 persons employed in new car dealerships in this country have already lost their jobs, Draper said, warning that "You get to the point that if you cut too much you can't handle your business."

THE TRADE publications Automotive News said a survey showed 102 dealerships went out of business during the first three months of 1974, compared with only 14 that folded during the same period last year. New car sales slumped more than 27 per cent in the first quarter from 1973's record pace.

Hardest hit were dealers who handle the larger cars with General Motors accounting for 55 closed dealerships — 25 of them handling Buicks. On Jan. 1, there were 25,349 U.S. car outlets, a number that dropped to 25,247 on April 1.

Even more dealers could be in trouble because the traditional spring sales upturn hasn't been as strong as auto executives had hoped. However, Mack W. Worde, vice president for marketing at GM, disagreed with Draper's dire predictions.

"WITH THE noticeable strengthening in both the new and used car market and with continued sound management controls, we have every reason to believe dealers, as proven in the past and as the first quarter indicates, will weather the storm and come out stronger than ever," he said.

"There is no question that the market turned up a little, but not as big as we expected," said Draper. "We're faced with the highest interest rates in history, a political situation that remains unresolved and no real direction for the country from Congress."

Draper said there has been resistance by customers to higher prices coupled with the new safety devices like the safety belt-ignition interlock system that makes you buckle up before starting the car.

"Getting into a car can be frightening and people don't like them," said Draper. "A lot of people are putting off purchases because of those things."

Arlington voters reject flood plan

Voters in Arlington Heights Saturday rejected by a margin of 87 votes a massive $18.6 million flood control referendum which would have added some $60 to their yearly property taxes. The defeat of the flood control issue came by a vote of 2,332 for, and 2,399 opposed. The turnout was considered good for the village. Village officials now have to decide if they will take some flood control measures through existing revenues or if the matter will come to a referendum again. One immediate effect of the referendum's defeat will probably be the village-supported bus program. Village officials warned that all such services may be curtailed to put all available money into flood control.

Charge youth in school explosion

An early morning explosion at Buffalo Grove High School turned out to be nothing too serious, but a 17-year old student at the school was charged with criminal damage to property after $300 worth of damage was done. The explosion was apparently caused by the detonation of either cherry bombs or several firecrackers in a locker. No injuries were reported.

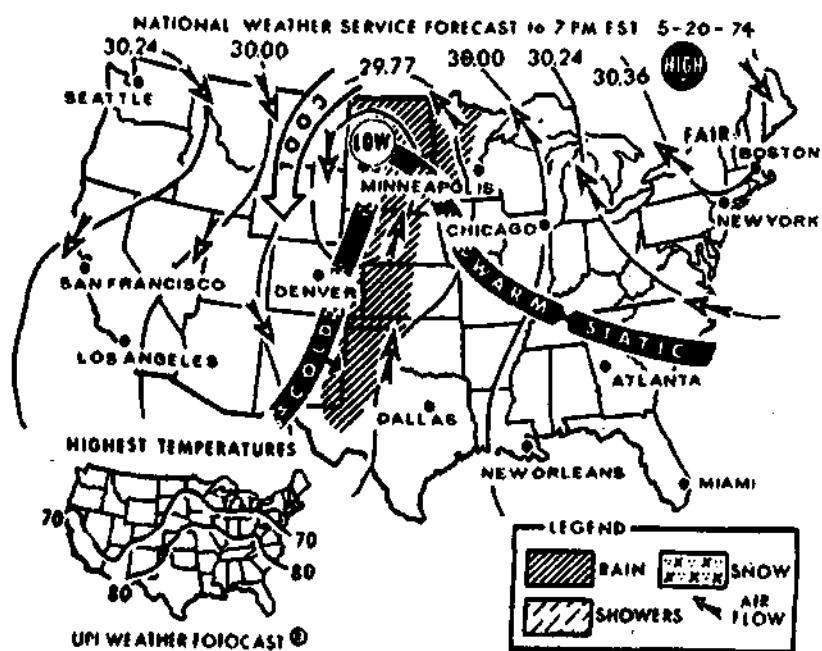

Murder conspiracy trial date set

A trial date has now been set for Aug. 22 for the murder conspiracy charged against Marlene Swimley of Schaumburg. Mrs. Swimley has been accused of attempting to get her husband murdered while involving the couple's son in the solicitation of a murderer.

School official backs Stavros

The school superintendent of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove schools has made public a letter he has sent to federal judge Hubert Will on behalf of defendant James Stavros. Supt. Kenneth Gill said in his letter to Judge Will that although he of course does not condone Stavros' extortion and tax evasion, he wanted the presiding judge to know that the former Wheeling Twp. Democratic committeeman never interfered in school matters, and in fact, contributed in some ways to the betterment of the community.

Sixth SLA body not Patty, Hearsts endure 2nd ordeal

From Herald news services
It turned out not to be Patty, but the discovery of a sixth charred body in the rubble of the besieged Los Angeles home plummeted the Hearst family into another period of anxious waiting until final identification was made.
Hearst family spokesman John Lester said Sunday of father Randolph Hearst, Jr. "I have never seen him like that, he looks absolutely terrible." But at least Hearst and the rest of his family knew then that their mysterious daughter could be still alive.

The sixth body found Sunday was identified as that of Camilla Hall, a member of the terrorist group and daughter of the Rev. George Hall of Lincolnwood, Ill. Coroner Thomas Noguchi also announced it was definitely established there were no more bodies in the ruins. Patricia Hearst has been missing for several months, either as prisoner or accomplice of the Symbionese Liberation Army.
Speculation that the massive hunt for the Hearst heiress may have ended rose early yesterday when a sixth body was found in the wreckage of the SLA Los Angeles hideout. The sixth body was found in a crouching position in a crawl space under the floor of the ruined house and was that of a white female.

But three hours after the discovery, Los Angeles county coroner Thomas Noguchi ended speculation and announced the body was not that of Miss Hearst. An ammunition belt was found around the torso, police said and the second hand on a watch nearby was still ticking. Miss Hearst's dental chart was the evidence which caused the coroner to rule out the possibility that the body was hers.
Despite the still unknown fate of Miss Hearst, police and FBI agents say the back of the SLA is broken. Among those killed in the weekend shootout was Donald DeFreeze, 30, the flamboyant "General Field Marshal Cinque" who was the best known of the militant band.
Last night it was revealed that Patty fired shots to help two known members of the SLA escape a sporting goods store guard last Thursday. Acting on the information, the FBI said it will file federal complaints against Miss Hearst and William Emily Harris. Patty is now "a fugitive of the FBI" who will be fired upon if she starts shooting.

CORONER'S DEPUTIES and Los Angeles police wrap a sixth charred body in a sheet after investigators located it in the ruins of a small home that was the scene of an SLA-police shootout Friday. Coroners determined the latest body was not that of Patricia Hearst.

Was Patty Hearst at O'Hare?

A man told police he saw a woman resembling kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst at O'Hare International Airport early Sunday.
Police searched the airport and a downtown bus terminal, but said officers found no indication that Miss Hearst had been present.
The man said he and his wife, sitting in a parked car, were approached by two men and two women and asked if he would drive them to the bus terminal. The man said he was not going that direction, and the four hailed a taxi. The man said he had been reading a newspaper that contained a photograph of Miss Hearst and noticed one of the women resembled her picture.

Charge Nixon led dairy co-op conspiracy

A lawyer for consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged yesterday that President Nixon appears to have been the leader of a dairy co-operative conspiracy to commit $2 million to his 1972 re-election campaign in exchange for increased milk price supports. In a four-page letter, William Dobrovir, the lawyer, urged U.S. Attorney Earl Silbert to begin "a diligent inquiry" and to file a civil suit to recover funds that were lost to the federal government because of fraud in the conspiracy.

Drug trafficking report issued

A new study released yesterday of defendants arrested for narcotics trafficking shows nearly half of them resumed their illicit trade when they were freed on bond to await trial. The Drug Enforcement Administration made public findings of a followup investigation of 499 individuals who were chosen at random after being arrested and freed on bond in 1972. DEA chief John Bartels said, "For too many drug peddlers, the criminal justice system is little more than a revolving door to 'business as usual.'"

The House Judiciary Committee members, a Republican and a Democrat, agreed yesterday that impeachment hearings should be opened to the public to prevent news leaks. Golan Heights peace line drawn

From Herald news services

Hope continues unabated in the Middle East this morning following reports that a major breakthrough between warring Israel and Syria has been formulated by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Israel indicated Sunday it will accept Kissinger's plan for a cease-fire line on the Golan Heights, virtually settling the main issue of a military disengagement with Syria.

After a three-hour meeting between the American Secretary of State and Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and their negotiating teams, a preliminary settlement for a demarcation line was accepted by both sides. Now Kissinger returns to Damascus to discuss further points of agreement, although most observers say the main obstacle to a Mid-East peace has been settled.

Kissinger will now discuss with the Syrians and Israelis the questions of repatriation of prisoners of war, the role of the United Nations in maintaining a cease-fire, and a buffer zone between the facing armies in the Golan Heights.

Kissinger and his staff are expected to continue their "shuttle diplomacy" between Jerusalem and Damascus for another three or four days.

News that the key element to a settled Mid-east war has been agreed upon reportedly came as welcome news to President Richard Nixon who is spending the weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla. The President conferred with Kissinger by cable Sunday on the negotiations, but a White House spokesman refused to comment further on the matter other than say the President was "buoyed" by the news. There has been some reports that Nixon may visit the Middle East following a successful cease fire agreement, but the White House denied there are plans under way, simply saying the President has expressed a desire to visit the region sometime in the future.

Nixon will return to Washington Monday, closing his four day working vacation at Key Biscayne and a quick side trip to the Bahamas.

While the diplomatic conferences continued, Israeli gunboats raided a Palestinian refugee camp in southern Lebanon Sunday. The gunboats, striking from the Mediterranean, fired missiles at suspected Arab guerrilla installations in yet another reprisal strike for last week's attack on an Israeli schoolhouse. Israeli military command said the unusual gunboat raid was aimed at a small Arab guerrilla base in the Rashideh camp just south of the city of Tyre, 12 miles north of the Israeli border. The Israeli's claimed all their vessels returned unharmed.

Elect d'Estaing president of France

VALERY GISCARD d'ESTAING

PARIS (UPI) — Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, an aristocratic wizard of finance, was narrowly elected president of France Sunday with voters rejecting Francois Mitterrand, a Socialist who would have shared power with the Communists. He immediately promised "an era of renewal and change."

Results showed it was the closest presidential race in a Western democracy since John F. Kennedy beat Richard M. Nixon by 118,550 votes in the U.S. Presidential election of 1960.

Giscard d'Estaing, 48, who will be France's second youngest head of state since Napoleon, saluted his rival, Mitterrand, 57, and said: "A new era of French politics starts today."

The election of a successor to President Georges Pompidou, who died April 2, produced a record turnout of 87 per cent, the most people ever to vote in a French election.

Giscard d'Estaing cannot officially be proclaimed president until the Constitutional Council meets Monday, but late Sunday night, he had an unbeatable lead.

Communist party secretary-general Georges Marchais, who threw the weight of his organization behind Mitterrand, gave notice the Left would harry Giscard d'Estaing as soon as his term begins.

'I knew she would win' says Karen's grandmother

• It was nothing surprising says 81-year-old Mrs. Leonard Morrison of St. Charles, Ill. After all, she always knew her cute little granddaughter was going to make it big. And as her grandmother predicted, Karen Jean Morrison, 19, Miss Illinois, won the title of Miss USA Saturday night. "I guess I'm just prejudiced," Mrs. Morrison said. "After I saw the pageant I knew she would win. I hope it doesn't spoil her. It could some people, but I don't think it could her." And with the understatement of the day, Grandmother Morrison said, "She has such a lovely disposition." Meanwhile, the new Miss USA began her first full day of her reign having breakfast in bed.

• Politics as usual in Delaware. During the hot debate at the state capital in Dover, Del. acting house speaker Daniel Weiss found his opponent in a school corporal punishment bill, Rep. Donald Lynch, stuck in an elevator between floors. Weiss asked Lynch if he'd change his vote if he was rescued. "I'll agree to anything, just get me outta here," said Lynch, whereupon the acting speaker descended to the top of the elevator and pulled his opponent out of the safety door. But of course Lynch still voted his convictions on the floor of the Delaware House, proving a politician will tell you anything to get out of trouble.

time in the department's history that women were tested with men to become state troopers. Only one other woman, Maryann Ketch, has ever served on the department. Her work in the mid-1960s dealt primarily with investigative work, but the role of women in the department from now on will be no different than that of men, state police officials have said.

THE TESTING held this weekend and for the next several weekends will be the first since a recent ruling by the state police merit board eliminating the 5'9" minimum height requirement, which generally barred women from the testing.

Pat and Debbie were among the first 35 women around the state to be eligible under the new standards. For both, police work would not be a new experience. Pat has been an investigator for the Cook County state's attorney's office for two years. Debbie has been a radio dispatcher for the Rolling Meadows Police Department for the past year.

The chance to work as a sworn officer in a law enforcement agency prompted both to apply to the state police, they said.

"They (the state police) offer good professional training which is very difficult to find," the petite, long-haired Pat said before the physical test series began in the Maine Township High School East gym Saturday.

"I REALLY FEEL glad that there is a law enforcement agency that is willing to provide opportunities for women," said Debbie, whose college major was criminology.

"We are absolutely delighted to see the female applicants," said Martin Silverman, a Chicago attorney and recently-appointed member of the state police merit board. "We are absolutely bound and determined that if they qualify, women will be on the department."

Silverman's presence pointed up the interest in the testing. Normally, merit board members do not view the written and physical testing of the exam series. But Silverman and officials from the District 3 headquarters in Des Plaines had come particularly to see how the applicants would fare in a new physical testing series designed by the University of Illinois fitness researcher to measure on an equal basis the physical abilities of men and women.

THE TESTING included exercises to measure strength, flexibility and endurance. A dizziness recovery test, toe touching (palm-touching for the women), push-ups, modified chin-ups, running and a series of 700 hops were among the skills tested in the two-hour physical fitness portion.

"What we've tried to do is make this as comfortable an atmosphere for all of them as possible," Sgt. Frank Straub, supervisor of the testing, explained. "The ladies are incorporated into this group on a one-on-one basis. About the only reference I've made to them is in my addressing the group as 'ladies and gentlemen.'"

As for the women, there were no signs of pressure on them as they conversed and kidded with the others, even when it came time for the fireman's carry test in which each person had to lift from the ground and onto his/her shoulder another applicant — and both women passed.

WHEN THE physical testing was completed, both had fared as well or better than the men, with Debbie passing 15 of the 18 tests and Pat 12 of the 18, good enough to probably testing to come, according to several qualify them for the next phases of state police officials present Saturday.

As for the young men in the group, their reactions toward the women's presence was mixed. "I don't know," William Bara of Chicago commented. "It seems kind of weird. I think there's a place for women in law enforcement; I think they've got the good heads. But the physical thing, the strength and endurance, bothers me."

Craig Buhr, 22, of Northlake, however, had no reservations about the situation. "Everybody's got to take the same test and compete in the same things," he said. "It's just another human being."

Park district wrapup

Budget hearing waits for money

The Wheeling Park District is waiting for its new assessed valuation to complete budget hearings on the 1974-75 budget.

The park board completed preliminary hearings on its proposed $476,702 budget Thursday, but must wait for the assessed valuation to make sure that enough tax money will be available to cover anticipated expenses.

The new budget shows substantial increases in both the park staff and equipment, as well as an expansion of the recreational program. These increases were made possible by the fact that the district eliminated most of its deficit spending and will not have to pay last year's expenses in this year's budget.

In 1973-74, the park district spent about $4,000 more than was allocated in the $360,487 budget. Phillips said the overspending was caused by the fact that only 88 per cent of the park's 1972 tax levy was collected. He said in the past tax collection has averaged between 95 and 97 per cent.

The overspending, however, was substantially less than in past years. Last year, the park district issued $150,000 in tax anticipation warrants and spent about $75,000 of that money.

Phillips said that if the park district had not had to pay off the $75,000 in tax anticipation warrants the district would have ended the year with a $71,000 surplus. He said he, therefore, did not expect any problems in covering the $4,000 of deficit spending that will be carried into the 1974-75 budget.

The budget will be approved at a public hearing July 18. Park board members said they expect to have assessed valuation figures by that time.

Purchase to be completed

Park attorney Roger Bjorvik has notified the owners of the 3.1-acre park site on Valley Stream Drive that the park district is now ready to complete purchase of the property.

The site, owned by Hollywood Builders, is adjacent to the Childerley Retreat House property, which the park intends to purchase for an outdoor education center.

The park board decided to proceed with the purchase two weeks ago when it received permission from the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, which is giving final review to a 50 per cent grant for the property. The board had delayed the actual purchase so they would not jeopardize the grant application.

The parcel will cost $32,500, and will be financed through referendum funds approved in 1972 and a matching government grant.

1975 election day changed

The park district's 1975 election has been changed from the first to the third Tuesday in April.

The park board voted to change the election day because of a new state law that requires the park district to maintain the same polling places as the township if both agencies have their elections on the same day.

This would have caused severe financial problems since the park district usually has two polling places and the township usually has 25 within park district boundaries.

School news notes

The annual spring music program will be presented Friday, May 24, at Hawthorne School in Wheeling.

The program is a collection of American folk songs of the past and tunes likely to become the folk songs of the future.

First-grade children at Sandburg School, Wheeling, recently learned something about camping in a rather unique "show and tell" session.

The students' teacher, Marilyn Sheldon, brought her new truck camper to school and conducted tours through the vehicle for the entire class.

Dominick Tufano, a student at Cooper Junior High School, Buffalo Grove, is the new 100-yard dash 1974 state champion.

Summer school signup deadline Tuesday

The deadline for children to sign up for summer school classes offered this year by School Dist. 21 is Tuesday.

Dist. 21 serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and portions of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

All summer school classes are scheduled to begin June 18 and end July 21, with no school July 4. The courses are free to residents of the district. There is a $25 fee for out-of-district residents.

Sessions will be conducted daily from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 p.m. Parents must provide transportation for students who want to participate in classes taught at schools other than the building they regularly attend.

Parents may register children for summer school classes at the school the children attend. Students may choose one class from those offered.

Several study courses designed to aid students with particular academic problems are available, in addition to enrichment courses and music classes.

A complete list of the courses included in the summer school program is available at the administration building, 909 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

He also placed fourth in the 220-yard dash.

Tufano led Cooper to a fifth place finish in a field of competitors that originally included over 100 junior high school track teams.

Other Cooper students placing in the meet were Bill Holzapfel, who took seventh in the 880-yard run and Sean McCann who placed eighth in the same event.

The 440-yard relay team, composed of Dan Fox, Dan MacIssac, Mike Staudt and Tom Tufano, placed seventh.

Two Cooper Junior High School students placed first in the recent state science fair in Champaign.

Megan Edwards and Tim Pfeiffer took top awards for their projects. Second place honors went to Pat Staudt and Carrie Miresse and Mark Neargardner placed third.

The state fair culminated three months of competition which included the Cooper fair and the district contest conducted at Wheeling High School.

Fourth-grade students at Longfellow School, Buffalo Grove, recently had an arts and crafts show.

The children made all the items for the show and sold them. Proceeds from the event will be used to finance a field trip.

Regina Quintana, a Dist. 21 bilingual teacher and native of Cuba, recently spoke to sixth-grade social studies classes at Longfellow School.

Miss Quintana described her home country before the takeover of Fidel Castro and talked about what life was like under the leadership of Castro.

Children at Hawthorne School, Wheeling, will present their annual choral concert at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 23.

The program, entitled "Fasten Your Seatbelts," is a musical tribute to various modes of transportation, including everything from the horse and buggy to space flight.

Hannah Cahan, Hawthorne Music teacher, has selected the music and will direct the children during the performance. Intermediate-grade students will accompany several songs.

Helen Sorgatz, learning disabilities teacher at Hawthorne, designed and prepared the scenic backdrops for the program.

WHEELING PARAMEDICS Bill Henry and Bob Moos check out paramedic equipment installed in the fire department's ambulance. The equipment, which has been in use for about two weeks, is used to monitor a patient's condition and provide emergency medical aid while en route to the hospital.

Everything on rise except drunkenness, larceny

Crime survey paints grim portrait

During the first three months of 1974, Wheeling was a slightly more sober town than it was in 1973. However, in the same period, Wheeling was a much more violent, unsafe community.

This is the uncheery portrait painted by the first quarter crime statistics recently released by the police department. These statistics show an increase in every major type of crime except for one less drunk and a decrease in grand larceny (which has been reclassified from more than $50 to more than $150, thus automatically causing the figure to drop).

Through the first three months of 1974 there also were no murders and rapes reported, although a rape was since committed in April.

AS REPORTED April 4 in The Herald, one of the areas of greatest increase was burglaries. The official statistics show 53 burglaries through March 31, three more than police officials reported in April. (The monthly statistics are released at a delay of some five weeks generally.)

With only 17 burglaries in the first quarter of 1973, this year's number represents an increase of 212 per cent. Twenty-three of the burglaries occurred in March, but several of these were solved by arrests made early in April.

Another area showing a large increase was thefts under $150 (although again, this can be attributed in part to the reclassification from last year's $50 limit). Total thefts (which show a more true comparison) were 125 in 1974 and 99 in 1973.

Disorderly conduct cases have more than doubled so far this year with 98 reported. There was an increase of two in aggravated assaults to a total of seven; two more sexual assaults for a total of four; 21 other assaults, an increase of 15; and five auto thefts, an increase of one.

Four robberies were reported, compared with none in the first three months of last year.

The number of automobile accidents reported also increased slightly from 198 to 234.

Youth, 17, arrested after high school blast

A 17-year-old Buffalo Grove youth was charged with criminal damage to property Friday, after he allegedly set off an explosive device in a Buffalo Grove High School locker.

Arrested was Tim Mastandrea, 114 Golfview Terr. who is to appear June 18 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Damage was estimated at $300 by Buffalo Grove police.

School principal Clarence Miller said, "We've talked with him and he doesn't know why he did it." Miller added that no one was injured in the incident, which he said may have been caused by a cherry bomb or several firecrackers.

The lockers damaged are located in Building C on the high school campus in the second-floor general locker area.

The explosion, according to Miller, occurred about 8:15 a.m. Friday. However, the police department did not learn of the incident until 1:25 p.m. and the fire department was told at 4:10 p.m.

Police Chief Harry Walsh said only the high school youth officer had been told and that was about 9:30 a.m. while he was home. The officer then went straight to the school and the rest of the police department learned of the explosion later.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said, "I'm very disturbed that this department was not called to check the rest of the building (for additional explosive devices)."

2 from Stevenson to study in Europe

Two Stevenson High School students will spend next year studying in Europe, through local student-exchange programs.

Martin Spoerlein will leave for Sweden sometime this summer on a scholarship awarded him by the International Student Program (ISP) for a year of study for the Youth for Understanding program. He will live with a Swedish family and attend high school there. Spoerlein was chosen from 16 applicants who applied last September for the "Patriots Abroad" division of ISP.

John Patwell has received a scholarship by the Deerfield Rotary Club and will spend next year living and attending high school in France. When he returns next fall, Patwell plans to enter John Hopkins University.

Police arrest Chicago man

A 22-year-old Chicago man was arrested by Buffalo Grove police and charged with disorderly conduct Thursday, after police said the man tried to pick an apartment door lock with a screwdriver.

Philip R. Phillips, 4915 N. Whipple, was arrested about 11:50 a.m. Police had responded to a call of a burglary in progress at 749 Trace Dr.

According to police, the occupant of the apartment where Phillips was found apparently knew Phillips and will not sign a complaint against him for attempted burglary. The occupant was June Bullock, police said.

Phillips will appear June 25 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court on the disorderly conduct charge. He was released Thursday after he posted $100 bond.

Report on probe of auto-sticker sales due today

A report from investigators in the Chicago City Clerk's office looking into the sale of Buffalo Grove vehicle stickers to Grand-Spaulling Auto Leasing Co. of Chicago is expected to be completed today.

Daniel Cepa, assistant city clerk, said Friday the city will determine what action if any is necessary against the company based on findings from the investigation. If Grand-Spaulling is found in violation of the city wheel tax ordinance, the matter will be referred to the city's law department, Cepa said.

City investigators are trying to determine whether Grand-Spaulling circumvented purchasing Chicago vehicle stickers in 1974 and 1973 in favor of Buffalo Grove stickers which are cheaper.

Chicago stickers cost $20 to $50 while Buffalo Grove stickers cost $10 each.

Grand-Spaulling maintains no office or dealership in the village and obtained the more than 200 Buffalo Grove vehicle stickers by giving a village post office box number as an address.

If Grand-Spaulling is found guilty of violating the Chicago ordinance, the company could be fined $25 to $200 for every illegally purchased sticker.

Stevenson to host league track meet

Stevenson High School, Prairie View, will host the annual Northwest Suburban Track and Field Conference Meet Monday and Tuesday.

The meet is the first for the newly expanded league. Teams that will participate besides Stevenson include Lake Zurich, Antioch, Cary Grove, Woodstock, Wauconda, Round Lake, Warren, Grant and Grayslake.

Finals in all events are scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday. Spectators are welcome and there is no admission charge.

Teachers approve salary pact for 1974-'75 year

By an overwhelming vote, Dist. 21 teachers have approved their contract for the 1974-75 school year.

In a meeting last Thursday night, the Wheeling Faculty Council voted to accept the contract worked out by negotiators and the school board last week by a margin of 141 to 3.

The contract is expected to be signed by the school board at its meeting Thursday night.

The agreement calls for a 12.24 per cent increase in total monies allotted to salaries. This will give teachers a pay hike of between 8 and 14 per cent, depending on where they fit into the pay schedule worked out by the council.

THE TOTAL AMOUNT that will be provided for teacher salaries by Dist. 21 next year is $4.7 million. That includes a 10 per cent increase in the annual salaries paid to teachers for supervising extra-curricular activities.

The base pay for a beginning teacher in the district will be raised from $8,000 to $9,000. At the top of the scale, the pay for teachers with a master's degree and 30 years of experience will go up from $15,261 to $17,010.

The unusually generous pay increase was negotiated in an effort to bring salaries more in line with those of surrounding school districts. For the past several years, local teachers have been among the lowest paid in the Northwest suburbs.

Margo Richter, sixth-grade teacher at Stevenson School and chief negotiator, said Friday teachers are pleased with the contract.

"Everyone thinks it's just great," she said.

Salaries and extra duty pay were the only items negotiated in 1974-75 contract talks. The new pact expires June 30, 1975.

'Flunk'—an obsolete term?

Well, not entirely, but with new educational methods fewer students have been held back

Do kids still flunk? Apparently not, or at least not in the numbers they once did in elementary school classrooms. Herald Education Editor Wandalyne Rice found that now the social effects of flunking are considered almost equal to academic proficiency. Her report:

by WANDALYNE RICE

If you met Mike, one of the first things you'd notice is that he's smaller than the other children in his class.

And, as you got to know him a little better, you would discover that he's a little more immature and has a harder time learning the things required of a kindergarten.

In fact, you might even discover that he is starting to feel inferior because he doesn't do as well as the other children. He even may be starting to hate school. Maybe he'll tell you, in a rare moment when his parents aren't listening, that he's "dumb."

Many years ago, Mike's fate probably would have been sealed early. With what one principal in a local school now calls "cold, administrative efficiency," Mike would "flunk" and be forced to repeat a grade.

TODAY, SCHOOL officials, both teachers and administrators, are more sensitive to how a child such as Mike might feel being labeled a "failure" so early in his school career.

The result of that awareness, combined with increasing numbers of special education programs, has meant that in recent years the practice of "flunking" or "retaining" or "holding back" students, particularly students in the upper elementary grades, has almost vanished.

"We could destroy a child by making him feel unable to do things," Kathryn Kacena, principal of Hawthorne School in Wheeling says, in explaining that students at her school are almost never held back or forced to repeat grades. "If we have children who are not quite ready for a certain grade, they aren't alone."

Each year, however, in many elementary schools in the Northwest suburbs, a few children, perhaps as few as one or as many as four or five, are "held back." Most are boys, most have many of the same problems that Mike has, and school officials try to make the action as untraumatic as possible.

IT IS RARE that an older child is held back, principals interviewed about the subject say — if it is going to happen, it usually happens in kindergarten, first or second grade. Although there are exceptions. Principal Phillip Worland of Park School in Arlington Heights explains, "We probably wouldn't even seriously consider retaining a fourth or fifth grader unless it was because of something obviously out of his control, if he was sick for six months and out of school, for example."

The trauma of being held back can be minimized for the younger children, Worland says, because "they haven't really identified themselves with one group of youngsters yet."

Exact procedures for deciding whether

Special education topic of meeting

A representative of the West Suburban Special Education Assn. will speak Wednesday at the monthly meeting of the Northwest suburban chapter of the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (CULD).

Pamela Gillet, assistant director of the association, will speak at 8 p.m. at Hershey High School. CULD is a non-profit organization of parents and other persons interested in the problems of children with learning disabilities.

to hold a child back a grade vary from school to school, but principals agree that two of the most important parts of the procedure are proper diagnosis of the child's learning problems and communication with the parents.

"The study of the individual situation is much more thorough today than it was in the past," Worland says. "Twenty years ago we had to rely on what the classroom teacher saw and on tests, but now we have psychologists and special education teachers who can evaluate the child."

IN ADDITION, Worland and other principals cite the flexibility of most elementary classrooms as a reason that fewer children are held back now than in the past. Tony Mostardo of Clearmont School in Elk Grove Village says classes today "can accommodate as much as a 1½-year spread in achievement in a single room. Some of our classes may have as many as five or six reading groups."

When parents are firmly opposed to holding a child back, principals say they will accede to their wishes and pass a child on against the recommendation of professionals. "You've got to have agreement (with the parents)," Worland says. "If they're dead set against it, you're wasting your time."

However, "If the teacher has done a good job of reporting to the parents all year, they aren't shocked" when a recommendation comes, James Hall, principal of Ridge School in Arlington Heights, says. In fact, he adds, "the parents may come in and ask for a retention."

THAT CAN LEAD to problems, too. Mostardo says that at Clearmont this year, there are four children being recommended for retention, and in two cases, "I'm trying to talk the parents out of it."

Once a decision is made, the problem becomes how to tell the child. Agreement on that also is reached by the school officials and parents — sometimes the duty falls on the teacher and sometimes on the parent.

Hall at Ridge School, sometimes takes on the responsibility himself, but he leads up to it slowly. "I try to give the child my personal attention," he says. "I may invite him down to the office to play checkers so that when it comes time to tell him, it won't be like he's seeing the principal for the first time. In a lot of cases, the child has already sensed that he isn't with the class and I try to make him feel like he's helping to plan it — we talk about which teacher he will have, for example."

IN ADDITION, Hall says, he and the child usually agree that "retention" will not be recorded on the report card. "Kids share their report cards on the last day of school, and that way he doesn't have to worry about the other kids seeing it," he says.

Maynard Thomas, principal of Adolph

Link School in Elk Grove Village, remembers a time when he first became a principal that "10 to 15 per cent of each class was retained." Today, he says, the numbers have been so vastly reduced that retention is now the exception, and he thinks that is a good thing.

In addition, Thomas' district, Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 has started a program called "developmental first grade" for children, like Mike, who are behind the others in kindergarten.

CHILDREN ARE placed in developmental first grade rather than being retained in kindergarten, Thomas says, and work during the year with a teacher on reading readiness and other skills. The following year, they are placed in a regular first grade.

Even though the effect of the program is that a child spends two years in something called first grade, Thomas says it works because "it cuts out the failure feeling. It may be a blow to the parents or the grandparents, but it's much less of a blow than if you say a child has to be retained in second grade."

A decision on placement in developmental first grade is handled much the way other schools handle retention. Thomas explains that the children are checked by the classroom teacher, psychologist, and special education teachers and the parents are involved in the decision.

IF A PARENT says he wants his child in a regular first grade, "you honor the wishes of the parents," Thomas says.

The changes in the school's curriculum have also helped eliminate the "failure feeling," according to Thomas. But he says he still remembers the children who were caught in the system before things changed.

"I still wonder what happened to the hundreds of kids I signed retentions for," he says. "I remember a girl named Martha who I retained in sixth grade 15 years ago and I've often wondered if it did her any good. I guess I'll never know because I never had another Martha."

Got a question on tax reform? You can ask county GOP subcommittee Northwest suburbanites will be given an opportunity Thursday to present their views on issues to a subcommittee of the Cook County Republican Platform Committee.

The subcommittee on local government will conduct a public hearing at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Subcommittee chairman Joan Anderson said testimony will be heard on the quality and level of county and municipal services, tax reform and relief, home rule, public employment, government for unincorporated areas, and education. She said anyone interested in testifying or observing is invited.

"You can't represent the people without knowing what they are thinking," said Mrs. Anderson. "If we can gather those ideas and opinions, our candidates will be better able to represent the voters after November."

County drug-related deaths up

Drug-related deaths in Cook County are up 250 per cent over last year, County Coroner Andrew Toman has announced.

During April, there were 33 drug deaths as compared to 17 for the same month in 1973. Totals for the first four months of the year are 131 drug deaths as compared to 57 for the same period during 1973.

"Despite all the programs, government financed and privately promoted programs, drug-related deaths are increasing at a record rate," Toman said. "Some sort of drastic action is needed."

New library-loan program set

Local public libraries now can borrow materials from special libraries throughout the state.

Under a new ruling by the Illinois State Library, public and state libraries can loan materials to each other. The loan program will be channeled through the North Suburban Library System, to which Northwest suburban public libraries belong.

"Our member public libraries patrons now have borrowing access to scientific, technical, medical and other specialized materials, thus saving their local library the cost of purchasing these expensive but rarely requested materials," said Robert McClarren, director of the North Suburban system.

Sacred Heart achievement awards

Achievement awards will be presented to students at Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows at three events this week and next.

Senior awards will be presented at a school assembly Wednesday morning. They will also be presented at the awards dinner at 7:30 p.m. May 30 in the Jimmy Durante Room at Arlington Park Towers.

Department awards, service awards and the "Spirit of the Heart" award will also be presented at the dinner, followed by a liturgy celebrated by the Rev. James Michaelitz and the Rev. Thomas Vitro.

Academic, athletic and service awards for freshmen, sophomores and juniors will be presented at an all school assembly May 31. More information can be obtained by calling the school at 392-6890.

All activities are open to the public.

Goatskin drums contaminated?

The U. S. Communicable Disease Center, Atlanta, Ga., has issued a warning that Haitian drums made with goatskin may be contaminated.

Six of 124 tested drums were found to be contaminated with Bacillus anthracis, an infectious disease of animals that can be transmitted to man.

Persons who have obtained the drums as souvenirs in Haiti are urged to turn them in to their local health department for disposal. If not treated, Bacillus anthracis can lead to fever, headache, muscle pain and nausea.

25th reunion for infantry unit

The 94th Infantry Division Assn. will hold its 25th annual reunion at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel July 18, 19 and 20.

More than 1,000 veterans are expected to attend special events and entertainment featuring memorable incidents between 1942 and 1946.

The 94th Infantry was activated in September 1942 at Fort Custer, Mich. The men trained at Camp Phillips, Kan., and Camp McCain, Miss., before going to Europe where the division lost 10,000 men.

The division was instrumental in the liberation of large sections of France from Brittany to the Saar, thus clearing the Saar Moselle Triangle which resulted in the capture of the city of Trier. The move made it possible for the Americans to advance to the Rhine River.

After the reunion on July 21, 200 veterans and their wives will leave for a 21-day trip to Europe visiting old sites. The men will be honored by the French and Belgium governments.

Veterans who served in the division should contact the reunion chairman Elmer Howe, 4835 Stonewall Ave., Downers Grove, 60515.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Bad players tend to give themselves no chance to bring home a doubtful contract. Fair players usually find a way that may succeed, while really good players give themselves every chance."

Jim: "South was a far player. He watched his opponents start with three rounds of diamonds. West ruffed the third lead and shifted to a club. South led a trump to his ace and a second trump back to dummy's queen. Then he tried the heart finesse. If it had worked he would have been able to ruff his last heart in dummy, but it failed and he was down one."

Oswald: "It was tough luck but an expert would have given himself an extra chance and made the hand. He would have led a trump to his ace just as South had done, but then he would play out his last diamond. West would not have been able to ruff and a low heart would have been discarded from dummy. After that start South would cash his ace of hearts and ruff his last two hearts in dummy."

Jim: "The extra chance was that West had started with just two trumps. If West held a third trump, he would ruff; dummy would overruff and South could then try the heart finesse. He would still be down one because there had been no way to make the contract."

X-rays increase chances of getting skin cancer

In the last 12 years I have had 11 basal cell carcinomas surgically removed from my face. I'm 56 and I've been careful about keeping out of the sun, and I go to the doctor as new areas appear on my skin. Each biopsy has been positive, so I guess I can expect new cells to appear. Do you have any suggestion how I might reduce the rate of occurrence?

Also, a friend told me her doctor removed three basal cells by applying a saline or something. After a few days the hard surfaces which had formed came off, and the cells were gone.

The last time I had one removed I asked my doctor about removing it by means other than surgery, and he said he felt surgery was better because there was more assurance that all the bad cells would be removed. Would you please comment on this? Have recent medicines been developed?

About 30 years ago I had about 12 ray treatments for rosacea of my nose which perhaps helped arrest the veins around my nose. All the basal cells have been in that area except for one.

I am inclined to agree that repeated amounts of X-ray to the skin, as you would have had in the treatment you mention, makes the skin more apt to develop skin cancers. If you are prone to this problem anyway, it could make matters worse.

Your doctor has something in his favor about surgery making sure all the cancer cells are removed. However, after you have had this done in a case such as ment on the entire face area. You probably have a number of abnormal cells that have not yet created a suspicious lesion for the doctor to cut out.

I do not favor simple burning off of the skin areas involved, either electrically or chemically, but there are indeed new medicines that will eliminate cancer cells from the surface of the skin.

CANCER CELLS really are normal cells that have gone wild in their growth

pattern and are rapidly reproducing. For a cell to reproduce, even a normal one, it depends upon DNA and RNA, those complex strands of combinations of sugar and protein-like substances. The new salves act by interfering with the formation of new DNA and hence new cell formation. Skin cells are constantly dying and being replaced. The skin cancer cell's rate of reproduction is even greater than normal skin.

The chemical in the salve (fluorouracil, marketed under the trade name Efudex) interferes with the DNA formation, and the cancer cells can't reproduce. So, they die and form a crust whereas the normal cells will be less affected, if at all. The chemical literally differentiates between normal and abnormal cells, and much earlier than an ordinary microscope can.

I would suggest that you go see a dermatologist and see if he can't choose such a medication or one with a similar action for a generalized treatment of your face area. It might prevent your developing new lesions later that would need to be removed surgically. The treatment can be repeated later with the salve if conditions seem to warrant it. I suspect that in the long run you will protect your appearance by using such an approach.

Barbara A. Gaines

Mrs. Barbara A. Gaines, 30, nee Shumilo, of Schaumburg, died suddenly early Friday morning at her home. She was pronounced dead at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Born in Chicago, July 27, 1943, she had lived in Schaumburg for the last 3½ years. Mrs. Gaines was a member of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Service League, and Schaumburg United Party.

Funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Marcelline Catholic Church, 820 S. Spring-insguth Rd., Schaumburg. Burial will be in Maryhill Cemetery, Niles.

She is survived by her husband, Robert; a son, Robert John; mother, Mrs. Ann (the late John) Shumilo of Schaumburg, and a brother, John Shumilo of Mount Prospect.

Harry L. Bally

Funeral service for Harry L. Bally, a 50-year resident of Des Plaines, will be held at 1:30 p.m. today in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. The Rev. Allen H. Fedder of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, will be officiating. Burial will be in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Bally died Saturday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. He was born in Roanoke, Ill., March 8, 1887, and was a retired carpenter in the building industry.

He is survived by his widow, Anna, nee Arndt; two sons, Walter H. and daughter-in-law, Lorraine, and Harvey F. and daughter-in-law, Helen Bally, both of Des Plaines; a daughter, Mrs. Loreen A. (LeRoy) Swier of Des Plaines; eight grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Edith Wagner of Illinois. He was preceded in death by three brothers, Walter, Frank and Fred.

Family requests, in lieu of flowers, contributions to Immanuel Lutheran Church, Lee and Thacker St., Des Plaines or the Cancer Fund would be appreciated.

MEG needs visibility

Undercover narcotics agents who go underground to search out criminals should come up for air now and then. If they don't, we become uneasy.

An agency called the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) has been going through that process now for 2½ years, and we are slightly uneasy about the almost completely covert nature of their operation.

The group has apparently been an effective narcotics agency, judging from the fact they've become one of the largest in the country — and they are able to transcend the village and city boundary lines which crisscross Cook County.

However, the agency, which draws its men from local communities and the Cook County Sheriff's police, could use at times the kind of public access and accountability which marks other local police agencies.

For example, if you wanted to locate your local police department, you'd find it with a phone number and address in the phone book. The police blotter is available for reporters to examine the record of that department's arrests.

MEG, however, does not operate in such an open manner. It has used in the past a variety of "front" businesses to cover up its operations. MEG's phone number is changed periodically to cover its operation.

Now there's some argument that a police agency attempting to trace illicit drug activities in the suburbs must work as covertly as possible. The pursuit of pushers is a delicate business that demands secrecy. Too much is at stake in this pursuit to allow too much openness, MEG's defenders argue.

We agree — but once the agency gets to the arrest level, the public should have the chance to scrutinize its activities — and the public should have at least some minimal access to some representatives of the operation.

One way of reining in this agency is that individual villages delegate police officers to serve on it, and local government could demand wider accountability to the public than MEG currently has. Another method would be for the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC), which supplies federal funding, to help open up the unit to public attention.

Only if the general public has more access to MEG can we know that this unit is acting both constitutionally and effectively. That's the way the police should act in a democratic society.

'Voters want honesty'

by ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON — When Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg discovered "The Social Issue" four years ago, it induced Republican and Democratic candidates alike to put on the sheriff's badge.

In their book, "The Real Majority," Scammon, former census director, and Wattenberg, a former speechwriter for President Johnson, announced that the big political issues of the 1970s would be control of crime, drug abuse and social disruption.

They suggested that one important reason for Richard Nixon's 1968 presidential victory was that Democrats had let themselves be pictured as unconcerned about mugging, rape, pot-smoking and sexual revolution.

The book had a galvanizing effect on the 1970 congressional campaigns. Some Republicans based entire campaigns on what came to be known as the law-and-order issue. Democrats who had never felt it necessary before to speak on the subject went about declaring themselves to be just as tough on crime and drugs as anyone else.

The climax of this was Adlai Stevenson's Senate campaign, when, in the words of one political observer, the previously mild-mannered Illinois treasurer emerged "wearing the sheriff's badge" with a tough campaign line on law and order.

The consensus about that election was that Democrats like Stevenson effectively neutralized the law and order theme. The 1970 results showed small GOP gains in the Senate, but losses in the House and in governorships.

The Social Issue played only a secondary role in the 1972 campaigns. The presidential race dominated the year, and it seemed to have been decided by the question "Who do you trust?" President Nixon was the voters' answer, by a landslide.

Now the Democrats have Watergate, and many expect corruption to be the prime, perhaps only, issue in the 1974 congressional campaigns. Such a theme is contrary to the advice of many pollsters and of Democratic Party leaders, who caution against a voter backlash against candidates who spend all their time knocking the opposition.

If not Watergate, what? John G. Stewart, former communications director of the Democratic National Committee, has come up with a new byword for the 1974 campaign — "The Governing Issue." In a new book, "One Last Chance," Stewart says the Democrats must focus on two positive goals to rebuild their party to a long-term majority status:

"First, to restore the popular belief that government — especially the federal government — can function competently and fairly; second, to convince people that government cares about what happens to average citizens."

There is some irony in the fact that with the exception of attempting to refurbish the image of the federal sector of government, the Stewart prescription for Democratic candidates and policymakers is much the same as the Nixon campaign themes of 1972 and 1968.

Republicans traditionally have been campaigners against big, wasteful government — especially in Washington — and usually take the line that they are the ones who can run government efficiently. And the GOP has also cast itself as the champion of the citizen who wants to run his own life and has been promised government that will help, rather than regulate, restrict and repress such efforts.

To this extent, Stewart apparently is agreeing with many political analysts who believe the old lines of liberalism and conservatism drawn 40 years ago with the New Deal now are so fuzzy that they have little meaning to the voters.

Instead, he seems to be saying the consumer movement has come to American politics and government — the people simply want to get their money's worth. (UPI)

Tom Wellman's column

Presidential cussing: a non-issue

Chief Editorial Writer

In this time of national trauma over Watergate, it's comforting to see that the American public, and some elements of the press, are capable of again coming up with a great non-issue.

The non-issue is the language of the President of the United States, or, more correctly, his deleted language. The "expletives deleted" in Richard Nixon's tape transcripts are threatening to become the greatest non-issue of the year — surpassing, even, streaking.

Already, one publication — Rolling Stone, the music and youth-oriented magazine — is offering a free weekend in the Watergate Hotel for the person who can fill in the gaps in the most colorful fashion.

Not only is it good fun to think up the foulest kind of language to fill the gaps — even if we profess horror at Nixon's choice of words — but there are intriguing side issues that the expletives create. One can spend hours debating whether it would not have been wiser for the President to include all of those deleted phrases. Might be less voyeuristic, it is argued.

Even the sedate New York Times got onto the obscenity story recently, when it disclosed that such epithets and "Jew boy" and "wop" are among the characterizations deleted in the clean transcripts. It is all faintly reminiscent of Spiro Agnew's use of the characterization "fat jap" several years back.

Our preoccupation with all of this non-issue is so typical of the American political and social process — and it would be so typical of the worst in American culture if we allow profanity to become an issue in settling the political fate of Richard M. Nixon.

Our problem began when we elevated the Presidency to a lofty, isolated pinnacle. Nixon's use of the majesty of the office is little more than following the pattern created by his predecessors. In some ways we are now electing a king every four years, a king whose powers extend far beyond the grasp of the common man.

But Nixon—and Lyndon Johnson and Dwight Eisenhower and the rest—are men who sweat and belch as we do. Yet, when we see them with human strengths and frailties revealed, we are shocked and dismayed.

We extend to President Nixon, as we cluck about his gusty language, the kind of hypocrisy which becomes easily upset about the choice of words but is reluctant to become angered at deeds.

Poul language from the President is unacceptable, we moralize. Yet we react so slowly to the long record of Watergate-related errors which have tarred this regime as one of the shoddiest in American history. We are offended by words, but we are not bothered by facts.

In this judgment of Nixon, we are only reacting as we often do on a day-to-day basis. We react to the words or to the skin color of our neighbor, not to his substance — whether that neighbor lives next door or in the White House.

What is needed, in this now-popular debate over four-letter words, is a little understanding about just how foul-mouthed each of us can be — and how little a four-letter word means in the broader scheme of events. Profanity, in the case of Richard Nixon, is an irrelevant issue — and it should remain so as we judge the man and his administration.

letters to the editor

"Mom, what's that noise?" asked little Johnny, standing near the grave with its little American flag marker. "Do you hear it?"

"Yes, I hear it, Johnny," I answered. "Don't be afraid, it's only my uncle turning over down under that quiet green sod."

"But why, Mom?" Johnny persisted. "You told me he died in the Second World War and he was resting comfortably in Heaven."

"He was," I sighed. "Until he heard the people quarreling up here."

"About what, Mom?" Johnny asked.

"About whether or not to celebrate Memorial Day on a Monday regardless of the date, or on May 30 like he remembered it."

"What's the difference, Mom?" Johnny asked.

"Well," I said, "How would you like to celebrate your birthday three days early this year?"

"For what reason?" John questioned, scratching his long blond hair.

"Because it would be easier to observe your birthday three days earlier since I have other things to attend to in the middle of the week and can't be bothered."

"But, Mommy, it wouldn't be the same, I was born on July 14." Johnny cried. "That would be like celebrating Christmas on the 22nd instead of the 25th. It just wouldn't be the same."

"I know, Johnny, but if the people want to vote Christmas on the 22nd next year, who are we to argue?" I put my hand on my son's shoulder for I could see how upset he had become.

"Then they could move Easter to any day they liked or Thanksgiving to Halloween for less bother, or maybe they will just start eliminating traditional

"Oh, I hope not," I exclaimed. The sod on my uncle's grave seemed to be trembling again or was it my imagination?

"Let's go, Johnny, and please remind me, I want to come back here on the 30th. I think Uncle Ed would like that better."

"I agree," little Johnny squeezed my hand then bent down and gently touched the little American flag on my uncle's grave. "See you on the 30th for sure," he whispered.

We started to walk away and Johnny turned to me very solemnly, "Mom, about my birthday..."

Thank you

To the Mount Prospect Fire Chief: We wish to thank the Mount Prospect paramedics and Mount Prospect Police Department for a job well done.

On the afternoon of April 13, my daughter and I came home and found my husband unconscious. After we telephoned the fire department, it seemed like only moments before the paramedics and police arrived at our house. The paramedic team treated my husband promptly and efficiently, and at all times were in contact with the emergency room of Northwest Community Hospital, where they transported him immediately.

We did not get the names of the paramedics, but we do want to commend them for the excellent job they did. Words can't express our gratitude for their services, and our family is deeply grateful!

Thanks again for a job well done!

Average price in Cook County 62.1 cents

Indiana cracks 60-cent level for premium gasoline

The availability of gasoline in Cook County, Downstate Illinois and northern Indiana remains good, according to the Chicago Motor Club's weekly Fuel Gauge Report.

The report indicates that minor price fluctuations took place in Cook County and downstate Illinois following last week's price increase of 1 to 2 cents, but the average price of gasoline in northern Indiana rose a penny.

The Motor Club report showed that a gallon of regular gasoline averaged 38.3 cents in Cook County while the premium price average was 62.1 cents. This compared with prices of 59.1 cents and 62.0 cents last week.

In downstate Illinois the average price of regular this week was shown to be 38.1 cents while the average premium price was 62.5 cents per gallon. Last week the prices were 58.2 cents and 62.3 cents respectively.

Northern Indiana gasoline prices reflected the only major increase with the average price for regular increasing from 54.9 cents last week to 55.9 cents this week. Premium gasoline rose from an average price of 59.6 cents last week to 60.4 cents this week. This is the first time that Motor Club reports indicate Indiana price averages cracking the 60-cent ceiling.

In the three Motor Club survey areas service station owners predicted that the availability of gasoline will remain stable for the coming week.

In Cook County the survey indicated that 86 per cent of the station owners contacted thought the supplies for the coming week would be the same or better than last week; 99 per cent of the station owners contacted in downstate Illinois thought their supplies would be the same or better than last week; and in northern Indiana 89 per cent of the owners thought their supplies would be the same or better.

The report also indicates that 21 per cent of the Cook County stations, 38 per cent of the downstate Illinois stations, and 14 per cent of the northern Indiana stations in the survey plan some Sunday hours.

On the National scene the American Automobile Assn. report released this week shows that 40 per cent of the nation's service stations are open on Sunday, with the average price of gasoline in the country at 55 cents for regular and 59 cents for premium.

The students were chosen from a list of 46 candidates. To be eligible for membership, students must have at least a B average and be rated well on leadership, character and service.

Members are Mary Jo Alfani, Sue Donnor, Julie Driscoll, Joan Grady, Mary Jo Greco, Lynn Gripman, Anita Henze, Denise Josten, Mary Anne Kenney, Kathleen Kelly, Margie Klein, Barb Langhenry, Pat Payne, Michelle Madziarczyk, Annemarie Marwitz, Suzanne McHale, Mary Beth McCabe, Maribeth Meersman, Therese Rapala, Maureen Redmond, Joan Rosenhauer, Lynn Rusnak, Kathy Schuen, Mary Schlickman, Hilary Ward and Sue White.

Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Assn.

Approximately 1,800 members of the union's Local 788 in Cook County walked off the job Wednesday after a breakdown in talks with the ready mix bargainers. They were followed by members of the following locals Thursday: 179, 301, 330, 423, 673 and 705. Some 3,000 workers were involved in the work stoppage, according to Thomas Connolly, executive director of the ready mix association which has 70 member firms. The strike involved Cook, Will, Lake, DuPage, McHenry, Kane and Grundy counties.

Wages and the possible inclusion of a cost of living escalator clause in the new contract were reported as issues in the dispute. Contracts with the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Assn. expired April 30. Several billion dollars' worth of area road, residential, industrial and commercial construction was hampered by the strike, Connolly said. No comment was available from Local 788 representatives.

THERE'S PLENTY OF noise in the henhouse as Jack collects eggs in the egg workshop at Little City. A not-for-profit, strictly therapeutic business venture, the egg workshop helps retarded boys and girls to function responsibly as they learn to raise and care for the hens; collect, candle and sort eggs; sell them and keep simple records. Little City plans to open a new workshop — a greenhouse — in July.

Economic habilitation

The egg and Little City

by ELEANOR RIVES

The long, narrow aluminum building stretches back from Algonquin Road. A modest sign, an unmistakable farm odor, a cacophony of clucking and cackling identify this as the egg workshop of Little City.

In the turquoise-painted front portion of the structure, a handful of young people banter back and forth as they assemble nuts and bolts during the hours they are not performing tasks relating to the egg operation.

Occasionally a car stops and Karen, a Little City resident, waits on a customer, counts the money, gives change and keeps her egg sales records up to date. Eggs here are large, flawless and very fresh — usually "same day" fresh. And the price more often than not is lower — never higher — than the local supermarket.

AT CERTAIN time intervals, Hayden Simon, egg workshop supervisor, "pays" his workers with various color tokens which may be converted into "gold" tokens which may then be used to purchase items in Little City's general store. Reward is based on performance and behavior, measured not by comparison with other students but according to the capabilities of each individual.

This is behavior modification, the ruling philosophy of Little City, a 56-acre training, treatment, research and habitation center for the mentally handicapped and the emotionally disturbed. Its 150 residents, age 6 to 46 and living in seven cottages, are classified by levels, from borderline-retarded at Level 1 to severely retarded at Level 5. Motivated by an incentive program, students who prove their capabilities at one level are promoted to the next.

GOOD BEHAVIOR and adequate performance are encouraged and constantly reinforced with a reward system — rewards such as food or candy, special privileges, tokens convertible into goods at the general store, or, at the highest level of achievement, a paycheck, negotiable at the Little City bank. A more intangible, but very effective, reward is in the form of praise and love.

"Our programs are based on not meeting aggression with aggression," said Mrs. Norine Davies, administrative coordinator.

The egg workshop has been in operation seven days a week, 12 months a year, for the past seven years. Wire cages, enough to accommodate 2,000 hens, stretch in long rows. The cages are filled each September, but during the ensuing year about 300 hens are lost.

PRESENTLY THERE are about 1,000 hens in the egg workshop, producing around 600 eggs a day. Of approximately 4,200 eggs produced in a week, 2,040 go directly to Little City's kitchen; the rest are sold to the public.

To be of most therapeutic value to students, the egg workshop is purposely lacking in automation or sophisticated machinery. Fourteen students and a supervisor are involved in its operation. Students are responsible for feeding the chickens twice a day and for culling out any unhealthy ones.

They collect eggs (which have rolled forward to a wire rim); wash them; dry them; and give them to the candler, a student who checks them for flaws, then grades and packages them. The sales transactions and records are also handled by a student. One of the less pleasant jobs, but one which must be done periodically, is shoveling the chicken manure to an auger to be carried away.

FIVE MILLION children in America today are innocent victims of mental retardation. Little City, situated at the junction of Route 62 (Algonquin Road) and Roselle Road, Palatine, is dedicated to the personal, social and economic development of the mentally handicapped. The egg workshop is part of its economic habilitation program.

Young people may advance from the sheltered workshop to the egg workshop where multi-staged tasks involve not only individual responsibility but team effort as well, with a resulting increase of concentration and lengthening of attention span.

When a student's capabilities are proven in the egg workshop, he may advance to vocational training. Simple office skills, food service work, housekeeping, home economics, the duties of a nurse's aide, interior and exterior maintenance work, auto maintenance — these are some of the learning programs available to those able to benefit from them. When a student graduates from one of these programs and is able to find employment, particularly off-grounds employment, there is great rejoicing among the staff.

"THESE YOUNG people are such hard workers," said Mrs. Davies. "We encourage stores, restaurants, short-order drive-ins, gas stations, motels, to consider them for employment." Any interested employers may call Alfred Freeburg, director of vocational training at Little City, 359-5510, to discuss such a possibility.

Mrs. Davies also stressed the need for volunteer help at Little City — in the sheltered workshop, the egg workshop, the office, the general store. Do you have a little time to spare? Give her a call.

And of course the public can support the egg workshop program by stopping to purchase eggs — between 9:30 a.m. and noon on Monday and Friday; from 9:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. the other five days of the week, except for the noon to 1:30 lunch hour.

A cash contribution to buy chickens is also welcome, as is money for grain. It all helps — even if it's just chicken feed.

RECORD-KEEPING is part of Jack's job in the egg workshop, a learning area to which students advance from the sheltered workshop. Little City's goal is personal, social and economic development for each resident.

EGGS ARE LARGE, fresh and reasonably priced at Little City's egg workshop, Algonquin and Roselle Roads, Palatine. A supervisor and 14 mentally handicapped young people are involved in the workshop, one of several therapeutic programs designed to lead them to eventual employment as self-supporting adults.

Putting the bite on her mate

Some friends of ours, from all appearances a very happy couple, have a strain on their marriage that they are quite willing to talk about. It is one that is simply dental.

Her case is that she has rotten teeth, generally speaking. She has spent so much time in the dentist's chair that, during her last siege of repairs, she told her dentist that if he didn't hurry and finish the job pretty soon, it would be time for her six month check-up.

Now, his position is one of having teeth impervious to the stresses of contemporary living, and he goes once in a while to the dentist just to have them cleaned.

These friends accepted and even laughed about their differences until recently when, at a party, everyone got talking about orthodontics.

"WHY, LOOK AT your husband!" a woman, not too popular with my friend, gushed. "He has a perfect bite!" Then the woman encouraged him to show off his well-aligned choppers, which he did proudly.

It was this event that really put stress on the marriage when the subject was teeth.

It got to the point that when she heard that the dentist recommended pulling one of her husband's wisdom teeth, our friend was overjoyed. She suggested to the dentist that he do it without anesthetic so her spouse could experience some of the fun she enjoyed in the dentist's chair. But then she felt a bit of remorse at having done that, so, when he was about to return from his appointment, she located the aspirin, a heating pad and warmed up some clear broth for him to sip.

As she admitted later, it was a twinge of pity mixed with a touch of joy that she felt when he arrived home with a long face and a puffed-out right cheek.

"HOW DO YOU feel honey?" she asked sympathetically.

"Umpt," he managed to respond.

"I know just how terrible you must feel," she said pointedly but kindly.

Then he began to laugh. As his wife watched in amazement, he reached in his mouth and pulled out the cotton pack that was holding his cheek out. It was wet, but clean. Then he explained that the dentist decided to fill the cavity in the tooth rather than extract it.

"He reevaluated the situation," he said, "and decided that the removal of the tooth might result in ruining —"

His wife finished the sentence for him.

ELK GROVE HOMEMAKERS

Elk Grove Unit of the Homemakers Extension Association meets at Mrs. Edward Moder's in Roselle on Wednesday, beginning at 10:30 a.m. with a plant exchange and a craft lesson on corn husk dolls given by Mrs. M. Galtisch. She will bring all the necessary kits for those interested.

At 11 a.m. Mrs. Russell Gardner will give a talk on "Supplemental Security Income" and at 11:15 home adviser Shirley McCann will present two lessons. One is on "Planning for Leisure," the other "The Food You Eat Turns into You."

Dessert hostesses are Mrs. L. Haberkamp and Mrs. C. Heinkel.

Mrs. Edward Schmidt was elected chairman and Mrs. Edward Koops secretary at the last meeting. The other officers continue for two years.

CAMBRIDGE WOMEN

Mrs. Alan Ericson of Buffalo Grove will be installed as president of Cambridge Countryside Women's Club at the group's May luncheon Wednesday at the Northern Chalet, Libertyville.

Vice presidents to be installed are Mrs. Gerald Gayle and Mrs. Richard Peterson. Mrs. Thomas Wollan will become secretary and Mrs. Eugene Thielke, treasurer.

Hostesses for the luncheon are retiring president Mrs. Joseph Rebolitti and her board.

Old-time remedy covers nicks in wood furniture

Dear Dorothy: Our furniture is a "sight" in many ways. It isn't simply a job of cleaning that's needed, but a way of covering up scratches and nicks. Is there any way we can do it ourselves and spare the cost of professional refinishing? —Mrs. Jane Thomas

I think so — providing those nicks aren't too deep. It's an old-time remedy and really works wonders on most good woods. Use a fork to beat together two-thirds of a cup of boiled linseed oil and one-third cup of vinegar. Please don't misread this to mean you boil the linseed oil. Not on your life. You buy it this way; just ask for boiled linseed oil at the hardware store. Dampen a cloth with this mixture and immediately rub it with a soft cloth. You'll be surprised how good a job it does.

Dear Dorothy: A friend tells me of an intriguing way to poach fresh salmon. She wraps the fresh fish tightly in aluminum foil, then lays it on the upper rack of the dishwasher.

She lets it run a full cycle — without any dishes or detergent in the washer, of course — then seasons it the usual way when serving. Since you are the great experimenter, I hope you're game to try it. —Heleen Hornby

This is an experiment I'd try only if the salmon was a gift and I had nothing to lose. I consider it too luscious a fish just to play a "maybe" trick with.

Dear Dorothy: I make a square bag (or pocket) out of coarse nylon net and fill it with soap scraps. The net acts as a gentle abrasive and it lathers up beautifully and cleans hands exceptionally well. When the soap is gone, I pull out the thread on one side, fill up the bag, sew it up again and it's ready for another round — Louise Blythe

The American Medical Association warns that "little strokes" which pass almost unnoticed and do not seem serious enough to require medical attention can cause permanent brain damage.

One-piece swimsuit is back

The one-piece swim suit is making a big splash on the beaches for summer '74. The bikini is still holding its own but the one-piece adds a bit of variety to the sun and surf circuit.

This isn't a good reason, however, to forget about spring dieting. The new one-piece models are totally unconstructed and sometimes baring than bikinis. In second-skin fabrics, they reveal every curve in your figure. They're cut low in

To accompany swimsuits, all designers offer a line of sundresses for beach, patio or entertaining. Ankle-length skirts, flowing caftans and long coverups, with or without the halter effect, are ever-present.

TIPS FOR THE BRIDE-TO-BE. The Empire style wedding gown will always be popular because the silhouette is becoming to almost any figure.

Bridesmaids dresses should not be so fussy that they detract from the bride's gown. Also, the backs of the bridesmaid's dresses should be interesting as they will be seen most during the ceremony, the bridesmaids facing the altar.

Fashion

by Karen

The maid or matron of honor usually is set off from the other bridesmaids by some difference in her dress. It may be only that her bouquet or headpiece is different, or her gown may be completely different in style or color.

A sewing book for the blind

The first sewing book for the blind and visually impaired has been published by the Catholic Guild for the Blind in Chicago. Printed in both Braille and large type print, it is called "So What About Sewing."

A practical "how-to" publication containing instructions for beginners as well as those with sewing experience, the book includes techniques for sewing by hand and by machine. It also tells how to cut, rip, pin, follow and make patterns, sew darts, install zippers, make collars and belts, etc.

The book may be ordered for $8 in check or money order from Catholic Guild for the Blind, 87 W. Division St., Chicago 60610.

"LOSE A POUND A DAY THE MEDICAL WAY!"

the front and lower in the back for the sleek, slender look.

Think back to the tank suits worn in swim classes, and you see the basic style of the new one-piece. But they've been gussied up in perky prints, shimmering solids an even polka dots.

THE CLEAVAGE, always low, is adorned with ruffles, chains or other trinkets, making that area the focal point of the look. The back too is cut low, almost to the derriere, in fact.

For the less than perfect figure, the skirted one-piecers, with bare backs and necklines are suggested. They are fashioned in print jerseys that move sensuously over the body.

New from swimwear designers is coverup and support, for the women who bags and sags or is well endowed.

Designers recently exposed a more practical swimsuit that can go anywhere or do anything. Some were more coverup than skin.

TAKING FULL advantage of the lightweight Lycra, Spandex, Antron and nylon fabrics, many suits have little padding. The support comes, instead, from a well-engineered lining that hugs the body without being heavy and padded. Straps are well placed, with many drawn to the center back and clasped.

The maillot, a simple one-piece suit features a high neck and is pure sophistication. Others feature draping or shirring, going back to the 1940s. The look is lean, tapered and elegant, but sexy and simple too.

Heavily padded bras are eliminated, with support coming from a built-in triangle that maintains the natural look.

'Unseen killer'

Glass doors in the home are often described as the "unseen killer" because of the number of accidents in which they are involved each year. Decals, ornamental bars and grills are recommended by home economists to make glass doors in homes visible and thereby prevent serious accidents.

Gail Hollinger

A July 7 wedding is planned by an area couple, Gail Hollinger of Arlington Heights and John Hillary of Mount Prospect. Their engagement and wedding date are announced by Gail's parents, the Roy P. Hollingers, 1306 Heather Lane.

The bride-to-be graduated from Arlington High School in '66 and then from St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing. She is now a nurse at Northwest Community Hospital.

Her fiancé, son of the Henry Hillarys, 207 S. Louis, has a bachelor's degree from Marquette University and a master's from Northern Illinois University. He teaches science at Forest View High School.

Carol Anne Shepardon

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Shepardon, 1383 Cumberland Circle West, Elk Grove Village, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Anne, to David Nash Paddock, son of the Robert S. Paddocks of Chassel, Mich.

An Aug. 3 wedding is planned in Queen of the Rosary Church, Elk Grove.

After graduating from Elk Grove High School, Carol attended Elmhurst College and now manages the Chicken Unlimited Restaurant in Elk Grove. Her fiancé attended Lake Forest College and is an owner of Aviation Associates, Inc. at Chicagoland Airport.

Ruth Suckow

College juniors Ruth Suckow and Ron Roszak are engaged and planning to be married July 12, 1975, after graduation.

Ruth is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Earl E. Suckow, 617 Glendale Lane, Mount Prospect. Ron's parents are the Edward J. Roszaks of 2500 Dove St., Rolling Meadows.

Both graduated from Forest View High School, Ruth in '71 and her fiancé in '70. She is majoring in special education at Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis.; he is at Marquette University, Milwaukee, studying accounting.

Cynthia Pearson

The engagement of Cynthia Jane Pearson to David Joseph Talaber, son of the Joseph J. Talabers, 1015 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Pearson of Western Springs.

David is a graduate of St. Viator High School and the University of Illinois and works in the research and development department of Weber Marking Systems, Arlington Heights. Cindy will graduate in June from the U. of I.

No wedding date has been set.

Rape study committee asks public response to survey

THE HERALD

Monday, May 20, 1974

Section 2 —5

A Rape Study Committee set up by the Illinois House of Representatives has issued a questionnaire to be filled out by anyone who has been a victim of rape or who has knowledge of such an attack.

The committee, which has been holding public hearings throughout the state, will use the information it gathers to recommend changes in existing laws on sexual assault.

Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, chairman of the committee, said in a statement accompanying the questionnaire that public response to the survey "could provide us with invaluable assistance in determining our recommendations to the General Assembly."

Jaffe said the committee is "vitaly concerned," not only with the low rape conviction rate, but also with the low rate of reporting sexual attacks to the police by the victim.

Although Jaffe could not be reached for further comment before publication, another committee member, Rep. Adeline Geo-Karis, R-Zion, disclosed some potential recommendations the committee has discussed. These include:

- Setting a higher bond for alleged rapists.
- Instituting preliminary court hearings in alleged rape cases in place of grand jury hearings. Rep. Geo-Karis explained that a grand jury hears only one side — the prosecution; a court hearing would bring out both sides.
- Allowing the background of a defendant, including any previous arrests, to be brought out in court. This can't be done now.
- Increasing the minimum penalty for conviction, or instituting gradations in penalties.
- Providing for closed courtrooms during rape hearings.
- Requiring a convicted rapist to be okayed by a panel of psychiatrists before he is allowed to leave the jurisdiction after his release. This proposal, Rep. Geo-Karis said, was drawn up by a student body in her district.

Rep. Geo-Karis, who is the only woman on the 8-member committee and is its secretary, said there is "no doubt in our minds that something has to be done." Asked why there aren't more women on the committee, she said she didn't know, but added, "I don't think the women need worry about that. I am a lawyer and I have tried and prosecuted rape cases."

But, she conceded that "some of the men on the committee take the attitude that maybe we're making too much of an emotional pitch" with regard to the rape problem. "It will remain to be seen what kind of legislation can be passed," she said.

Other members of the committee include Rep. Peter P. Peters, R-Chicago, vice-chairman; Rep. Eugene M. Barnes, D-Chicago; Rep. Robert H. Holloway, R-Chicago; Rep. Roger P. McAuliffe, R-Chicago; Rep. J. Glenn Schneider, D-Naperville; Rep. Harold Washington, D-Chicago.

Please answer the following questions and return to: Rep. Aaron Jaffe, Chairman, Rape Study Committee, 4849 W. Golf Road, Skokie, Ill. 60076.

This is where shoplifting stops being "fun."

If you've ever thought about doing a little shoplifting, think again.

Think how easy it is to get caught.

Think how it must feel to get caught.

Think how you'd answer the question that's on every job application, "Have you ever been arrested? If so, explain."

Think how—to the people you know, and the people you love, and yes, even to yourself—you can never be the same person again.

Think about it.

Super show

Prospect's Trudi Rebsamen sets national record

The girls didn't settle for a second-rate production.

They went first class all the way. It was spectacular.

That's the only way to describe the record-smashing second annual Illinois High School Association Girls State Track and Field meet Friday and Saturday in Charleston.

With Herald area competitors doing their part and joining in the fun, headed by the sensational Trudi Rebsamen of Prospect High School, the Illinois girls smashed four national marks and five state records on the Lincoln Field layout at Eastern Illinois University.

Illopolis won the team title with 17 points, four ahead of Springfield Southeast and Maine South, but the individual performances took the spotlight over two days when even rain couldn't slow down the girls.

Herald area entries brought home 26 points and four titles, and it was the dazzling Miss Rebsamen of Prospect who stole the show in giving her team a tie for fourth with 10 points.

Trudi, a 16-year-old junior who was a double winner in the 1973 state finals, repeated Saturday in the 220 and 440 yard dashes, but it was her quarter-mile effort that created the biggest splash.

The flying Knight, who won the 440 in 58.4 at the district qualifying at Rolling Meadows, under her 1973 state record of 58.5, dashed around the Lincoln Field layout Saturday in a brilliant 56.5. She qualified Friday in 57.2.

Not only did she win the event by over two seconds (Maine South's Elizabeth Boesen was second in 58.9), but she took six-tenths of a second off the national girls record set in 1973 by Susan Lattier of Clarkston, Mich. Trudi's time is even more remarkable in that she wasn't pushed.

The 16-year-old admitted she was going for the record but wasn't sure if she had run fast enough. "My ultimate goal is to run in the Olympics," she said, "and I would like to be the first woman to break 50 seconds in the 440."

Trudi was a double winner for the second straight year, adding a 25.3 victory in the 220 yard dash which was three-tenths of a second over her 1973 effort but two-tenths better than her district qualifying time. She had set a record of 24.5 in the Friday qualifying.

Mary Ann Johnson of Conant, who was third in the shot put in 1973 and who has bettered the existing state record each time she has competed, got off a throw of 42 feet 11½ inches in Charleston. That smashed the mark of 38-9½ set by Jeanne Knight of Centralia last spring.

Melody Miller of Maine East gave the area its other first with a state record of 2:14.9 in the 880 yard run, smashing the mark of 2:16.3 set by a Lincoln-Way runner in the Friday qualifying. Melody is a 15-year-old sophomore who won the 880 in 2:23.1 in 1973.

The Maine East standout, a double winner last year, couldn't repeat in the mile although she knocked 10 seconds off her 1973 time. Melody finished second in 5:13.8 while the winner Lisa Hamity of Oak Park ran a national record of 5:04.5.

The area also featured points from Laura Buddenbaum of Hoffman Estates, who was such a sensation in the qualifying at Conant. Laura was fourth in the 110 low hurdles in 15.7, five-tenths of a second behind Debbie Kilhoffer of Illiopolis. Debbie set a national mark of 15.2.

The other national mark in Charleston was 4:07.2 by Maine South in the mile relay.

Deborah Moses of Harrison set a state record of 10.8 in the 80 yard low hurdles after winning the 50 in 6.2.

Other winners at the 1974 state finals were Illopolis in the 440 yard pursuit (record 50.1), Jerri Ann Miller of Mendon (Unity) in the discus (114-0), Illiopolis in the 880 yard pursuit (record 1:46.1), Kim Schofield of Springfield Southeast in the 160 yard dash (11.1) and long jump (18-7½), and Andra Olson of Sycamore in the high jump (5-6).

National record-holder Trudi Rebsamen of Prospect.

Arlington locks up tennis honors; Fremd, Prospect in runnerup spot

by PAUL LOGAN
Tennis Editor

You could say that the Mid-Suburban League's tennis championships showcased the stars of the future — four freshmen played in the finals.

You could also say that the Friday-Saturday showdown saw Fremd High School's team finish with a share of second place — it's most lofty placing ever.

You could also add that the league was fortunate to play the semifinals and finals despite the rain Saturday — thanks to the hospitality of the River Trails Tennis Club.

The above happenings were among the more unusual of this annual event whose outcome has almost always been a foregone conclusion. That being for the ninth straight year the Arlington Cardinals have taken home the team trophy.

Arlington nearly had the title locked up in the trophy case on Friday. Only Fremd had a mathematical shot, but that possibility quickly was eliminated in the semifinals when all the Vikings were defeated.

Moving methodically through the semis, the Cardinals captured four of the five individual championships. Jon Paczkowski and Paul Wei won first and second singles, respectively. Taking the first doubles crown was the team of Craig VanGorp and John Yeazel. Second doubles champs were Roger Lockwood and Luke Weeg.

Becoming the first non-Arlington player to win a title in the last couple of years was Tom Wegner, Prospect's consistent third singles player. Knight coach Jim Wright was elated with the play of his fine junior.

Tom Pitchford, Arlington's head man, was just as proud of his champions, especially his senior star — Paczkowski. "It was one of his best showings," said Pitchford of Jon's title match.

Paczowski, who won the Arlington District singles title the week before, met Buddy Edmondson of Conant, winner of the Maine West District. Arlington's ace won 6-2, 6-0. His sharp overall play drew ooooh's and ahhh's from the spectators.

This three-time MSL champion advanced to the finals with wins over Schaumburg's Gary Wright (6-2, 6-3) and Prospect's Tom Frederick (6-1, 6-4). Edmondson had defeated Rolling Meadows' Chuck Fischer (6-0, 6-0) and Forest View's Greg Meyer (6-3, 6-3).

Wei, — like all the Cardinal champs — went through the MSL dual meet season with a perfect record. Only a freshman, Arlington's budding star won his first title with a pair of 6-4 decisions against Hersey's Keith Rayner.

The young champ's other victories were over Forest View's Chuck Cookley (6-1, 6-2) and Fremd's Rich Courtney (6-1, 6-2). Rayner reached the finals by beating Conant's Kurt Kupitz (6-4, 6-2) and Palatine's Mac Bennison (6-0, 6-0).

VanGorp, a veteran senior, teamed with Yeazel, a talented junior, to wade through the competition with as much success as they did the week before while winning the district doubles title. They met a fine Prospect doubles team — Dave Hughson and Mike Armenakis — and defeated them 6-3, 6-2 in the finals.

The "VG-Y" combo waltzed to the finals with only one game lost. They stopped Schaumburg's Dennis Yarak and Drew Kron (6-1, 6-0) and Fremd's Bob Norris and Tom Jensen (6-0, 6-0).

Hughson and Armenakis turned in the most exciting semifinal match. Playing Hersey's John Walsworth and Bruce McAlister, the Knight twosome rallied in the third set for the victory (4-6, 6-3, 6-4). Their other win was over Palatine's Bob Day and Jerry McNabney (6-2, 7-5).

Arlington's Lockwood, a senior, and Weeg, a junior, polished off their opponents — Palatine's Mike Esenberg and Phil Groesbeck — 6-0, 6-2. However, this pair of Pirates won the praise of their coach, John Carlson, for their big upset in the semi-finals.

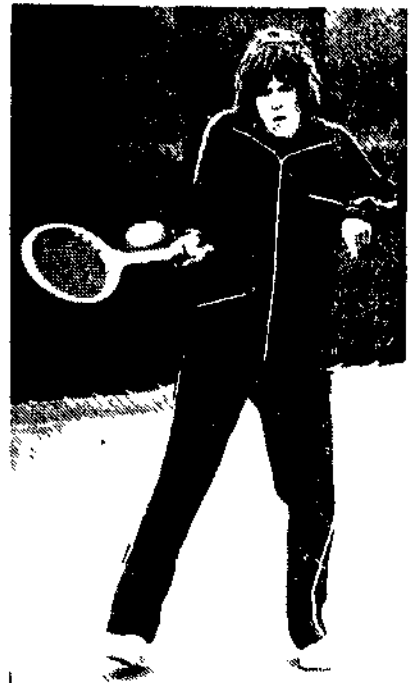

Although only freshmen, they reached the finals with impressive wins over Fremd's Steve Adashek and Chris Harris (6-4, 6-4) and Elk Grove's Bill Hatzold and Ken Vasquez (2-6, 6-2, 6-4).

Lockwood and Weeg posted wins over Prospect's Bruce Melge and Mark Greenwood (6-2, 6-3) and Hersey's Steve Felice and Scott Powell (6-4, 6-3).

The final match of the afternoon featured not only a great battle between

Lion golfers earn trip to state tourney

Golf Editor

They took the blindfold off at Indian Valley Country Club in Long Grove.

And what to St. Viator's wondering eyes did appear was a course with two holes under water that would serve as the Illinois High School Association's Sectional Golf Meet.

"I've never seen worse conditions for such an important meet," Lion head coach Ken Peck said of the last minute switch from the Deerfield Park District Golf Course to Indian Valley.

"My kids had never played this course. We spent all week practicing at Deerfield. We ended up playing two holes twice because of the two under water."

But good teams adjust and that's exactly what Viator did in stroking a team total 310 for third place and earning the right to compete in Champaign next week in the state meet for the first time in the school's history!

The site of the sectional test was changed simply because Deerfield Park District was unplayable. Indian Valley wasn't much better, but postponement of the tournament was impossible because of the weather Saturday and scheduled conference meets on Monday.

"We've just happy to have gotten out of here still alive," Peck said of the tense finish that found the Lions, Deerfield and Glenbrook South scrambling for the third and final qualifying spot.

Barrington was the sectional's undisputed winner with a magnificent round of 294 over the 6,200-yard, par 35-38-73 layout.

New Trier East carded runnerup honors with a 301 while the Lions snuck into third with 310. Deerfield checked in with 311 for a close, but eliminating fourth and Glenbrook South was just another stroke back in fifth with 312.

Waukegan finished sixth with 320, Glenbrook North seventh with 321, Carmel eighth with 333 and McHenry ninth with 354.

Viator's superb "blind" effort was paced by hot-shooting Tom McEnerney who fired a fabulous 32 over the front nine and 43 on the back for a team-leading 75.

Larry Peifer contributed important support via the same route with a nifty 35-41-76 and Mike Fitton became the third Lion to card a sub-90 round with a 37-41-78.

Kevin Hanigan put Viator into the state playoff with a 39-42-81 while Jim Pavik will fill out the Lion quintet in Champaign after firing a 44-44-88.

The 13th and 14th holes at Indian Valley were unplayable, so holes 10 and 3 were played twice to account for the 18-hole totals.

"I was very optimistic when we made the turn (after nine-holes)," Peck admitted. "But you can see how much more difficult the back nine played. There was absolutely no roll on the ball once it hit, so these kids deserve a lot of credit for the way they came through in the clutch."

Individually, the scores were spectacular considering there was no practice prior to the important clash. No less than four players tied for medalist honors with one-under-par 72's.

Waukegan's Dave Ogrin won the sudden-death playoff while New Trier East's Jerry Maatman finished second. Gary Hallberg and Scott Stahr of Barrington finished third and fourth, respectively, with the same 72 shot score while New Trier East's Dave Montross notched fifth with a 73.

Palatine freshman Nick Zambole toured the grounds in 37-43 and missed qualifying for the state meet by seven shots.

"We can't be happy with third place anymore," Peck said in reference to the Champaign conclusion. "We're going for broke now."

The East Aurora Sectional was postponed by rain and will be played at Fox Bend Country Club in Oswego this morning. Forest View and Maine West are vying for advancement on a team basis while Conant's Tim Davey is shooting for state on an individual level.

DESTINATION: DOWNSTATE. Headed for their first taste of Champaign are St. Viator's sectional

vik, Tom Hermanson, Mike Fitton and Kevin Hanigan. The Lions finished third at Indian Valley.

Rain stops and trackmen respond with sharp district performances

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

Just when the area's track and field creatures were lined up and ready to be herded onto a waiting Ark, the rains came to a stop Friday afternoon at Prospect.

So now, instead of searching for Mount Ararat, the trackmen will file two by two down to Charleston this weekend for the state meet in pursuit of more medals and dry ground.

The weeklong deluge interrupted itself for several hours during the district meet, letting athletes from 18 schools qualify for the state finals. Fifty-five qualifying times and distances were recorded at Prospect, including the top five finishers in the pole vault, the 880-yard run, the mile, the two-mile, and the mile relay.

Qualifiers needed to place first or second in their events or else meet pre-set standards while finishing third, fourth or fifth.

Ten schools from the Mid-Suburban League will send representatives to Charleston. Leading the way will be Forest View, the conference champ, with trackmen in four individual events plus the mile relay. Schaumburg also placed qualifiers in five events and Fremd will dispatch four.

But the most impressive team showing was made by Maine West of the Central Suburban League. The Warriors, led by Dave Braun and Bill Klippert, managed 10 separate qualifying performances.

Klippert earned the trip downstate with a second place in the high hurdles (:14.5), a tie for second in the lows (:39.4), and a contributing leg in the Warriors' first place running of the mile relay (3:26). He was joined in that race by Kevin Skahan, Rich Pawelko and Greg Klebe.

Braun took runner-up spots in the triple jump and the long jump (41-11½ and 21¼). Maine West's only individual winner was Klebe, who ran the 880 in 1:55.3.

The warriors piled up 43½ points to carry off the team honors. They were followed in the standings by Maine East with four first places and 36 points, Forest View with 25, Schaumburg with 23, Antioch with 22, and Maine South with 21.

Only one double winner emerged from the competition—Mike Jones of Antioch. Jones captured firsts in the 100-yard dash and the 220, edging McHenry's Everett Klappertich in both races. The one-two finishers were the only qualifiers in the 100 and the 220 as no one could hit the qualifying times of :10.0 and :22.6. Jones' times were :10.1 and :22.3.

The big disappointment of the evening was the absence of Hersey's half-miler Chris Cooney. The Huskie senior sustained a foot injury which forced him to the sidelines before the start of the 880-run.

Two other area hopes came through, as expected, with winning performances. John Sloan of Rolling Meadows tossed the shot 50-½, comfortably ahead of Forest View's Craig Brinkman (53-5½) and Fremd's Rich Sharpe (52-5½), who both qualified.

Steve Schellenberger of Forest View raced to victory in the 440-yard dash in a time of :49.8, well in front of Maine West's Skahan, who qualified in :50.8.

Another outstanding local runner, Chuck Bell of Palatine, flashed to an impressive mile win in 4:19.2. The next four finishers were all under 4:24 and they all qualified: Joe Paul of Maine West, Dave Scott of Fremd, Dave Elderkin of Conant, and Paul Mademann of Maine West.

In the two-mile run Jay McCarthy of Hersey regained the form he had shown earlier in the year by taking a 9:23.6 victory. McCarthy trailed Schaumburg's Arnie Jackson for more than half the race, but he came on fast for the win. Jackson qualified along with Dave Senf of Maine South, Mike Rohrer of Fremd, and Jim McInerney of McHenry.

Three pole vaulters — Bruce Mahlig of Schaumburg, Brian Murphy of Maine South, and Conant's Doug Paape — broke the district mark with vaults of 13-10½, but none of the three could make 14-4. Kevin Freund of McHenry and Grant McNeerney of Fremd both reached 13-4 to qualify.

Schaumburg's Ed Martin won the long jump (21-9¼) and he took a fourth in the high hurdles with a qualifying time of :14.7, behind a winning :14.4 turned in by Barrington's Mark Sturwald.

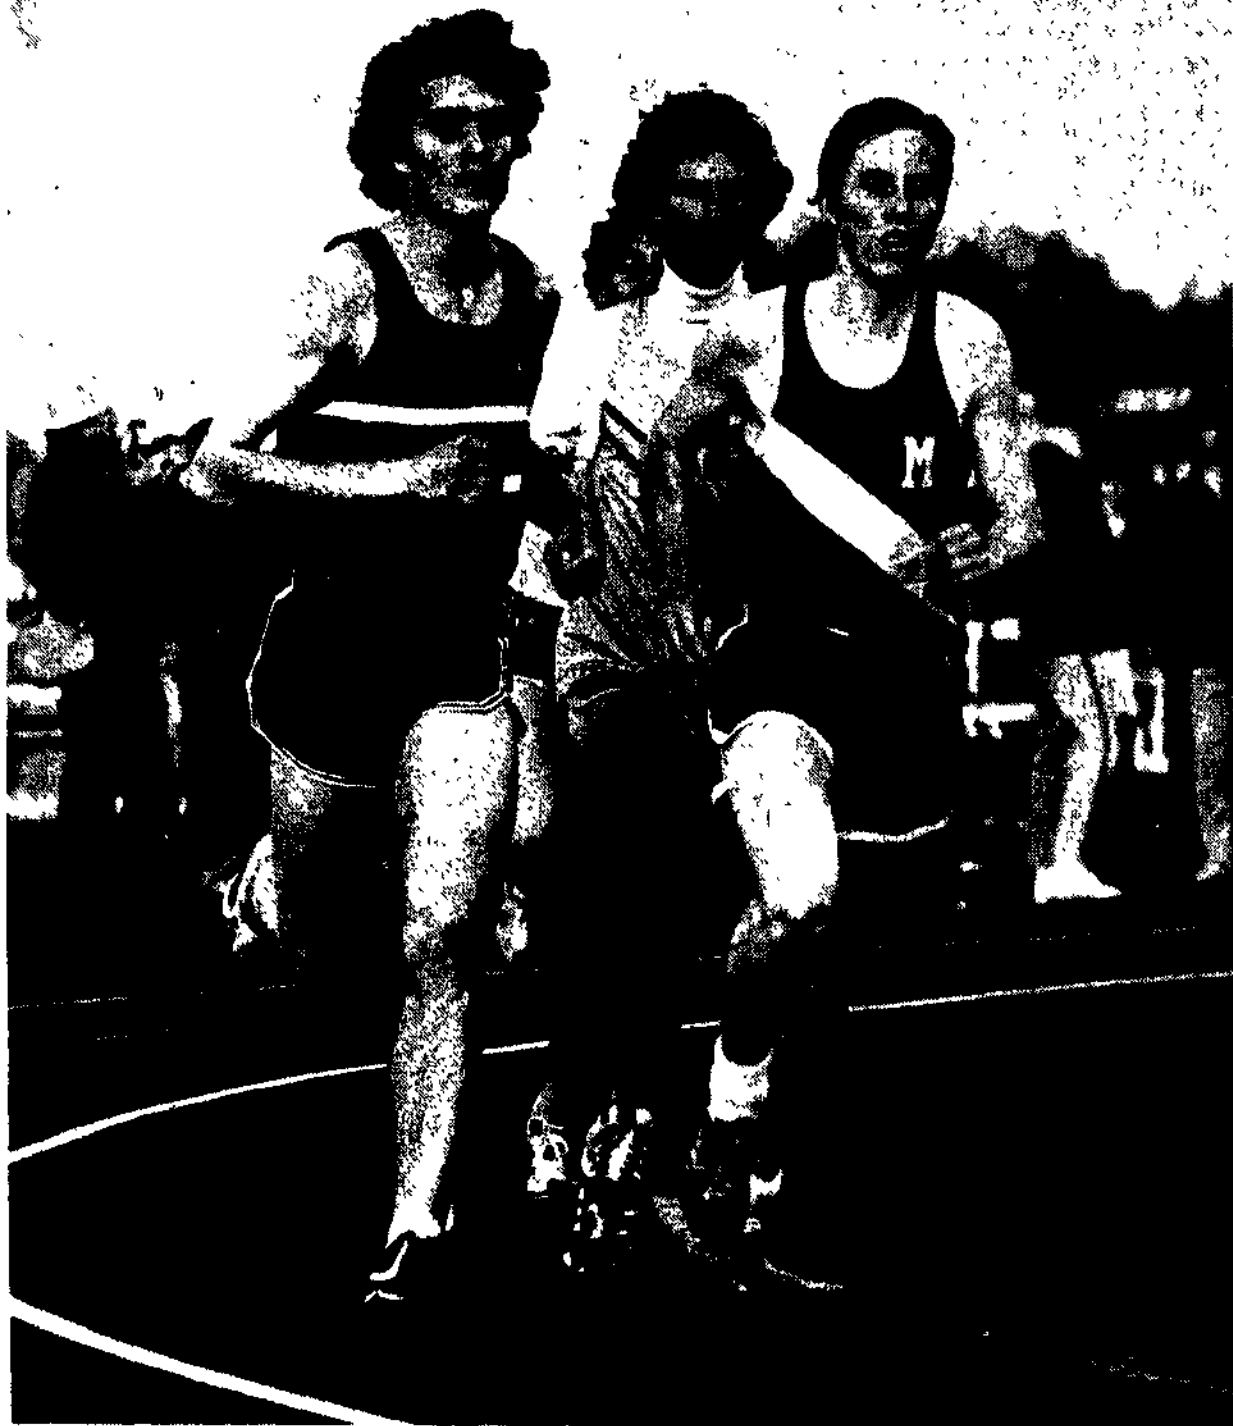

Maine East took both the 440-yard relay and the 880-relay by easy margins. Sam Rea, Brian Nathanson, Mike Kallal, and Scott Peola ran both races for the Demons. Maine South qualified with second spots in both relays.

Maine East had two individual winners, giving the Demons four first places, the most for any team. Bob Racanelli took discus honors with a heave of 154-5, just ahead of Brinkman of Forest View, who also qualified. The high jump winner was Mike Smith of Maine East at 6-4. He will be joined at Charleston by teammate Rocky Read and Antioch's Vic McGuire who both reached 6-3.

Forest View's Dave Matz won the low hurdles in :39.2, and there was a three-way tie for the second qualifying spot at :39.4 among Dave King of Elk Grove, Mike Skelton of Prospect, and Klippert of Maine West.

Even without Cooney in the race, five runners qualified in the 880. Following Klebe's winning 1:55.3 were Dave

Lion netmen still in title contention

Rain washed out the semifinal and final rounds of the Suburban Catholic Conference tennis meet Saturday.

St. Viator, the area's only competing team, has two chances for individual championships as the league hopes to continue play this afternoon at Rils Park in Chicago. Jeff Davenport is aiming at a second singles title and Jim Bernardini and Don Barnak are gunning for the first doubles crown.

Paul Orloff, playing at first singles for the first time, won his first match Friday before losing to the No. 2 seeded player, Sean O'Donnell, 6-0, 6-0.

Tony Sallone and Mark Mayle, playing second doubles, also won before losing to the top seed from Marist, 6-0, 6-0.

Pat Fleming dropped his opening match at third singles.

Tri-City ladies open on Tuesday

Eighty ladies will tee off Tuesday morning at Mount Prospect Country Club to begin the 1974 Tri-City Ladies golf season. A spring luncheon recently was held to welcome all new and old members of the league.

1st place pays off

When Ben Hogan won the 1946 Western Open Championship, his first place check was for $2,000. No less than $40,000 first place money will go to the winner of the 1974 Western Open, to be played at Butler National Golf Club in Oak Brook, June 27-30.

Ford—an Open tradition

Doug Ford, winner of the Western Open in 1967, has played in 22 Western Opens, a record number of appearances in the Championship. The 71st Western Open will be played June 27-30 at Butler National Golf Club in Oak Brook.

Confusion continues in baseball tournament action

by KEITH REINHARD

Just as a matter of information, today is Monday, May 20.

That's the day the IHSA regional baseball tournaments begin... the second leg on the journey to the state prep finals in Peoria early next month.

Only there's a catch. In this area, at least, not a single regional champion has been crowned. In the case of one district tournament, in fact, the first ball hasn't even been tossed out.

The chaotic situation is the result of horrendous weather conditions experienced by Chicagoans over the past week-and-a-half. There has been some measure of precipitation daily since May 8 and up through yesterday that amounted to 11 straight days.

Some of the tournaments have squeezed in games between the raindrops. At Barrington they are down to the championship contest and at Wheeling only two bouts are remaining.

But at other sites, where draining is more of a problem, the list of unplayed games is longer and the situation more critical. The IHSA has extended deadlines for completion of these tournaments from last Saturday until tomorrow.

Regional tournaments have now been pushed back to Wednesday openings and there is a possibility they might even be moved back one more day with IHSA consent. After that, no one is certain.

Here's a rundown on the schedules for remaining games at local tournaments as of yesterday morning:

FOREST VIEW

There are three games remaining and Falcon athletic director Bill Beckman has slated a Forest View-Rolling Meadows faceoff for 1 p.m. today followed at 4:15 by a St. Viator-Hersey contest. The two winners would then in theory at least, meet for the title at 4:15 tomorrow.

But what if there is rain in the meantime? "We've been keeping posted on other diamonds in the area but drainage is pretty similar at all of them. If our field is unplayable, chances are the other ones would be too," Beckman noted.

If the tournament is postponed today, an alternate site (quite possibly Pioneer or Heritage Park) would have to be utilized for at least one early game while another is going off at the Forest View diamond and then the winners would meet afterwards.

"Beyond that, I just don't know," sighed Beckman. "Perhaps the state would be agreeable to allowing another day, but we'll cross that bridge when we get to it. Right now we're just trying to take them one day at a time."

Also postponed by the weather were dedication ceremonies planned today naming the Falcon diamond Hal Sprehe Field.

MAINE WEST

A good local roadmap will be the best tool for unravelling this district, where no games have yet been played and as of Sunday, no definite sites had been determined for any of the four matches on the schedule.

Warrior coach Al Carstens compared his own field with the likes of a quagmire as late as Sunday morning so the chances were strong that the games would be played elsewhere. The first one, between Prospect and Maine North, was slated for 1 p.m. today with games two and three (Maine East versus Maine West and Notre Dame versus the winner of game one) set for 4 p.m. this afternoon.

Maine West athletic director Ken Olson, a veteran area observer, cannot remember any past season when the situation was as bad. "I can recall one year when we had to go all the way to Niles West to find a good diamond for finishing up a sectional tournament but that was just one game. Here we have a whole tournament being put off for well beyond a week."

Olson noted that he has looked into playing at least part of the tournament on an all-grass diamond at Northwestern Park in Park Ridge. "We won't make any definite decisions on sites until some time Monday after we've had a chance to check out the conditions of all fields in the area," he said Sunday morning. "And if we can't declare a winner by Tuesday night we'll have to get together with the IHSA for a solution."

LAKE PARK

Three games are still remaining here and tournament officials are hopeful of running them all off on the same day. Larry Peddy, whose Elk Grove squad will meet former MSL foe Glenhard

North at 1:30 p.m. on one diamond today, pointed out, "They squeezed in a game last week so drainage can't be too bad there. I'm glad the tournament isn't being played at our place."

The rest of the lineup finds another game between Fenton and the hosts slated for another Lancer diamond at 1:30 with the two winners colliding at approximately 4 p.m.

WHEELING

Two games remain. The field was very wet after Saturday but Wildcat coach Ron DeBoit was planning on getting a crew to work on it before a 4 p.m. Monday game between Highland Park and Stevenson.

"With just a little break in the weather and some attention our field can be playable by then," DeBoit noted cautiously. His team will then go against the victor in today's game Tuesday at 4 p.m.

BARRINGTON

There should be little difficulty completing this tournament in time. Only the championship match between the host Brochos and Conant remains and it is scheduled for 4:15 today.

"Our field is high and drains well so I don't anticipate any problems... unless it rains straight through Monday and Tuesday," pointed out Barrington coach Joe Plaskas.

Plaskas has also developed an optimistic outlook on tournament play as well. Because of the weather interruptions, he has been able to use his fireballing number one hurler Rob Simond in two tournament games and will come back with him again for the Cougar finale.

"This way, we could go right downstate with one pitcher," he mused.

HIGH SCHOOL teammates but now major league rivals are area products Dave Kingman, left, of the San Francisco Giants and Tom Lundstedt of the Chicago Cubs. Kingman and Lundstedt were prep teammates at Prospect High School under coach Bill Slayton. The Giants will visit Wrigley Field on May 27 and May 29-30. Kingman has been playing first base and third base for the Giants, and Lundstedt is serving as the Cubs' No. 2 catcher.

Waara shoots sizzling 34 in Scratch league

Even though Old Orchard Country Club grounds have never seen more rain during its existence, some very fine scores were carded by members of the Friday night Scratch League.

Particularly one score, by Bruno Waara, was interesting in that he carded three birdies, five pars and one little bogey, a 34 for the nine. His team, Miles and Miles Insurance, took 5½ points from Bob Burrows Chevrolet to move from 7th to fifth place in the team standings.

Bill Hugo and Tom Wallace scored 37's on the back nine to lead Sauganash Corp. to five matches won and seven points over Team No. 8. Only one member of the latter team was present.

Team No. 7, still looking for a sponsor, took five out of seven points for Hussislan and Associates as Bob Allergott carded a 38 on that soggy back nine. Shelby Stewart gave it the college try for the losers. He tied the match and scored a deuce on No. 17. The only other deuce of the evening was scored by Greg Carney on the 17th yard No. 3.

Baird and Warner, with only three members present, earned five points from C. P. Floors. Bob Krohn turned in a 37 for the Bairds, just one over par. The C. P. boys operated under the handicap of only two members present.

All in all, it was unfortunate that only 10 out of 20 matches were played due to absentees. Hopefully, the weather will be more conducive to the game for the remainder of the year.

Winners of Titleist golf balls for closest-to-the-pin on par three holes were Bill Hugo on No. 14 and Shelby Stewart on 17.

78-year-old Jules Stein, MCA still going strong

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD — MCA Inc., which began as a one-man operation in Chicago and grew to become the most influential entertainment giant in history, celebrates its 50th anniversary this month.

Dr. Jules Stein, the man who started it all, is more remarkable than anything else about MCA which is parent to Universal Pictures, Universal Television, the tours, records and a dozen other enterprises.

Sitting behind an antique desk atop the Universal tower, Dr. Stein was bright-eyed and as crisply alert as any man half his age. He is 78 and still the guiding light of the MCA empire.

"The difference between me and the old movie moguls is an education," he said.

A GRADUATE of Rush Medical College and a practicing ophthalmologist, Dr. Stein founded MCA in 1924 to book bands in various cities in the Midwest. It wasn't long before his interest in show business and enormous profits outweighed his love of medicine

"When I was in med school I worked as a musician playing the sax and violin," he recalled. "So I knew the resorts needed music in the summer and I thought up the idea of moving bands from one place to another. Naturally, I got a percentage of their contracts. It was the beginning of one-nighters."

than 600 bands under contract touring the country or playing in hotels. But he had seen the fading of the old brass band era of John Philip Sousa and he began to diversify.

Dr Stein's career is marked by dedication to reaching the top in every field MCA has entered.

HIS COMPANY began booking stage acts, nightclub and hotel singers, comedians and all the rest. The next cycle was acting as agent for recording artists. Then radio.

He hired a young genius named Lew Wasserman in 1936 and MCA became the biggest, richest and most effective talent agency in the world

In 1936 Dr Stein opened offices in Beverly Hills to crack the movie business. Two of his first big clients were Bette Davis and Errol Flynn. Eventually most of the big stars were handled by MCA.

EARLY IN the 1950s Dr. Stein explored television — but with a change In addition to acting as agent for writers, directors and stars, MCA became the top producer of television shows.

"Then the government made us choose between being agents and producers," Dr. Stein said with a grin. "We bought Universal Studios and went full time into production of film and television shows."

Universal was a lightweight studio when MCA bought it. Last year Universal Pictures outgrossed all of them at the boxoffice with "The Sting," — "American Graffiti," "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Day of the Jackal" among others.

HIS STUDIO now produces more television series than any other production company — studio or independent. The studio tour is a whopping success as are other MCA operations. And the biggest of all may be MCA Disco-Vision, movies for home television.

"We're never satisfied until we're at the top of everything we do," said Dr. Stein from the loftiest desk in Hollywood.

Because California is a great place to visit (but not without a car)

Hertz and United Air Lines offer a low-cost California vacation package.

To see big, vast California your way, the way you've always imagined, you've got to have a car.

Because California is unique. With Hollywood, Marineland, Big Sur country, the majestic Golden Gate and the giant redwoods. It's unique, too—because as anybody who's been there can tell you, a car is an essential part of the whole California experience.

That's why Hertz and United Air Lines have put this unique flexible "West Coast . Your Way" package together for you.

For example, for the special low price of only $287.50 per person, United flies you from Chicago to Los Angeles.

And when you arrive, you get a shiny '74 Ford Pinto from Hertz, the worldwide leader in rent-a-cars, for 6 days with unlimited mileage at no extra cost. And the offer also includes Holiday Inn accommodations for 6 nights.*

So you can see all the sights around Los Angeles, and then work your way up the magnificent Pacific Coast to San Francisco. And because it's a Hertz car, you can drop it off in San Francisco at no extra charge and fly home.

With these flexible Hertz/United "West Coast Your Way" plans, there's no limit to what you can do—or the way you do it. You can fly to different California cities, stay for less time or stay longer, choose a roomy long-range standard size car, and vary your itinerary as you choose.

Didn't interfere in school matters: Gill

School superintendent says Stavros 'helped' in village

by RICH HONACK

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill sent a letter Friday to U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will stating that James Stavros never interfered in school matters, and did, in fact, help in several community affairs.

For several hours Friday morning, Gill met with Herald reporters to discuss the letter, which he wrote at the request of Stavros' brother, August. Gill said he wrote the letter "as a matter of principle."

James Stavros pleaded guilty to federal charges of extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In pleading guilty, Stavros also admitted to having enough control over village operations to prevent construction of the three projects if he opposed them.

Gill told The Herald he wrote the letter to Judge Will to use for consideration at the time of Stavros' sentencing or parole. Stavros is expected to be sentenced June 4 and could get a maximum of 83 years in prison and fines totaling $35,000.

ACCORDING TO Gill, there was an understanding between him and Stavros during Gill's 15 years as school superintendent. "It started when I first became superintendent and a precinct worker

Kenneth Gill's letter to judge

"Dear Judge Will:

"This letter concerns James Stavros, who will soon come before you for sentencing. I would in no way condone any wrongdoing that is involved in his case. In fact I am totally distressed by the situation that has arisen in our community and am pleased that the judicial process is proceeding to bring it all to a conclusion. However, I do feel that at such a tragic time as this public opinion often has a tendency to concentrate only on the negative aspects of a person and that any positive factors in this person's life might never be presented to you. I believe deeply that every man has the right of having all aspects of him made known when he stands in judgment.

"In my 15 years as superintendent, Mr. Stavros was a staunch supporter of the school district. I have also during this time been very active in many charitable community projects and always found him to be concerned and willing to work to help the projects become successful. He was most directly responsible for the first community swimming pool to be built in Wheeling.

"However, the one most important point that persuades me to write this letter is the fact that when he was active politically, he always kept his promise to keep politics away from the school district. In all these years he never wavered from that resolve.

"I am taking the unusual step of writing this letter only as an attempt to give a sketchy picture of the positive side of Mr. Stavros. I hope you will find it helpful in your deliberations."

Kenneth F. Gill, Ed.D.
Superintendent

came up to me asking me to give someone a job. I went to Jimmy (Stavros) and told him to stay out of the district.

He (Stavros) said it would never happen again, and it didn't," Gill said.

Gill also had a meeting with Stavros last spring, when two candidates for the school board began receiving financial aid from Wheeling's To Overall Progress Party (TOP). "I told him (Stavros) to stay out of the election and keep his campaign workers away from the polls on election day. He said it would be taken care of," according to Gill.

The two candidates were easily defeated in the election.

Those were the only times Stavros had anything to do with Dist. 21, according to Gill. "I think he really believed that politics should have been kept out of the school system."

GILL BELIEVES that the letter may cause residents to say he is defending Stavros for his wrong doing. "That is not the case at all. I deplore what took place in this village. But I also think there are two sides to every person, and Jimmy (Stavros) did some good for this village," he said.

"It doesn't take guts to be against Jimmy Stavros now. In fact, a lot of the people he helped deny even knowing him. Again it's a matter of principles with me and integrity," Gill said.

While Gill said it was no secret that Stavros was a political force in Wheeling, he was not aware of any specific wrong doings. He added that he was never called before the federal grand jury investigating Wheeling to testify on Stavros' relationship to the school district.

ACCORDING TO Gill, he has talked to several people about the letter and said he contacted The Herald about the situation because he wanted the public to get the story first hand, rather than by rumor.

"I'm in the position where everything I say is linked with the school district. I don't think this is wrong, either, because I feel when you're in a community job it calls for you to get into the community process," he said.

Gill said it is about time the people of Wheeling started to take a stand and get involved in the village. "We've got to start getting some integrity and standing up for principles we believe in."

Youth, 17, arrested after high school blast

A 17-year-old Buffalo Grove youth was charged with criminal damage to property Friday, after he allegedly set off an explosive device in a Buffalo Grove High School locker.

Arrested was Tim Mastandrea, 114 Golfview Terr. who is to appear June 18 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Damage was estimated at $300 by Buffalo Grove police.

School principal Clarence Miller said, "We've talked with him and he doesn't know why he did it." Miller added that no one was injured in the incident, which he said may have been caused by a cherry bomb or several firecrackers.

The lockers damaged are located in Building C on the high school campus in the second-floor general locker area.

The explosion, according to Miller, occurred about 8:15 a.m. Friday. However, the police department did not learn of the incident until 1:25 p.m. and the fire department was told at 4:10 p.m.

Police Chief Harry Walsh said only the high school youth officer had been told and that was about 9:30 a.m. while he was home. The officer then went straight to the school and the rest of the police department learned of the explosion later.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said, "I'm very disturbed that this department was not called to check the rest of the building (for additional explosive devices)."

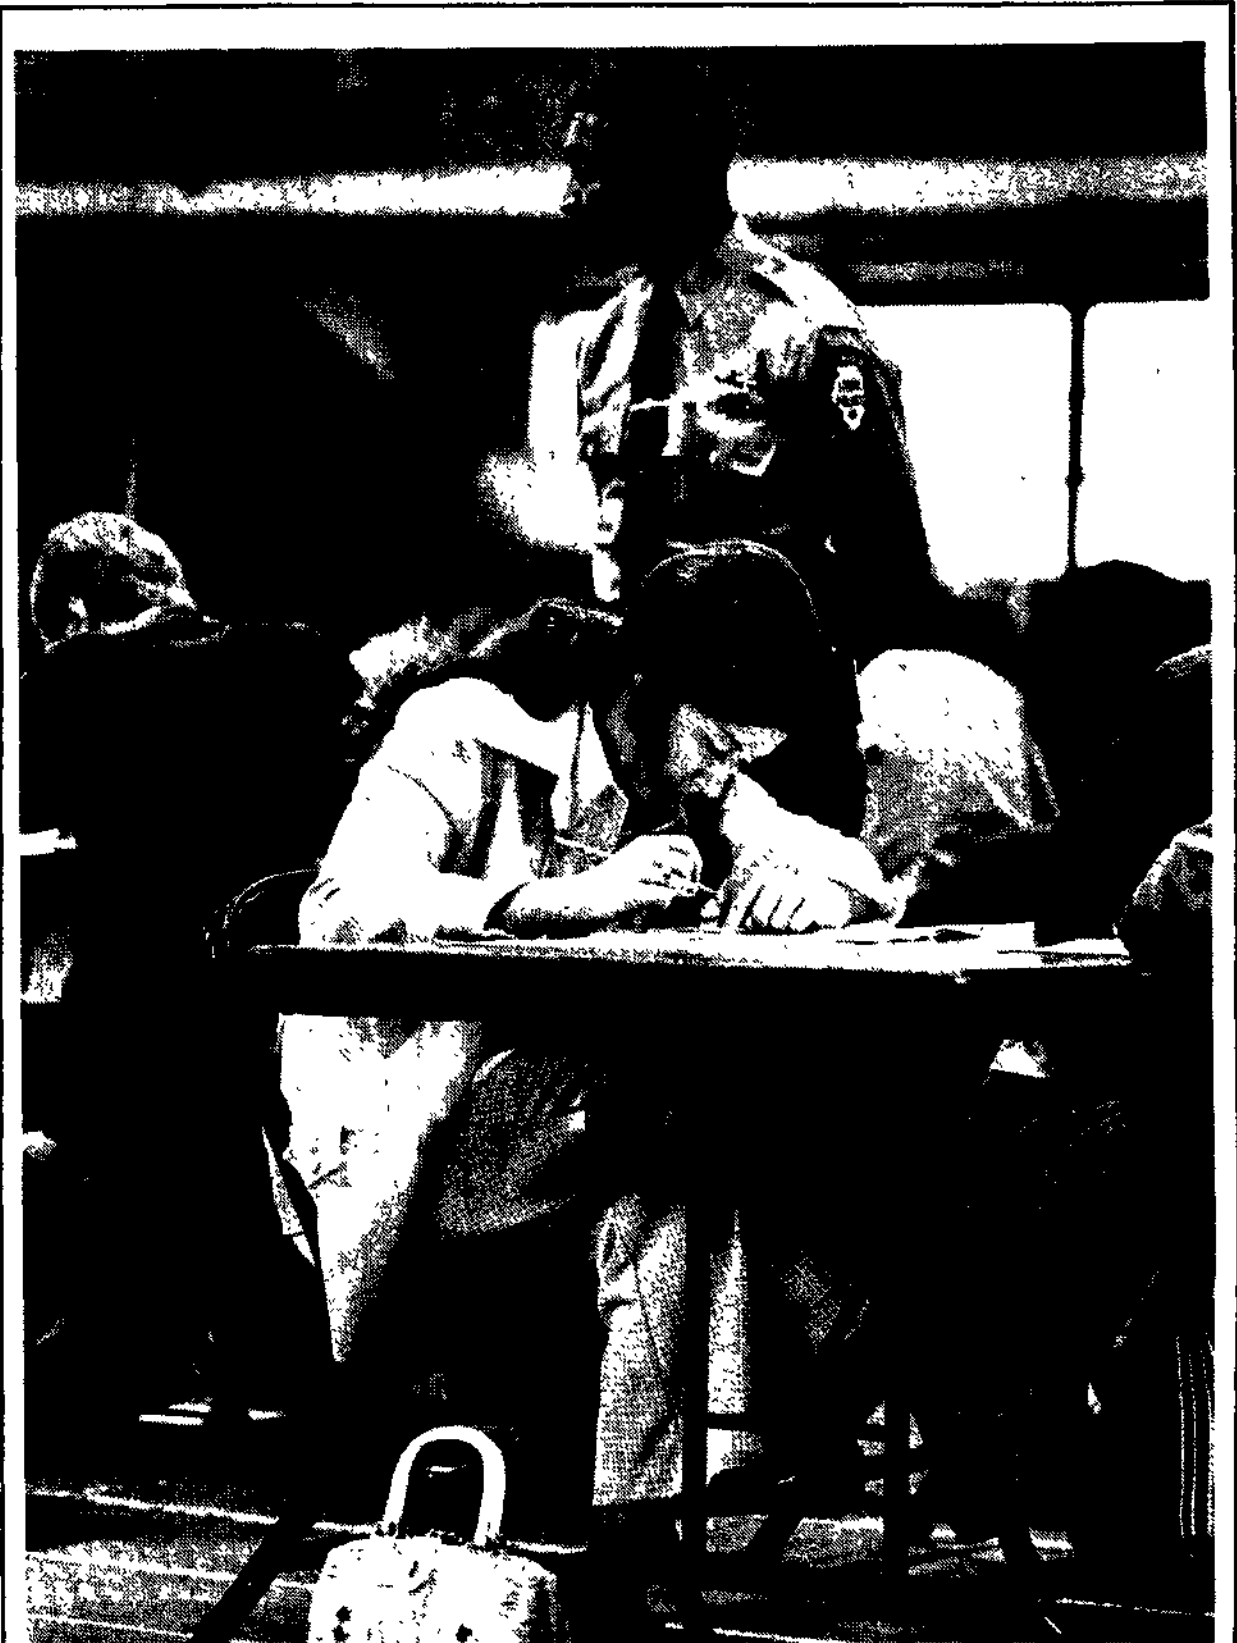

Police arrest Chicago man

A 22-year-old Chicago man was arrested by Buffalo Grove police and charged with disorderly conduct Thursday, after police said the man tried to pick an apartment door lock with a screwdriver.

Philip R. Phillips, 4915 N. Whipple, was arrested about 11:50 a.m. Police had responded to a call of a burglary in progress at 749 Trace Dr.

According to police, the occupant of the apartment where Phillips was found apparently knew Phillips and will not sign a complaint against him for attempted burglary. The occupant was June Bullock, police said.

Phillips will appear June 25 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court on the disorderly conduct charge. He was released Thursday after he posted $100 bond.

Under watchful eyes of a state trooper, Deborah Brush takes the 40-minute written examination to become a state policeman.

New era at hand: lady state troopers

by TONI GINETTI

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to start, the interest couldn't help but focus more keenly on the two young women in the group. They were, after all, about to make a bit of history.

The two women, 22-year-old Deborah Brush of Mount Prospect and 26-year-old Chicagoan Pat Carter, were among the first women hoping to become Illinois State Police troopers.

Concert Thursday

Wheeling High School's Madrigal Singers and New Dawn's will perform in concert Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school's Little Theatre.

The concert will be a first for the two groups who entertain at banquets and meetings throughout the area. Previously, the two ensembles appeared at choral concerts with the other school choirs.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Cash gift by developer still at issue

Buffalo Grove park officials and Albert Frank Associates have resolved some of their differences on Kilmer Park, but the developer still has not released a $10,000 donation to the park district.

The developer in 1971 agreed to donate $25,000 to the park district, but has withheld the final $10,000 installment because of dissatisfaction with work at the Kilmer Park site, adjacent to its Oak Creek housing development.

The village board two weeks ago refused to give the builder final approval of the second phase of the project until it pays the park district the final installment. The project is on tonight's village board agenda, but it does not appear likely the board will approve it unless the donation is made prior to the meeting.

KENNETH RODECK, of the Frank firm, said that improvements to the Kilmer site do not comply with an agreement between his company and the park district. He said the park district is supposed to plant 26 more trees, improve the hockey rink and correct a drainage problem in one area of the park.

Park director Stan Crosland said Friday the park district has corrected the drainage problem and has agreed to sod the hockey rink when weather permits. The two sides, however, still are in disagreement over the number of trees to be planted on the site.

Rodeck claims the park district, in a plan submitted to his firm agreed to plant more trees than are there at the present time.

Crosland, however, said what was presented to the firm was an "artist's conception" and was not intended to show a specific number of trees. "We have fulfilled any agreement for landscaping above and beyond what was required," he said.

The park board, Crosland said, plans to send a letter next week to Albert Frank, owner of the firm, asking for the release of the final $10,000.

RODECK HAS SAID Frank favors putting the final installment in an escrow account until the park district improves the site to his satisfaction. If the firm wants final approval of its project, however, it probably will have to comply with the park districts request.

Park officials have said the park district has spent about $62,000 on the Kilmer site and needs the rest of the donation for improvements to other parks in the village. Comr. Joseph Settanni told Rodeck recently it is the park districts function, not the developers, to determine where funds are spent.

Rodeck, however, said his firm wants to assure that park facilities near its development are adequate for residents.

Sticker sales report due today

A report from investigators in the Chicago City Clerk's office looking into the sale of Buffalo Grove vehicle stickers to Grand-Spaulling Auto Leasing Co. of Chicago is expected to be completed today.

Daniel Cepa, assistant city clerk, said Friday the city will determine what action if any is necessary against the company based on findings from the investigation. If Grand-Spaulling is found in violation of the city wheel tax ordinance, the matter will be referred to the city's law department, Cepa said.

City investigators are trying to determine whether Grand-Spaulling circumvented purchasing Chicago vehicle stickers in 1974 and 1973 in favor of Buffalo Grove stickers which are cheaper.

Chicago stickers cost $20 to $50 while Buffalo Grove stickers cost $10 each. Grand-Spaulling maintains no office or dealership in the village and obtained the more than 200 Buffalo Grove vehicle stickers by giving a village post office box number as an address.

If Grand-Spaulling is found guilty of violating the Chicago ordinance, the company could be fined $25 to $200 for every illegally purchased sticker.

Architect's choice

Site near village hall urged for new public works garage

by JOE FRANZ

The architect for Buffalo Grove's proposed public works garage has said the site across from the village hall is the best location for the facility.

The architect, Knoepfel Associates of Arlington Heights, was hired by the village about two months ago to evaluate possible sites for the garage. The site was chosen over nine others considered. The village board is scheduled to review the recommendation next month.

The 4.8-acre site, at the southeast corner of Lake-Cook and Raupp Boulevard has been considered the best location by many village officials for quite some time. The site was among several recommended by Village Mgr. Daniel Larson more than a year ago.

LARSON SAID the site will give public works vehicles good access to all parts of the village and will not create a hardship on homeowners. The property does not abut any residential areas.

In addition, he said, the site will allow the village to have all its services in one central area.

Among the sites considered by the architect were two outside the village limits. Larson, in the past, has said the village does not have the right to condemn property outside its corporate limits and therefore, would have to pay the "seller's price." The village also would have to pay property taxes on land outside its boundaries.

Larson has said a public works garage is badly needed because vehicles stored outside deteriorate faster as well as being targets of vandalism. He estimates the village loses $25,000 annually because it does not have a public works garage.

In addition to sheltering vehicles, the garage will give public works employees an adequate place to service and maintain vehicles and equipment.

AT PRESENT, most equipment is stored in the parking lot adjacent to Emmerich Park. Most maintenance is done in the small garage connected to the park district office.

Larson said the size and facilities at the garage are inadequate. Buffalo Grove, he said, is one of the few communities of its size that does not have a modern public works facility.

The garage is expected to cost about $500,000. The original estimate was $300,000, but officials now say the garage will cost considerably more because of increased construction costs. Larson has proposed the village take out a loan and pay it back over a five-year period with federal revenue sharing funds.

IT IS NOT KNOWN when final approval will be given, but some officials have said they hope construction of the facility will begin this fall.

The site across from the municipal building is being given to the village by Harold Friedman in lieu of a $35,000 debt he has owed the village for several years. The site is estimated to be worth $95,000.

Friedman agreed to give the village the property in exchange for a zoning change on property surrounding Buffalo Grove Golf Course. As part of that deal, the village also will be given the opportunity to buy the golf course to operate as a municipal facility.

Lake County official to talk on assessments

Harry Robbin, chairman of the Lake County Board of Review, will discuss the rollback in local tax assessments at 8 p.m., Thursday, at Willow Grove School, 777 Checker Dr., Buffalo Grove.

Robbin agreed to talk about the effects of the rollback on local schools at the request of Dist. 96 Supt. William Hiltzman.

Lake County property owners will be assessed at 1972 levels this year at the direction of the board of review. The rollback is an effort to equalize assessments between counties.

LAKE COUNTY school officials say the decision to freeze the assessments could mean many lost dollars to Dist. 96 and Dist. 125.

Hiltzman estimates the loss to Dist. 96 could run at least $91,000 in the education fund alone.

Dist. 125 Assistant Supt. Edwin Ellis has said Stevenson High School in Prairie View could lose between $100,000 and $200,000 in anticipated revenue.

Village Treasurer Bob Collins has said there is already a shortage of operation cash in the general fund because of the delay in collecting taxes in the Lake County section of the village. The delay was caused by the board of review's decision to rollback assessments.

Collins has said the village may be forced to issue tax anticipation warrants this summer.

School news notes

The annual spring music program will be presented Friday, May 24, at Hawthorne School in Wheeling.

The program is a collection of American folk songs of the past and tunes likely to become the folk songs of the future.

First-grade children at Sandburg School, Wheeling, recently learned something about camping in a rather unique "show and tell" session.

The students' teacher, Marilyn Sheldon, brought her new truck camper to school and conducted tours through the vehicle for the entire class.

Dominick Tufano, a student at Cooper Junior High School, Buffalo Grove, is the new 100-yard dash 1974 state champion. Tufano won the title after placing first in the recent track meet at Mattson, Ill. He also placed fourth in the 220-yard dash.

Tufano led Cooper to a fifth place finish in a field of competitors that originally included over 100 junior high school track teams.

Other Cooper students placing in the meet were Bill Holzapfel, who took seventh in the 800-yard run and Sean McCann who placed eighth in the same event.

The 440-yard relay team, composed of Dan Fox, Dan MacIsaac, Mike Staudt and Tom Tufano, placed seventh.

Two Cooper Junior High School students placed first in the recent state science fair in Champaign.

Megan Edwards and Tim Pfeiffer took top awards for their projects. Second place honors went to Pat Staudt and Carrie Miresso and Mark Neargardner placed third.

The state fair culminated three months of competition which included the Cooper fair and the district contest conducted at Wheeling High School.

Fourth-grade students at Longfellow School, Buffalo Grove, recently had an arts and crafts show.

The children made all the items for the show and sold them. Proceeds from the event will be used to finance a field trip.

Regina Quintana, a Dist. 21 bilingual teacher and native of Cuba, recently spoke to sixth-grade social studies classes at Longfellow School.

Miss Quintana described her home country before the takeover of Fidel Castro and talked about what life was like under the leadership of Castro.

Children at Hawthorne School, Wheeling, will present their annual choral concert at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 23.

The program, entitled "Fasten Your Seatbelts," is a musical tribute to various modes of transportation, including everything from the horse and buggy to space flight.

Hannah Cahan, Hawthorne Music teacher, has selected the music and will direct the children during the performance. Intermediate-grade students will accompany several songs.

Helen Sorgatz, learning disabilities teacher at Hawthorne, designed and prepared the scenic backdrops for the program.

Sentencing of former trustee Valenza delayed

by LYNN ASINOF

The sentencing of former Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza was continued until Friday when the U. S. District Court expects to have more information on the resolution of charges against Valenza's codefendant, Building Director William Bieber.

Valenza pleaded guilty Feb. 28 to conspiring with Bieber to extort $1,700 worth of furniture from Wickes Inc. Bieber is scheduled to begin trial today on charges of conspiracy, extortion and perjury in that case.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Steven Kadison, however, told U. S. District Judge Bernard Decker that he does not expect the Bieber case to come to trial. Kadison said he has spoken with Bieber's attorney, David Schippers, about the pending trial.

"He has informed me that he does not expect the case to go to trial," Kadison said.

NEITHER SCHIPPERS nor Bieber was available to comment on whether they are in the process of plea bargaining with the U. S. Attorney's Office.

Judge Decker said he preferred to handle all sentencing in the case at the same time. He said often some information presented at one sentencing differs from that presented at a second sentencing in the same case.

Kadison said that if an agreement is reached between Bieber and the U. S. Attorney's Office, he expects a request that "all of Mr. Bieber's indictments be transferred to Judge (Abraham Lincoln) Marovitz for disposition."

Bieber is facing extortion, conspiracy, perjury and tax evasion charges in three other cases now pending trial. He and Valenza were among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 after a federal grand jury investigation into shakedowns of Wheeling developers.

JAMES STAVROS, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, has also pleaded guilty in the case. Stavros admitted to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U. S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop eight other charges against Stavros.

Judge Decker said he also wanted to continue Valenza's sentencing since he has not had time to study a report prepared by the former trustee's probation officer.

"I have read it, but I haven't really studied it to the point where I want to make a decision," the judge said. "That is another reason why I want to continue it."

Valenza faces a maximum of 20 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. The U. S. Attorney's Office said it will make known the extent of Valenza's cooperation with the government at the time of sentencing.

Jason Bellows, Valenza's attorney, said he will argue for a light sentence because of his client's cooperation with the government. While Bellows would not elaborate on the nature of Valenza's cooperation, he said his client agreed to do "whatever the government desires" when he pleaded guilty.

The government dropped a second charge of extortion against Valenza when the former trustee pleaded guilty on the conspiracy charge.

Major crime reported on increase in Wheeling

During the first three months of 1974, Wheeling was a slightly more sober town than it was in 1973. However, in the same period, Wheeling was a much more violent, unsafe community.

This is the uncheery portrait painted by the first quarter crime statistics recently released by the police department. These statistics show an increase in every major type of crime except for one less drunk and a decrease in grand larceny (which has been reclassified from more than $50 to more than $150, thus automatically causing the figure to drop).

Through the first three months of 1974 there also were no murders and rapes reported, although a rape was since committed in April.

AS REPORTED April 4 in The Herald, one of the areas of greatest increase was burglaries. The official statistics show 53 burglaries through March 31, three more than police officials reported in April. (The monthly statistics are released at a delay of some five weeks generally.)

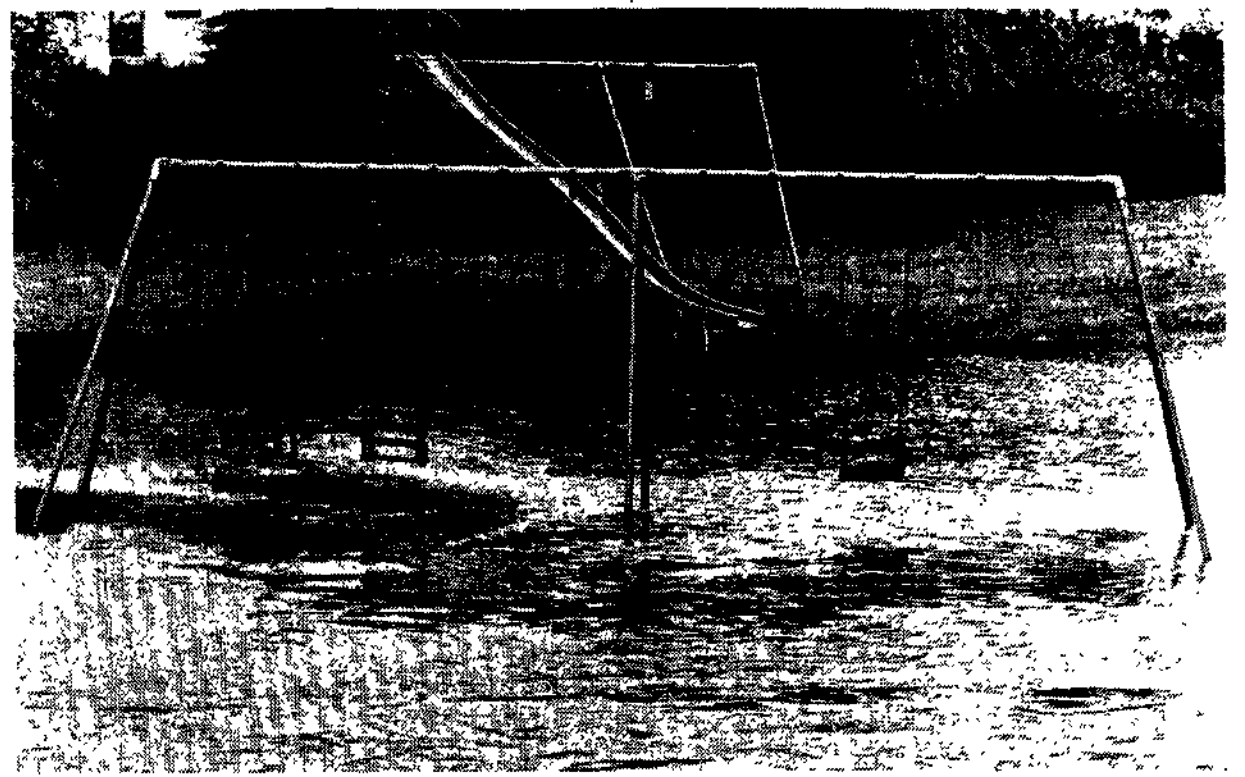

With only 17 burglaries in the first quarter of 1973, this year's number represents an increase of 212 per cent. Twenty-three of the burglaries occurred in March, but several of these were solved by arrests made early in April.

Another area showing a large increase was thefts under $150 (although again, this can be attributed in part to the reclassification from last year's $50 limit). Total thefts (which show a more true comparison) were 125 in 1974 and 99 in 1973.

Disorderly conduct cases have more than doubled so far this year with 94 reported. There was an increase of two in aggravated assaults to a total of seven; two more sexual assaults for a total of four; 21 other assaults, an increase of 15; and five auto thefts, an increase of one.

Four robberies were reported, compared with none in the first three months of last year.

The number of automobile accidents reported also increased slightly from 198 to 234.

EMMERICH PARK LAKE is not a new local recreation facility, but an unwanted pool of water that often forms after heavy rains like those since last Thursday flood the playground next to the Buffalo Creek.

Expect village to OK easement vacating

The Buffalo Grove Village Board tonight is expected to pass an ordinance vacating a sidewalk easement between Twisted Oak Lane and Aspen Court.

The easement was obtained by the village several years ago so that better access could be provided for persons walking to and from Twin Groves School and park.

2 from Stevenson to study in Europe

Two Stevenson High School students will spend next year studying in Europe, through local student-exchange programs.

Martin Spoerlein will leave for Sweden sometime this summer on a scholarship awarded him by the International Student Program (ISP) for a year of study for the Youth for Understanding program. He will live with a Swedish family and attend high school there. Spoerlein was chosen from 18 applicants who applied last September for the "Patriots Abroad" division of ISP.

John Patwell has received a scholarship by the Deerfield Rotary Club and will spend next year living and attending high school in France. When he returns next fall, Patwell plans to enter John Hopkins University.

Another Stevenson student, Marie Moody, left for Brazil in February, for a year's study under the American Field Service program.

Summer school signup deadline Tuesday

The deadline for children to sign up for summer school classes offered this year by School Dist. 21 is Tuesday.

Dist. 21 serves Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and portions of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

All summer school classes are scheduled to begin June 18 and end July 21, with no school July 4. The courses are free to residents of the district. There is a $25 fee for out-of-district residents.

Sessions will be conducted daily from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 p.m. Parents must provide transportation for students who want to participate in classes taught at schools other than the building they regularly attend.

Parents may register children for summer school classes at the school the children attend. Students may choose one class from those offered.

Several study courses designed to aid students with particular academic problems are available, in addition to enrichment courses and music classes.

A complete list of the courses included in the summer school program is available at the administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Stevenson High School, Prairie View, will host the annual Northwest Suburban Track and Field Conference Meet Monday and Tuesday.

The meet is the first for the newly expanded league. Teams that will participate besides Stevenson include Lake Zurich, Antioch, Cary Grove, Woodstock, Wauconda, Round Lake, Warren, Grant and Grayslake.

Finals in all events are scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday. Spectators are welcome and there is no admission charge.

The village board debated numerous times in the last two years on whether the sidewalk should be installed and finally decided two months ago against installing it. At that time, board members declared it a "public nuisance" and directed the village attorney to prepare a ruling vacating the easement.

THE DECISION WAS reached after several homeowners living next to the easement complained that the sidewalk would subject their homes to vandalism from passing school children. One resident said the easement comes within nine feet of his house.

Board members opposed to the easement said it would create a severe hardship on adjacent homeowners, while benefiting only a few residents.

A group of homeowners in the Lake County section of the village maintain that the sidewalk is needed and have threatened to take the village to court if the easement is vacated.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong, one of those opposed to the sidewalk, has said while it would shorten the distance to the park and school, vacating the easement would not create a hardship for anyone. Without the sidewalk, the farthest distance from any home to the school would be less than 1½ miles, he said.

In other business the village board will:

- Consider the 1974-75 budget.
- Review a report and recommendation by Village Mgr. Daniel Larson asking the village to consider taking control of streets in all future multi-family developments.

Village to consider bicentennial group

The Wheeling Village Board tonight will consider an ordinance creating a bicentennial commission which will oversee the local celebration of the nation's 200th birthday.

The ordinance was proposed to the board by the Wheeling Woman's Club after local civic organizations met to discuss the celebration.

The board will also review a zoning ordinance which would allow a 112-unit condominium project to be built on the southeast corner of Wolf Road and Manchester Drive. The eight-acre parcel is presently zoned for single-family homes.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Teachers approve salary pact for 1974-'75 year

By an overwhelming vote, Dist. 21 teachers have approved their contract for the 1974-75 school year.

In a meeting last Thursday night, the Wheeling Faculty Council voted to accept the contract worked out by negotiators and the school board last week by a margin of 141 to 3.

The contract is expected to be signed by the school board at its meeting Thursday night.

The agreement calls for a 12.24 per cent increase in total monies allotted to salaries. This will give teachers a pay hike of between 8 and 14 per cent, depending on where they fit into the pay schedule worked out by the council.

THE TOTAL AMOUNT that will be provided for teacher salaries by Dist. 21 next year is $4.7 million. That includes a 10 per cent increase in the annual salaries paid to teachers for supervising extracurricular activities.

The base pay for a beginning teacher in the district will be raised from $8,000 to $9,000. At the top of the scale, the pay for teachers with a master's degree and 30 years of experience will go up from $15,261 to $17,010.

The unusually generous pay increase was negotiated in an effort to bring salaries more in line with those of surrounding school districts. For the past several years, local teachers have been among the lowest paid in the Northwest suburbs.

Margo Richter, sixth-grade teacher at Stevenson School and chief negotiator, said Friday teachers are pleased with the contract.

"Everyone thinks it's just great," she said.

Salaries and extra duty pay were the only items negotiated in 1974-75 contract talks. The new pact expires June 30, 1975.

Firefighters waiting for response

Patrolmen reach tentative agreement on salary hike

by JOHN MAES

Des Plaines Police have reached a tentative agreement with the city on an 8.5 per cent wage hike, while firefighters are waiting for a response from Des Plaines officials on an identical pay raise request.

Ronald Diehl, a spokesman for the local chapter of the Combined Counties Police Assn., said Friday that patrolmen, who were seeking a 12 to 13 per cent raise, agreed to 8.5 per cent wage hike. The issue will be brought before the city council Monday for ratification.

Last year, city and police negotiating teams agreed to a contract calling for a 5.5 per cent pay boost that raised average patrolmen salaries to $1,122 monthly.

Diehl said police and the city also agreed to a $50 clothing allowance, and won the addition of grandmother-in-law to funeral lists police are allowed to take time off to attend.

Diehl also said a slight increase was agreed on for food allowances for police attending schools and eating meals there.

ALSO AGREED on was an item allowing police to travel in separate autos to and from classes at Northwestern University. Previously, police would have to travel to and from the campus in car pools of not less than four.

Diehl was unable to cite other specific points of an agreement Friday but said the contract was pretty well wrapped up. "It's a little shy of the money," he said, "but that's all right — it's a good contract."

He mentioned the stall in talks that occurred in March over the wage question between the two sides as a reason for the relatively late date of settlement. The city and police reached contract accord last year in late April.

RICHARD ORNBERG, secretary for the Des Plaines Professional Firefighters Assn., said firemen would wait for city bargainers to agree to a similar raise rate before taking the matter before the union for approval.

Public works officials could not be reached Friday for comment on their contract. This year for the first time, police and public works employees negotiated their contracts under the joint heading of the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employees.

Local firemen did not officially affiliate with the group, but like police and public workers, were being represented by CCPA attorneys in contract talks.

$360,000 street program to start in late June

Works crews probably will start on the city's $360,000 street repair and repaving program late next month. City engineers hope the program will allow residents to get more for their tax dollars.

Assistant City Engineer Ellis Perl said the city is attempting to save money this year by bidding the street program in phases and through more modern techniques.

More than 50 streets throughout the city are slated for repaving or resurfacing work this summer.

THE BUDGET for this year's program is more than $180,000 above last year's allocation.

Perl said that in past years the city has let the road repair project to one general contractor who in turn hired subcontractors to do certain portions of the work.

"This year we are acting as the general contractor for the project, so this should make the overall job run more efficiently."

Perl said 27 streets are slated for repaving work this summer. This process will lay a mat of asphalt over existing pavement to seal cracks and preserve the street.

Other streets will be resurfaced. This year the city will make use of the Cutler repaving machine, which in addition to spreading a layer of new material, also reheats and smooths the asphalt already on the roadbed.

PERL SAID the heating process binds the two layers of asphalt together making for a stronger seal on the street which should prevent cracking due to water seepage.

The city also will use a "slurry seal" process on a number of streets in the city which do not have curbs and gutters. Perl said this process, which spreads a brown colored substance on the roadway, should prove to be a better means of maintaining unimproved streets.

In addition to the repaving and resurfacing programs, the city will also perform curb and gutter repair work and an extensive street lining program.

Street resurfacing work is scheduled for sections of Drake Lane; Beau Drive between Golf Road and Thacker Street; Ambleside Road between Beau Drive and Cavan Lane; Dara James between Kathleen Drive and Dulles; Cavan Lane between Kathleen and its end; Lance Drive between Beau Drive and Cavan Lane; Nebel Lane between Tures Lanes and Plainfield Drive; Tures Lanes between Nebel Lane and Plainfield Drive; Plainfield Drive between Howard Street and Everett Avenue; Everett Avenue between Plainfield Drive and Webster Lane; Irwin Avenue between Koehler Drive and Shepard Drive; Shepard Drive between Lee Street and Pine Street; Pine Street between Highland Drive and Howard Avenue; Birchwood Street between Maple Street and Frontage Road; Sherwin Road between Maple Street and Frontage Road; Frontage Road between Touhy Avenue and Mannheim Road; Peter Road between Laura Lane and its end; Laura Lane between Eisenhower

Senior citizen bus program facing cutback

Senior-citizen bus service may be affected when Elk Grove Township officials revise federal revenue-sharing fund expenditures.

The township board of auditors will meet in special session Tuesday at 8 p.m. to consider procedural changes in allocating revenue sharing, a move forced by a decision from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which says the funds could not be spent by townships on some services — including the bus program.

Elk Grove and Wheeling townships filed suit recently in federal court asking the U. S. Department of the Treasury to overrule Scott's decision, which stated townships may only spend revenue sharing funds for programs allowed under Illinois law.

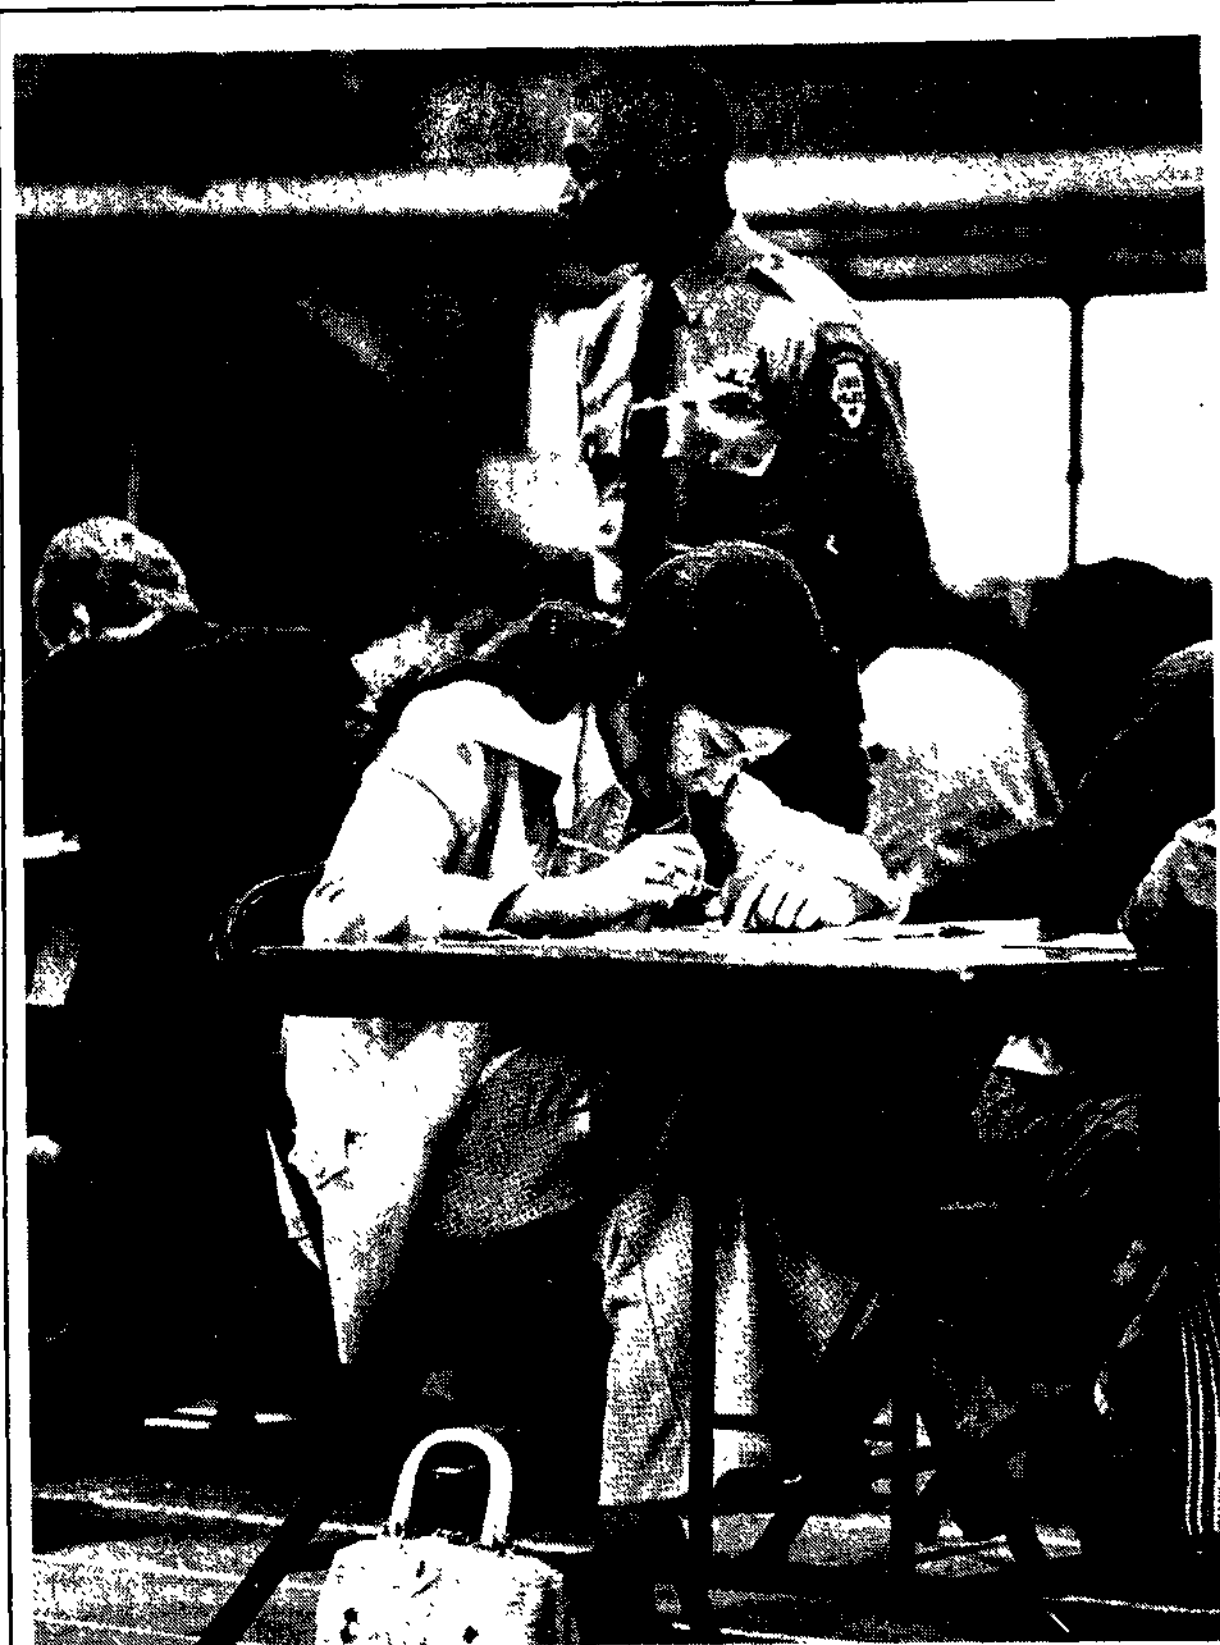

STATE LAW prohibits townships from becoming financially involved in transportation systems. A letter to Scott from William Sagan, general counsel of the federal office of revenue sharing, apparently concurred with Scott's decision limiting township spending of the federal funds.

Township Supervisor Richard Hall said auditors originally allocated funds under a proposed Illinois statute allowing them to budget money for any purposes defined as priority expenditures under federal statutes — including programs for the youth, poor and aged.

"Everything we listed in our budget falls under those priorities," said Hall. "But now that the legality of the state

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to start, the interest couldn't help but focus more keenly on the two young women in the group. They were, after all, about to make a bit of history.

The two women, 22-year-old Deborah Brush of Mount Prospect and 26-year-old Chicagoan Pat Carter, were among the first women hoping to become Illinois State Police troopers.

Mikva calls for new debates with Young

Abner J. Mikva called for a series of 14 "town hall" debates with U. S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, as part of their hotly contested campaign for Congress.

In calling for the debates, Mikva said "there are two elements especially critical to complete public scrutiny of our candidacies: first open debates on the issue and second, dialogue between the candidates and the people."

Mikva's request for the debates came during a press conference Friday. In a letter to Young, Mikva proposed a series of debates in every town in the district. He suggested the session could be held on Sunday afternoons from July 14 to Oct. 20.

IN ADDITION to listing a proposed timetable for the debates, Mikva suggested that Common Cause, a nonpartisan citizen lobbying organization, be asked to moderate the debates.

While Young could not be reached for comment Friday, several of his aides indicated there would probably be debates during the campaign, but they were sure that the Sunday series would be acceptable to Young.

Both candidates appeared in about 20 debates during the 1972 campaign. Mikva said that about 15 of those appearances were debates between himself and Young.

Young said recently that he expected there would be debates between himself and Mikva during the current campaign. The two candidates have already scheduled a joint television appearance next month.

During his press conference, Mikva responded to "dirty tricks" charges leveled by Young last week. He said that professional public opinion polls taken for him by Peter Hart and Associates of Washington indicate he is running about eight to 10 points ahead of Young.

HE ADDED THAT the polls reveal about 20 to 25 per cent of the voters in the district have indicated they were undecided.

Mikva said the poll was one of two he has taken during the present campaign. The first, which was taken in October, showed him even with Young. The latest poll, which showed him with a slight lead, was taken in February.

However, Mikva cautioned that the results of a poll taken months before the election should not be interpreted as sure votes.

In other comments, Mikva said he has budgeted about $150,000 for the 1974 campaign. Young has said he would set a spending ceiling of $100,000, but also said he might change that limit later. The two candidates combined spent more than $420,000 during the 1972 campaign.

MIKVA REPEATED his call for President Nixon's impeachment and added that if he was a member of the Senate he would probably vote to convict the President.

He said he interprets the constitutional impeachment phrase of "high crimes and misdemeanors" to include situations when the president is incapable of leading the country.

"The president has abused his office and its power for personal gain," Mikva said.

The former congressman said he hoped the impeachment proceedings would be concluded as quickly as possible. He indicated that he does not plan to make his campaign a Watergate referendum.

The former congressman said he hoped the impeachment proceedings would be concluded as quickly as possible. He indicated that he does not plan to make his campaign a Watergate referendum.

"This is sure out of my control. We would like to think and focus on the issue of this district, issues that are manageable," Mikva added.

"I'd like to see it out of the way for the good of the country," he added. While stating that in his opinion the President has committed an impeachable offense, he declined to comment on whether or not Nixon has committed an indictable criminal offense.

Park Ridge hospital increasing services

Lutheran General offers more speech, hearing aids

by LINDA PUNCH

Parents of children with hearing or speech problems have traditionally depended on local schools and special clinics for help.

An expanded speech and hearing program at Lutheran General Hospital, however, offers Northwest suburban residents an alternative to existing services.

Additional staffing and better equipment has allowed the Park Ridge hospital to "increase our services to better meet the needs of the hospital and community," according to Michael Crum, director of Speech Pathology and Audiology at the hospital.

"The services we offered before were nearly exclusively limited to adult patients with speech problems due to stroke or trauma," he said.

WITH EXPANDED services, the hospital will now offer a program for children and adults who stutter, as well as patients with voice disorders. The department will also offer a diagnostic and counseling program for people with hearing disorders.

Crum noted that while most major hospitals offer these services, Lutheran General is the only Northwest suburban facility with an extensive speech and hearing program.

The children's speech program will operate in a variety of areas from the proper development of speech and language in preschoolers to corrective therapy for youngsters with stuttering voice problems.

Speech pathologist Barbara Tucker said many parents are overanxious about their youngster's lack of fluency in speech.

"It's normal for a child between 3 and 6 to have some disfluency (hesitation in speech)," she said. "All kids this age repeat whole words and phrases — they're just starting to put words together so they make sense. It's just not that easy."

SOME STUTTERING and disfluency problems occur because "parents get uptight and focus in on normal non-fluency," Mrs. Tucker said.

"They make the child aware he's not talking right and make him anxious about talking," she said. "He stops thinking of speech as something fun and starts thinking of it as something to be afraid of."

Other speech problems stem from youngsters imitating their parents' pattern of speech, according to Mrs. Tucker.

"Some parents talk a mile a minute and then wonder why their kid is so tense and excited," she said.

"Counseling of parents goes hand in hand with helping the child. Sometimes the things they think they're doing right are the things they shouldn't do at all," Mrs. Tucker said.

The speech pathologist said the best thing parents can do is "to ignore" the stuttering. Instead, parents should model "slow relaxed speech and look at the child when they speak."

"Some parents don't look at the kids when they talk — some kids stutter to get attention," she said.

COUNSELING is also provided for adult stutterers to help them understand their problems and learn to speak with less hesitancy. "Relaxation is definitely the key to modifying their speech," she said. "It's not an easy thing to do in this society but you have to be relaxed in both mind and body."

The expanded hearing program will also include counseling and remediation services in addition to the traditional diagnostic program, according to Crum.

The hospital has a variety of hearing aids for patient use so each person can find what model is "most beneficial for his type of hearing problem," he said.

"We're planning to have auditory training sessions so patients can learn to make the best use of their amplified sounds," Crum said. "We're also planning courses in lip reading."

The hospital will offer counseling for both people with hearing problems and their families.

"People with hearing difficulties have a lot of frustration — regardless of how much they want to understand, they simply can't," Crum said. "They're straining to hear and understand and they still can't do it."

The audiology department will also offer similar services geared to children, the department director added.

"The earlier we identify a hearing problem in children, the better," he said.

HEARING AND SPEECH programs geared to children are part of the expanded services of Lutheran General Hospital's Speech Pathology and Audiology Department. Michael Crum, department director, adjusts the earphones on Allon Skidelsky in preparation for a hearing test.

PTA notes

The Forest School PTA, Fifth and Forest avenues, will hold its last meeting of the year Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room.

This meeting will feature safety patrol awards and physical fitness awards.

Installation of officers for 1974-75 will take place. They are as follows: president, Charles Lodding; first vice president, Richard Marecek; second vice president, Frances Feldman; third vice president, Jo McGlone; recording secretary, Shirley Kirkpatrick; corresponding secretary, Marcia Higgins; and treasurer, Marion Gyssler.

There will be a vote at this meeting on whether Forest Elementary School should remain with PTA or go to PTC.

Devonshire PTA will hold its last general meeting of the school year on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym.

Installation of officers for the 1974-75 school year will take place at this time. Officers to be installed are: Mrs. Edward Randall, president; Mrs. Donald Argus, first vice president and program; Mrs. Casey Dressel, second vice president and room representative; Mrs. Frank Colasano and Mrs. Michael Burdi (co-chairman); third vice president and ways and means; Mrs. Ted Kulaga, corresponding secretary; Marsha Rosenthal, recording secretary; and Robert Terracina, treasurer.

Immediately following the meeting there will be a gym demonstration by the Devonshire students under the direction of Mrs. Jane Horton, physical education instructor at the school.

John Austin to be ordained Sunday

John Austin, a member of Christ Church, will be ordained at 10:30 a.m. worship services Sunday, May 26.

Speaker for the service will be the Rev. John E. Fielding of La Grange. His topic will be "Lovers and Other Strangers." Also participating in the service will be the Rev. R. K. Wobbe and the Rev. James W. Jackson of Christ Church, the Rev. Fred Traut of the Chicago Metropolitan Assn., United Church of Christ; the Rev. Christopher Smith of Chicago; Kenneth R. Thompson of Des Plaines and Jan Sheehan of St. Louis.

A reception prepared by the Women's Council of Christ Church will follow the service.

Austin, his wife Jane and son David, will move to Paducah, Ky., where he will serve as pastor of the United Church of Christ.

School sponsors blood drive

Chippewa Junior High School is sponsoring a blood drive. Des Plaines residents between the ages of 18 and 65 are urged to donate blood at Chippewa, 123 N. 8th Ave., on Saturday between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Scouting news

A camping we will go was the theme of St. Stephens Cub Scout Pack 60's May meeting at Hanley Hall. Den 2 host for the evening, opened the meeting by presenting colors. Then each den set up their camp site with blankets and wood for their fires.

The following announcements were made. A fishing outing is planned for May 26 at Lake Opeka at 2 p.m.; an overnight at Oregon, Ill. will be held June 8 and 9. The Becker's will host a committee and planning meeting at their home June 5. Anyone wishing to help in the planning for next years activities is invited to attend.

The next pack meeting will be June 14 at Northwestern Woods. This will be a supper meeting at 6 p.m.

The Webelos put on a puppet show about scouting. Den 6 had Rusty Drodz read a poem about a cub scout garden.

Brian Legg was taken into Webelos. Tom Yehl was accepted into the pack as a bobcat and given his wolf book, scarf and slide.

THE FOLLOWING AWARDS were given: Den 1, Mike Yehl, one year pin, recruiter badge. Den 2, Mike Thompson Jr., silver arrow. Den 3, Paul Koren, silver arrow. Den 6, Joe Jablonski, four silver arrows; Rusty Drodz three silver arrows.

Webelos awards went to Steve Marin, athlete, aquanaut, outdoorsman and traveler; John Ragusin, traveler, artist, sportsman, showman and outdoorsman;

Ken Walowicz, one year pin and artist; Mike Glasgow, John Friedman Jr. and Jim Petrucci, artist. Den 6 won the first Sunday attendance award. Den 4 won the pack attendance award for May. Webelos won Mr. Cubby for the most awards.

Pack 60 won the Presidential Award at Scout-A-Rama last month. They were one of the four packs in Algonquin District to win this highest award a unit can earn.

Den 2 retired the colors to the middle of the room where everyone made a family living circle and sang God Bless America.

Den 2 and 6 visited the McDonalds restaurant and Den 3 took a tour of the police station.

ON MAY 12 11 boys of Pack 60 received their Parvull Dei award. Flag bearers were: Paul Koren, Jerry Becker, Ray Raupp and Richard Struck. Altar boys were: David Becker, Mark Forbes, John Friedman Jr. and Ken Walowicz. The boys receiving the award were: Tom Clements, Russell Drodz, Paul Friedman, Ken Heraty, Mike Heraty, Joe Jablonski, Ralph Pelinski, Matt Rymarz, Keith Sanborsky, Vaalner Schetter Jr. and Mike Yehl. Father Bob Melcher officiated at the special Mass.

A guitar group arranged and sang special songs for the occasion and Red Koren did the photography.

Pack 60 now has 31 boys who have received tps award in the past 2 years.

Kids use artistic touch, paint park litter barrels

The Des Plaines Park District held its annual litter barrel painting contest recently at Rand Park. Awards were given in five different categories, single entry, double entry, parent-child entry, grandparent-child entry, and class or troupe entry.

The winners of the contest were as follows: Single entry: Paul Sieben, Susan Sieben, Margie Borris, Billy Ramsay, Judy Nickels and Ray Nickels.

law has been challenged by Scott our attorney has advised us to rebudget the funds as though it (the law) doesn't exist."

The senior citizen bus program, started under the now-challenged law, will be affected but Hall said "hopefully we will be able to continue the basic service."

"We will have to tighten up the monthly expenditures for the bus program because we can't spend as much under the new set-up," he said. "We still intend to give service to senior citizens."

Hall said there are "other ways" to fund and continue the programs that have fallen into the grey area of legality under existing laws. "The board has to go over the details of all this so we can continue all of these programs," he said.

The board will have to call a special town meeting to get the permission of township residents to allow the budget changes.

"If we lose the lawsuit, we wouldn't want to have money budgeted according to a statute that may be thrown out," Hall said. He added when the suit was filed, township attorneys asked the court for a quick resolution to the case. "Unfortunately, no hearing date has been set and it may be a month or so off."

THE TOWNSHIP recently has had additional revenue sharing problems. The federal office of revenue sharing informed the township in early May that they had been overpaid $39,000 in the federal funds. The township is in the process of repaying the money.

The township budgeted $297,000 in revenue sharing funds for the 1974-1975 fiscal year.

Four Maine East artists honored

Four Maine East art students have won top honors in the national scholastics art competition.

Judy Gagliardi of Niles won the gold medal in printmaking. Her etching, titled "Art Room," depicted a typical classroom in the art department.

Tabby Gries of Morton Grove was awarded the gold medal in pencil drawing for her rendition of the interior of a cathedral.

Sophia Kretikos of Niles earned the gold medal in watercolor with a rural landscape.

Adolf Schaller of Niles was named winner of the Hallmark honor prize, top award in the show, and received a check for $100 from Hallmark Inc.

This marks the third year in succession that a Maine East art student has won the national Hallmark award.

Because of revenue sharing hassle

Township may have to cut senior citizen bus service

"Everything we listed in our budget falls under those priorities," said Hall. "But now that the legality of the state law has been challenged by Scott our attorney has advised us to rebudget the funds as though it (the law) doesn't exist."

The senior citizen bus program, started under the now-challenged law, will be affected but Hall said "hopefully we will be able to continue the basic service."

"We will have to tighten up the monthly expenditures for the bus program because we can't spend as much under the new set-up," he said. "We still intend to give service to senior citizens."

Hall said there are "other ways" to fund and continue the programs that have fallen into the grey area of legality under existing laws. "The board has to go over the details of all this so we can continue all of these programs," he said.

"If we lose the lawsuit, we wouldn't want to have money budgeted according to a statute that may be thrown out," Hall said. He added when the suit was filed, township attorneys asked the court for a quick resolution to the case. "Unfortunately, no hearing date has been set and it may be a month or so off."

THE TOWNSHIP recently has had additional revenue sharing problems. The federal office of revenue sharing informed the township in early May that they had been overpaid $99,000 in the federal funds. The township is in the process of repaying the money.

The township budgeted $297,000 in revenue sharing funds for the 1974-1975 fiscal year. Despite the need to repay the $99,000, Hall said there are sufficient funds available to meet all commitments.

Hall pointed out the township has $165,000 cash on hand from former revenue sharing allocations which has not been spent. In addition, they will receive $77,000 next month from the federal office and another $96,000 later this year. The township will have about $328,000 available.

Official consults attorney on unit dist.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman, revealed Friday he has retained an attorney to explore civil rights ramifications of a unit school district proposed by a Schaumburg citizens committee.

Regan said he acted as a private citizen, not as a village official, in consulting the lawyer he refused to name. But, Regan said he was urged to seek the attorney by persons in the educational field and outside it, and those persons have pledged financial support. He does not have formal organizational backing, he said.

The attorney, whom Regan described as prominent in civil rights and equal opportunity law, has said no course of action can be chosen until proponents of the unit district file petitions. Those petitions must then be evaluated, to assess merits of the plan they actually present, Regan quoted the attorney as saying.

A PETITION committee already has obtained signatures to seek the unit district. The petitions are to be sent to the Cook County superintendent of schools, who must hold public hearings before deciding whether to hold a referendum on the question of unit district formation. Citizens within the area proposed for redistricting would have to vote approval of it.

The report, prepared by Ralph A. Belnap of Northern Illinois University, recommends formation of three unit districts from areas now served by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, Palatine Township Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211. One district would serve Schaumburg and the Dist. 54 portions of Roselle, Hanover Park, and Elk Grove Village.

Schools to inform county of study

A letter will be sent to Cook County Superintendent of Schools by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 school board concerning the unit district feasibility study and petitions being circulated for a Schaumburg area unit district.

The letter will advise County Supt. Richard Martwick that the petitions are being circulated before the feasibility study was available for public review, Gordon Thoren, board president, said last night.

It will also inform Martwick the feasibility study was primarily subsidized by the Schaumburg United Party and will request the district be informed about when the petitions are filed and when subsequent hearings will be held.

MARTWICK ALSO will be informed that the school district did not support the study.

Petitions are being circulated for a unit district in Schaumburg, parts of Hanover Park, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows currently in Dist. 54.

It follows from a recommendation of a study conducted by a team of Northern Illinois University professors.

Two other unit districts were also recommended — Palatine and Inverness and Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows.

THE PETITION committee will only file the petitions if some other organizations start circulating a second petition for a unit district in the area, said Mrs. Mary Mazol of 1103 Lowell Ln., Schaumburg.

Mrs. Mazol talked to James Blankenship, chairman of the petition committee, last night prior to the board meeting.

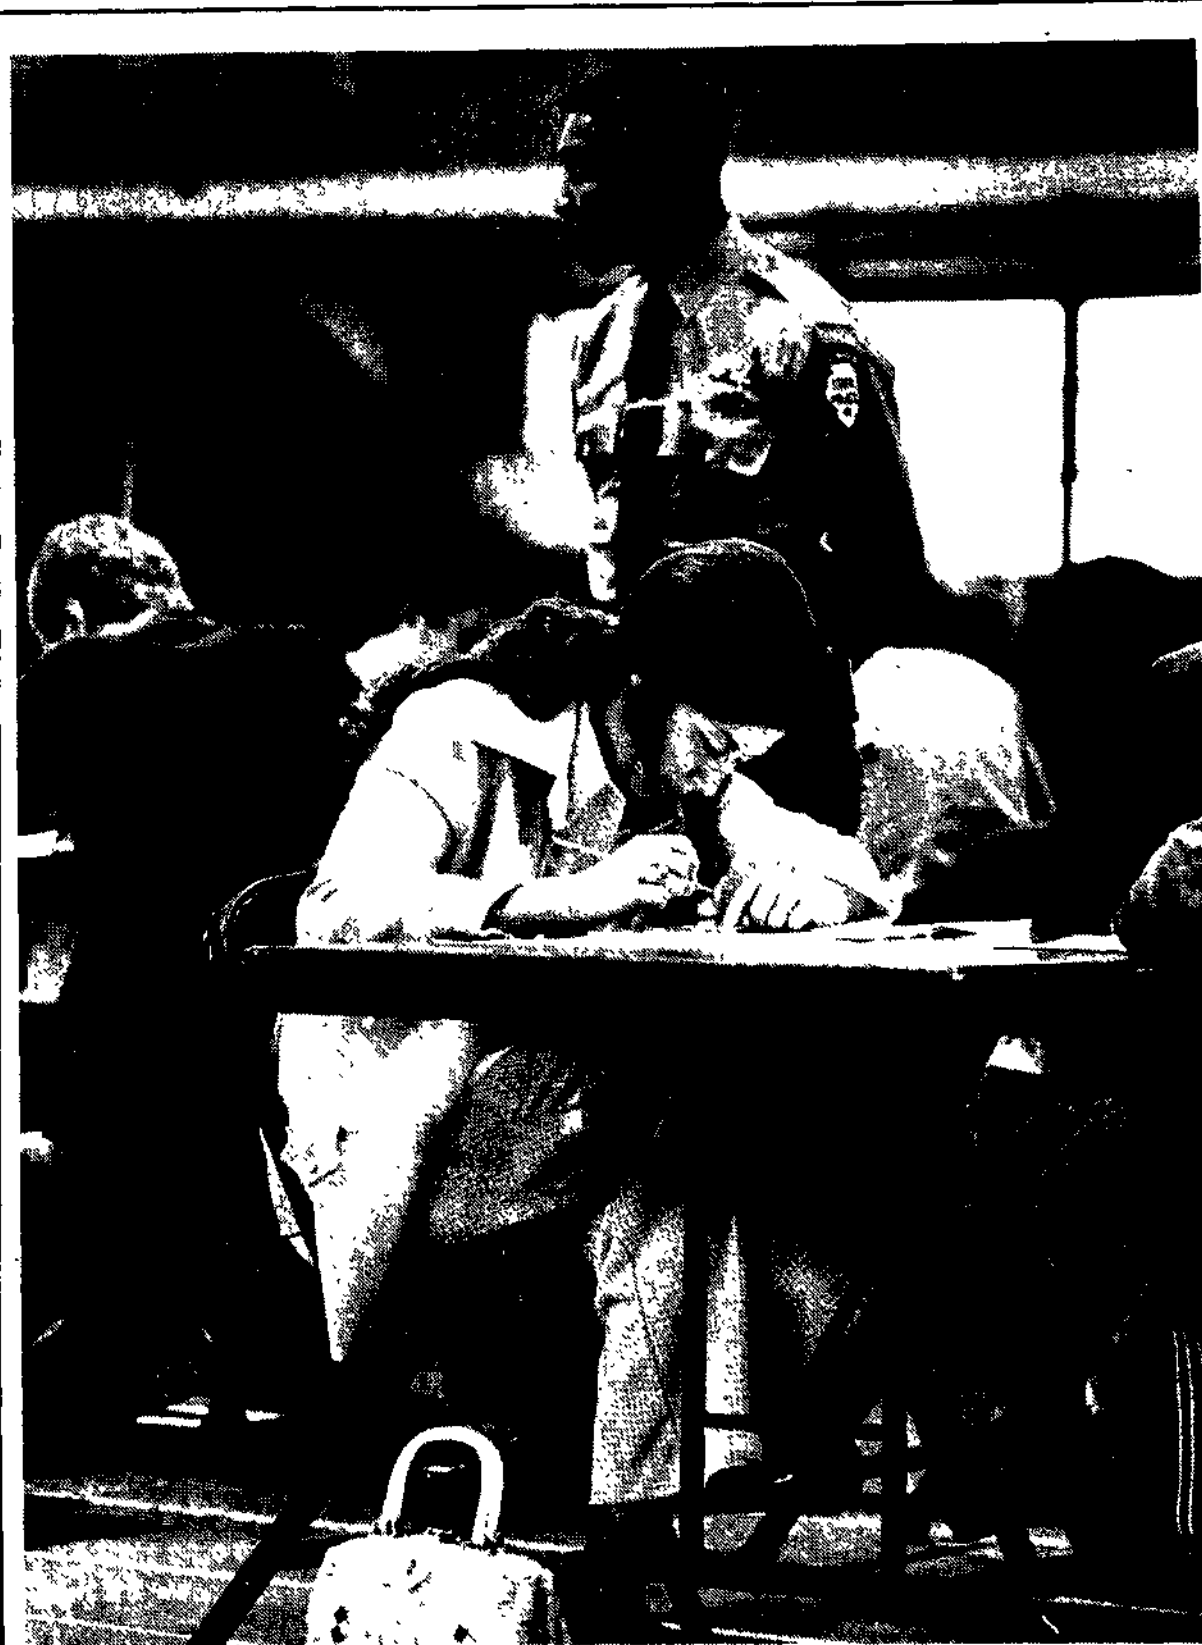

However, if a group should petition for a unit district in Schaumburg Township, she said, the committee would drop their petition in favor of the latter. The school board will invite Ralph Belnap, head of the NIU team and Blankenship to the June 6 board meeting to discuss the study.

Another would coincide with boundaries of Palatine and Inverness, and the third would coincide with boundaries of Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows.

OF PARTICULAR importance is the study's use of assessed property valuation figures for the area from 1971, which do not show the imbalance between Schaumburg and other communities that now exists, Regan said. Failure to point out the currently higher as-essed valuation in Schaumburg was "a deliberate attempt to deceive the public," he said.

The unit district controversy could involve the civil right of equal opportunity for education, Regan said. There are "ramifications of the future education of children yet to be born," he said. He said many of the newer schools in Dist. 54 are in Schaumburg, and "Hoffman Estates people helped pay for them."

Elk Grove, Schaumburg parks still at odds

by BOB GALLAS

The fate of 196 acres, sought by both the Elk Grove and Schaumburg Park Districts, is still in doubt following a joint meeting of both park boards last week.

The undeveloped tract is in the Schaumburg Park District but located within the corporate limits of Elk Grove Village. Under a recently passed state law, the Elk Grove Park District could legally annex the tract by simply having its owner sign a petition to that effect.

Both boards, however, hope to work out the situation harmoniously.

At the meeting, members of both boards said they wanted the tract because they felt their park district could service the area better. The Elk Grove members maintained their primary objective in obtaining the property was to have park district boundaries coincide with village boundaries.

THE PROPERTY in question is adjacent to the Spring Valley Nature Center. Schaumburg officials are concerned about what will happen to the property. Much of the area is tentatively set to be around a 60-75 acre lake and may end up being used as property for park land and open space.

Ellsworth Meineke, chairman of the Spring Valley project, said a park next to the nature center might not be a good idea.

"It will bring people in who are not interested in nature but are looking for recreation or to picnic," said Meineke. "Multiple use leads to multiple abuse. I would not recommend putting a park there," said Meineke.

Meineke added that some sort of buffer would be needed between the development and nature area, but was unclear as to what sort of "buffer" would be suitable.

SINCE THE property is around a water retention area and is really not suited for construction, developers of the property, Centex Corp., would prefer the tract be in the Elk Grove Park District.

Under village ordinance Centex must dedicate 10 per cent of their development as open space within Elk Grove Village. Centex would most likely prefer to use the 196-acre tract as part of that dedication, but not if it isn't within park district boundaries.

One suggestion offered by the Schaumburg board was an agreement which would turn over the property to Elk Grove, which would in turn give the property to the nature center.

Schaumburg board members ended the meeting by saying they had not made up their minds in regard to the matter, but planned to discuss the problem at their next board meeting and then get back to the Elk Grove Park District board.

Zettek speaks at Jaycee night

About 40 Elk Grove Village Jaycees along with prospective members attended a special "president night," held recently to acquaint potential members with the Jaycees.

Special guest at the function was Village Pres. Charles Zettek who spoke on the future of Elk Grove Village. A charter member of the Jaycees, Zettek said the assessed valuation of the village, about $260 million, is higher than any other community around, "yet the village isn't even 20 years old."

Zettek added that he could not predict how much real estate taxes will increase because he has not received information in several areas that would enable him to make that prediction.

Jaycee Pres. Ralph Hogan said the purpose of the meeting was to acquaint potential members with the concept of "Jayceism" and that personal growth and development can be obtained through voluntary involvement in the community.

"Jayceism" is an opportunity for a person to help himself at the same time he is helping the community, according to Hogan.

The next membership meeting for the Jaycees is June 6 at the VFW Hall on Devon Avenue. Further information on the meeting or the Jaycees can be obtained by calling 439-5072.

Teachers seek to reopen contract negotiations

Salary negotiations for next year have been requested by the Schaumburg Education Assn. Although the SEA has completed only one year of their three-year contract, they asked Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education to reopen the contract for negotiaton.

The major reason said for the request was the "soaring cost of living." The letter requesting negotiations stated when the current contract was signed last summer, both sides felt a reasonable three year contract might help restrain the rising cost-of-living.

However, it stated the "cost of living has soared to 10 per cent."

LAST YEAR the SEA signed an unprecedented three year contract. Previously, SEA negotiated annually with the school board.

Two years ago negotiations started in March and ended in September only after teachers declared an impasse and threatened to strike. Settlement came the day before teachers were to vote on a strike.

Last year the multi-year contract was considered to help prevent such dilemmas and allow both teachers and school officials to devote more time to improving the educational quality of the district.

The current contract sets a base salary of $8,640 for next year and allows renegotiation of the contract after two years if the cost-of-living increases more than 4.5 per cent.

Pancake supper at Holmes School

An all you can eat pancake supper is being sponsored by the Holmes Junior High School student council Thursday from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The menu will include pancakes, sausage, applesauce and beverages. Adult admission is $1.25 and children 10 and under $1. Tickets bought in advance will be eligible for a door prize.

Following the supper a G-rated Agatha Christie mystery movie and colored cartoons will be shown in the multi-purpose room. Admission to the movie is 50 cents for high school students and adults and 25 cents for younger children.

The school is located at 1900 W. Lonnquist, Mount Prospect.

HOSTESSES HAVE BEEN chosen for the Association of Industry and Commerce Trade and Career Fair, June 14, 15 and 16 at Elk Grove High School fieldhouse. Sue Dixon, Cindy Vavara, Kelley Lee and Laura Balmes extend invitations to executives to "come to the fair."

School lunch plans please parents

PTA notes

An ice cream social will be sponsored by the Ruple School PTO June 3 in the school gym, 305 Oakton St., Elk Grove Village.

There will be entertainment as well as ice cream, cake, brownies and soft drinks served from 6 to 9 p.m.

This is the last event of the school year and the proceeds will help to pay for the cultural arts programs, carpentry shop and other school projects.

Parents prefer whatever lunch program their children currently are using, according to a lunch program survey conducted by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

The survey analyzed this year's pilot programs in comparison with the traditional programs. The pilot program offered 30-minute lunch periods and hot lunches in seven schools and were initiated after extensive discussion last year by school officials.

However, the survey indicated parents like whatever they have with a slight preference given to 45-minute periods where students have the option to go home for lunch.

Out of 5,990 responses, 1,977 parents preferred a 45-minute lunch period with 1,905 preferring a 30-minute lunch. Also 1,250 wanted 50-minute lunch programs with all students remaining for lunch and 858 wanted 50-minute periods with all children going home for lunch except those who live more than one mile. Under the latter plan, the present winter lunch program would continue.

PARENTS AND teachers attending Tuesday's board committee meeting to discuss next year's lunch program expressed concern that there is no standard program for the district nor a set of rules for the students over lunch hour.

Teachers pointed out the shorter lunch period allows children enough time to eat and get a reasonable amount of exercise. The 179 teachers preferred a 30-minute program, 86 preferred a 45-minute program and 74 preferred a 50-minute program.

Other students either go home or participate in the parent-paid lunch program, an independent program that allows parents to pay for supervisors for students to remain in school for lunch.

Schaible will contact the principals and staffs from each school to get their recommendations for a lunch program next year.

The lunch program will be discussed by the board again on May 27 at 8 p.m. Keller Junior High School.

'Disney on Parade' theme picked by club

"Disney on Parade" will be the theme of this year's Elk Grove Village Jaycees' parade, Sunday, June 23.

The parade will highlight the Jaycees' annual carnival, which will begin June 19. The 16th annual parade will feature the Elk Grove High School band, the Guardsmen, the Shriner Units with their famous Mini-Motor Corps, "Genie and the Flying Carpets," the Northwest Clowns along with floats from the village Athletic Assn., library and Cub Scout Pack 265.

First, second and third-place trophies will be awarded along with the Jaycees Grand Marshal award and the President's award. Any organization wishing to march or enter a float in the parade may still do so, by calling 439-8957 or 439-4554.

The parade, which will start at 1:30 p.m., will begin at Ridge Avenue and Clearmont Drive, proceed north to Elk Grove Boulevard and along the boulevard to Lions Park.

320-home Centex plan approved by village

A 102-acre single family residential project proposed by Centex Builders in Elk Grove Village has the village board's approval.

The development under review for several months, calls for building 320 homes in an area west of Ill. Rte. 53. Trustees approved the preliminary plat Tuesday.

However, board members have requested the village clerk to hold back official recording of the plat approval, until the plan is reviewed by the village engineer.

Centex's plans for the development were initially rejected by both the plan commission and village board in March.

VILLAGE MANAGER Charles Willis said the developer has satisfied officials complaints about lack of sufficient entrance and exit streets and lack of access to a nearby school.

"The board wants assurance that the agreed-upon changes have been correctly outlined on the plat," said Willis.

Village Engineer Don Ciaglia will review the plat.

One change requested by the plan commission and board was to the interior street layout.

Ciaglia said he is concerned that the changes do not affect easements or lot sizes.

THE APPROVED plat shows a four-lane outlet street from Home Street to Glen Trail and a path at the south border of the property to nearby Link School.

Willis said the changes were written into the plat but had not been rechecked by the village engineer before the board approved the plat.

He added that detailed engineering specifications are not usually reviewed before plat approval.

"But in this case, since we asked for and got many changes on the plat, we want our engineer to review it," said Willis.

Three eighth-grade girls linked to drug incidents

Three eighth-grade girls have been found under the influence of drugs or with possession of drugs while at school since May 1.

Two cases occurred at Addams Junior High School and the third occurred at Eisenhower Junior High School in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

At Eisenhower May 2, the eighth grade girl was found with possession of a substance thought to be marijuana. She was not charged with possession of drugs, however, and is undergoing counseling.

On May 6 a girl at Addams was found cutting class and under the influence of some drug. She admitted she took drugs from the family medicine cabinet.

THE THIRD incident occurred on May 13 when a girl was detained for suspicion of being under the influence of drugs. Her mother was contacted and the girl was taken to the hospital for treatment.

She also was taken to the hospital in October for treatment of a drug overdose and was placed under psychiatric care for 28 days.

These cases were brought to the attention of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 school board by Gerald J. Lewin, a former school board member. He said he had "heard rumors" about three drug incidents during May.

Gordon Thoren, board president, acknowledged the incidents and indicated that the drug committee is looking into the school curriculum to help prevent a drug problem. However, he said he did not feel three cases denoted a drug problem.

LEWIN REQUESTED that parents be notified through a newsletter about drug incidents so they may watch for deviation of their own children's behavior.

Milt Derr, associate superintendent, said discipline for drug cases varies with the child. All parents are notified to get their involvement. The juvenile officer also is informed and often the district's special services — social worker, guidance counselor and psychiatrist — are called on to help.

"I don't think we're trying to say we don't have cases, because we do," Derr said. "But what defines a drug problem? I'm concerned if there's even one case."

He said the district has had "probably not more than five cases all year prior to this time."

The increase during May follows the predictions set by Larry Walker, Schaumburg Township youth director. According to him, drug incidents increase during the fall and spring when youths have more contact with each other.

He also has stated the district has about 300 junior high school youths who have had some connection with drugs. Included in this figure is alcohol as well as the harder drugs.

Concert Tuesday

The Elk Grove High School jazz lab band will present its second annual jazz concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the high school.

The band will appear with guest soloist Bruce Bannister of Vincennes, Ind. The program will also feature an original composition by senior trumpeter Scott Moninger.

Danny Thomas tells of 1937 vow to St. Jude

by JUDY JOBBITT

Danny Thomas drank coffee and smoked his cigar at Woodfield Shopping Center as he talked once again about the saint he met and spoke to in Detroit in 1937.

It was St. Jude Thaddeus, the saint of the hopeless.

Thomas has devoted his life and work to fulfilling his vow to that saint — St. Jude's Research Children's Hospital is the result of that vow.

St. Jude and Danny Thomas are now inseparable in the minds of a lot of people. Thomas has made the famous children's hospital his work for years now.

This work brought him to the Northwest suburbs last week, just as it takes him across the nation raising funds.

THE DANNY THOMAS who hit it big at the 5100 Club on Chicago's North Side in 1943, who entered the big time in a thousand cafes with his routine "No Jack," and who later fathered actress Marlo Thomas, is also the man who made a hospital happen. But nevertheless, times have changed since the old days.

Just ask John Burlini. He remembers when Danny couldn't spare a dime.

Burlini approached Thomas Thursday with a photograph taken in 1943 at the 5100 Club. Pictured were Thomas, Burlini and his wife and John Ramoni, an old buddy of Danny's and Burlini's cousin.

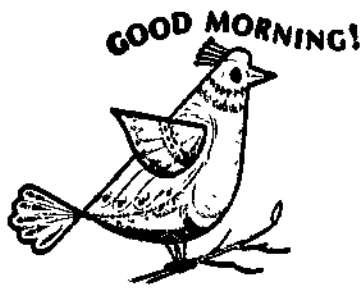

Burlini recalled the days when he visited Thomas in California. "Marlo was only a tyke then, yea high," he said pointing to his waist.

"Danny doesn't look well today. He looks tired," he added.

Burlini shrugged his shoulders about the fact Danny didn't recognize him. "He's still friendly and he's still human. Stardom didn't hit him like others. He's always been a decent man."

ENTERTAINER DANNY THOMAS signs autographs on albums at Sears, Roebuck and Co. in Woodfield Shopping Center. Thomas is currently starring at the Mill Run Theater at Golf Mill Shopping Center. The albums netted St. Jude's Research Children's Hospital, his charity cause, $16,000.

Annexation removes block to construction of hotel

A Ramada Inn on the site of Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in Palatine, which was opposed by residents and Cook County, apparently will be built this summer after annexation to the village.

An annexation petition clearing the way for the construction of a Ramada Inn at Northwest Highway and Quentin Road will be acted on by the Palatine Village Board tonight.

The petition requests the annexation of the 5.75-acre site of the proposed Ramada Inn and three other parcels totaling approximately five acres along Quentin Road north of the village limits.

The annexation removes the final stumbling block to the start of construction on the Ramada Inn. Under the terms of a five-year preannexation agreement and restrictive covenant between the developer, John Bakos, and the village, construction on the controversial Ramada Inn can start when it is annexed to the village. The public hearings on the development have already been held and the project has the village board's approval.

CONSTRUCTION OF the Ramada Inn in unincorporated Palatine Township was temporarily halted last April when the Cook County Board of Commissioners rejected a rezoning request for the parcel. With the project blocked in the township, the only way it could be built was if it was annexed to the village.

Attempts to make the Ramada Inn parcel contiguous to the village on the west failed and that is when Bakos started purchasing parcels for a southern annexation corridor. The corridor goes around an abandoned Gulf Service Station on the southeast corner of Quentin Road and Northwest Highway.

Mark H. Beaubien Jr., attorney for Bakos, said there are no plans for the development of the five acres recently purchased by Bakos.

CONSTRUCTION OF the Ramada Inn will be under way by Aug. 1 and the hotel will be completed in about a year, said Beaubien. Construction plans call for a four-story motel with 166 rooms and a one-story commercial building housing managerial offices, banquet facilities and a restaurant. A second phase of the development calls for tearing down Uncle Andy's Cow Palace and constructing a one-story office building with underground parking.

Provisions have been made for 400 parking spaces, low-intensity lighting and landscaping with buffer zones for abutting residential homeowners.

Residents from Lake Park Estates subdivision adjacent to the proposed hotel have strongly opposed the Ramada Inn project. The village's decision to approve the project prompted the homeowners to decide against annexing to the village.

Road widening means demolishing 2 buildings

Two buildings will have to be demolished in downtown Palatine if the proposed plan for the widening of Palatine Road from Quentin Road to Northwest Highway is adopted.

Hansen True Value Hardware Store, 105 W. Palatine Rd., would have to be removed to provide right-of-way for improvements at the intersection of Palatine Road and Brockway Street.

Improvements at the intersection of Plum Grove and Palatine Roads would require the removal of the Palatine Masonic Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Rd. The building is now a non-conforming use in the downtown area. Gas stations at the intersection might also be required to relocate their pumps because of right-of-way acquisition for the improvements.

The streets and traffic committee of the village board will recommend the board adopt the traffic engineering study of the downtown area prepared by Rolfe T. Gustus at a cost of $3,600. The study includes the Palatine Road improvements.

THE FINAL traffic engineering study will be prepared by Gustus for presentation to the board on June 17. It will include cost estimates, preliminary engineering and signalization plans.

Improvements proposed for Palatine Road include widening of the road from two to four lanes between Quentin Road and Northwest Highway. Each lane would be 11 feet. Several intersection improvements are also recommended to help the flow of traffic.

Right-and left-turn bays from all four approaches are recommended at the intersection of Plum Grove and Palatine roads. At Palatine Road and Brockway Street left-turn bays are recommended from all directions and right-turn bays from the north and south approaches.

"This plan has the least amount of impact but it will still get the job done," said Gustus. He said part of the problem was a previous widening that was done completely on the north side of the street. Buildings have been allowed to locate right up to the right-of-way.

Eliminating the turning lanes would hog down traffic on Palatine Road, according to Gustus.

Following village board approval, the plans will have to be taken to the Illinois Department of Highways for approval because Palatine Road is a state road.

State grants approval for new bank in village

Bank of Palatine, the newest addition to the village's financial institutions, received official approval Friday from the Commissioner of Bank and Trust Companies of the State of Illinois.

The bank will be built at the corner of Northwest Highway and Plum Grove Road at an estimated cost of $1 million. Applications to the state and federal governments for the bank have been pending since 1972. Bank of Palatine will open with capital of $1.5 million.

Board members are: Winn C. Davidson, chairman; Davidson's brother Lyle of Palatine, John Mangel II, Kenilworth; David M. Haller, Golf; Richard P. Coleman, Mount Prospect, and Adolph P. Raymond, River Forest.

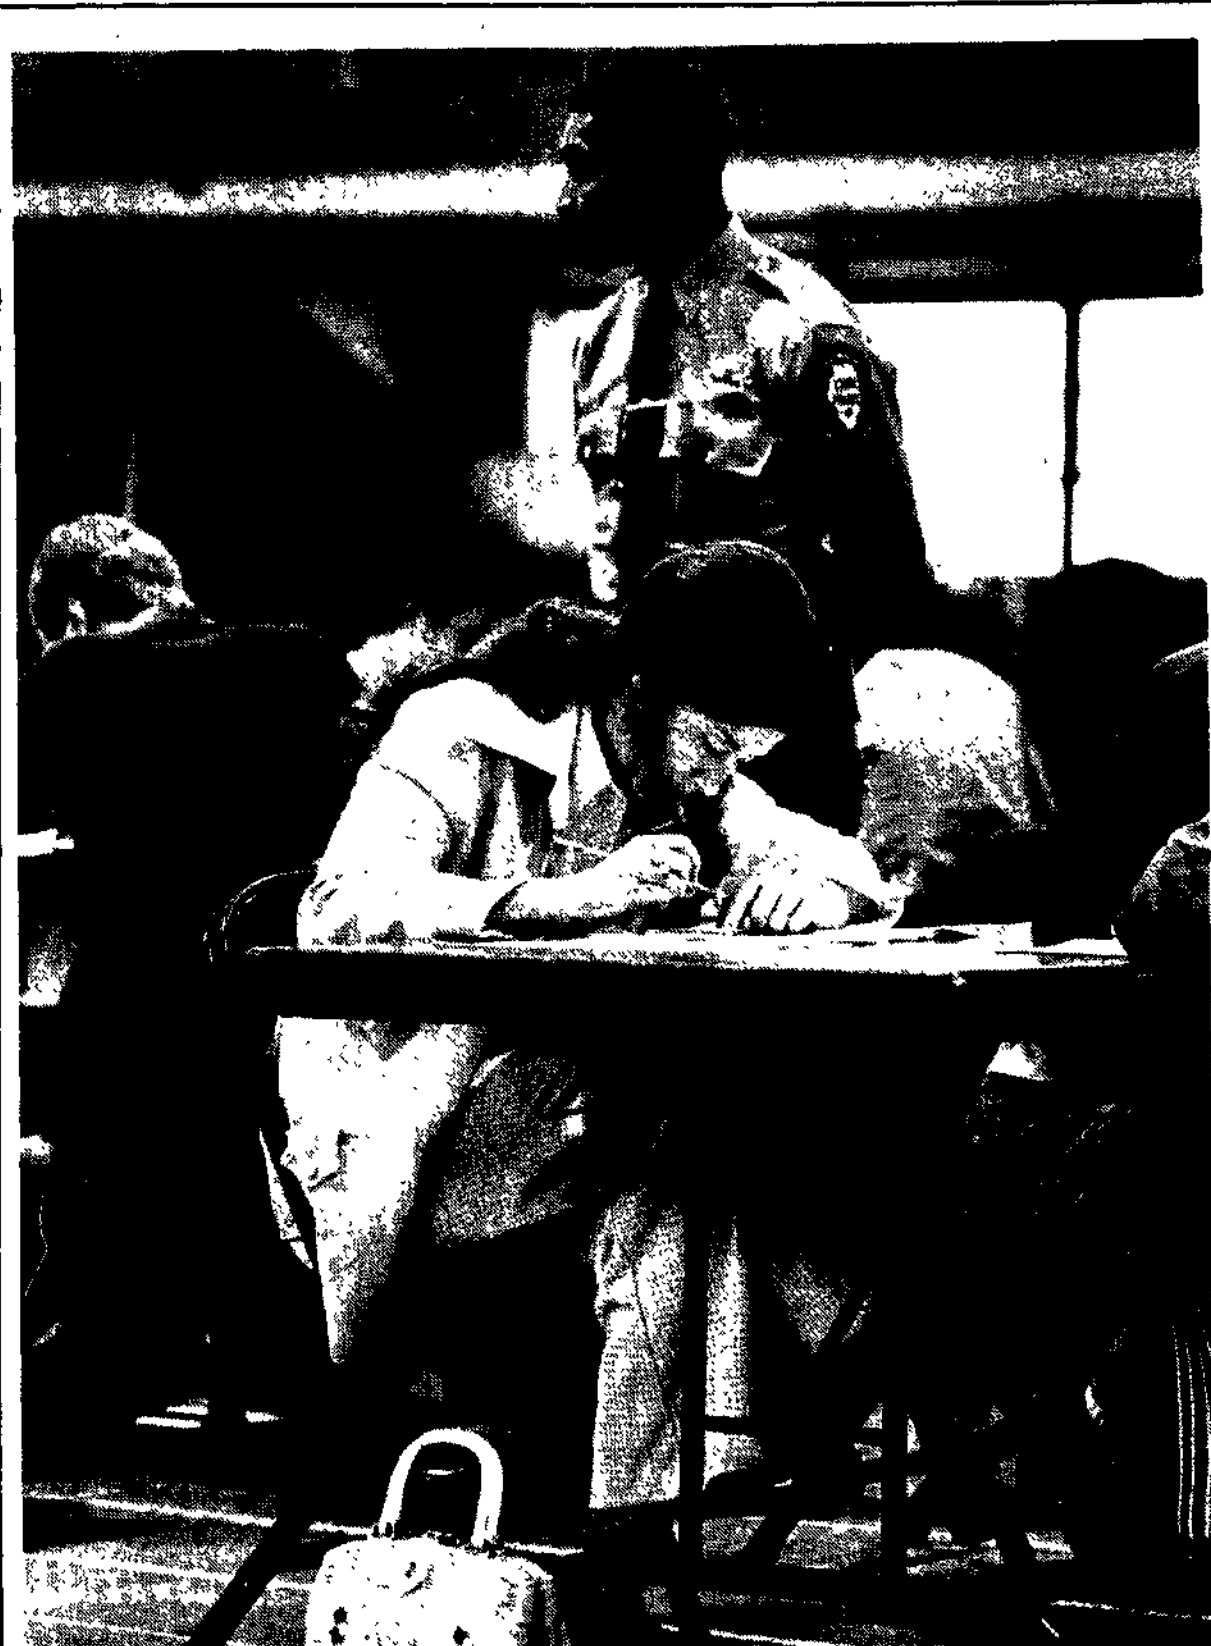

DAVIDSON, a lawyer and former vice president of First National Bank of Des Plaines, said 60,000 shares of stocks in the bank will be offered to the public at $25 per share as soon as a prospectus is prepared.

The bank is part of a $2 million commercial-bank complex bordering the Palatine Public Library site, on seven acres on the south side of Northwest Highway, between Benton Street and Plum Grove Road.

"We expect to start construction in about 45 days," Davidson said last week. Changes in the site plan for the center will be reviewed tonight by the village board, after local zoning officials recommended the changes proposed by Davidson Thursday.

The revision basically calls for an L-shaped one-story retail center and a larger bank building. Davidson's first proposal had a two-story shop and office building, with the bank scheduled for two construction phases.

Three other banks and one savings and loan institution currently operate in Palatine. Palatine National Bank, the oldest, opened in 1944. First Bank and Trust started in 1962, followed by the Suburban National Bank in 1968.

Reaction to plans to revise 'Old Madrid' mixed

by JOANN VAN WYE

Plans to revise the scope of the Old Madrid apartment complex are being greeted with cautious optimism by most residents living in that area of Palatine, while nothing short of a return to a 66-acre golf course will make others happy.

"Anything is better than three more of those 14-story monstrosities" is the philosophy of most homeowners abutting the development.

The homeowners have kept abreast of changes in the project being proposed by Sellergren, Inc. of Park Ridge through their homeowners associations and a public hearing a week ago. Instead of three additional 14-story apartment buildings and a 26-acre commercial area, the new plans call for nine five-story condominium buildings, an 18-acre commercial area and eight-acre office site.

LOWER BUILDINGS, less people and no commercial use are the main concerns of residents as they get ready to embark on a new phase in the eight-year battle over development of the former Pebble Creek Golf Course on the northwest corner of Hicks Road and Northwest Highway.

"I would like to see them make it a golf course again," said Robert Alread, 717 Wren Ave., who says his house is the closest to Old Madrid of any in the subdivision. "But it is an accomplished fact that there is an apartment building in my backyard, I would just like to see it not get much worse. To the degree they can reduce the density of the project, I like the idea of condominiums."

Others echoed Alread's sentiments saying they would look far more favorably on condominiums than more high-rise apartment buildings.

"I would definitely like to see the buildings lower. If (the existing high-rise) is a monster I don't think we should have in Palatine," said one woman who looks out her back window onto the property. She added since more children would probably live in the condominiums than the high-rises that were advertised for singles, she hoped provisions would be included in the revised plans for playgrounds.

PALATINE-ROLLING Meadows Dist. 15 officials also have expressed concern about children in the project. Joseph Kiszka, deputy superintendent of Dist. 15, has asked the developer to provide sidewalks to arterial streets for children to use to get to bus stops or school, deceleration lanes for buses to use to turn into the development if they need to and consideration for pick up points.

Sellergren has informed Dist. 15 officials that his commitment of $200,000 to the school district to cover the nearly two-year tax lag between when the district receives children from the project and when it receives taxes will remain the same.

Residents complain about having their view of the sunrise obstructed by the existing 14-story building and not being able to look out the windows on one side of the house although most admit the existing tower hasn't posed as big a nuisance as they feared.

This time they plan to make sure there are adequate provisions for buffer zones and landscaping on the property to make it more palatable. Mrs. R. Sever of 277 Carpenter Dr. says she hopes the plans will make provisions to leave as many existing trees on the property as possible.

Others are fighting for a 150-foot setback from the west edge of the property instead of the proposed 50-foot setback and a greater setback from Hicks Road.

38-acre project near Dundee-53 intersection

Shop-office-motel complex plans revealed at hearing

Details of a 38-acre shopping center, motel and office complex northwest of the Dundee Road-III. Rte. 53 intersection were made public Friday at a hearing before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals in Palatine.

Developer Edwin Edelberg, of the Chicago firm of Edelberg-Mayer and Assoc., told zoning officials that the project will include a 150-unit motel and an office building with 77,000 square feet in office space.

More than a year ago, Edelberg had offered more limited plans for most of the property, but testified at that time that he had been unsuccessful in purchasing 20 of the 38 acres. The land had originally been a farm. The proposed commercial area is south of the Hidden Creek condominium apartment project, currently under construction.

THE FIRST PHASE will be started "before the end of the year," Edelberg said. The developer already has zoning for the motel and commercial buildings on 18 acres of the property.

If zoning is approved, the office building and shopping center would be constructed after the motel is completed. A Ramada Inn is located on the south side of Dundee Road, across from Edelberg's project.

Engineers testifying for the development told zoning officials that none of the property lies in a flood plain and the facility would be served by the Ferndale Heights sanitary sewer system.

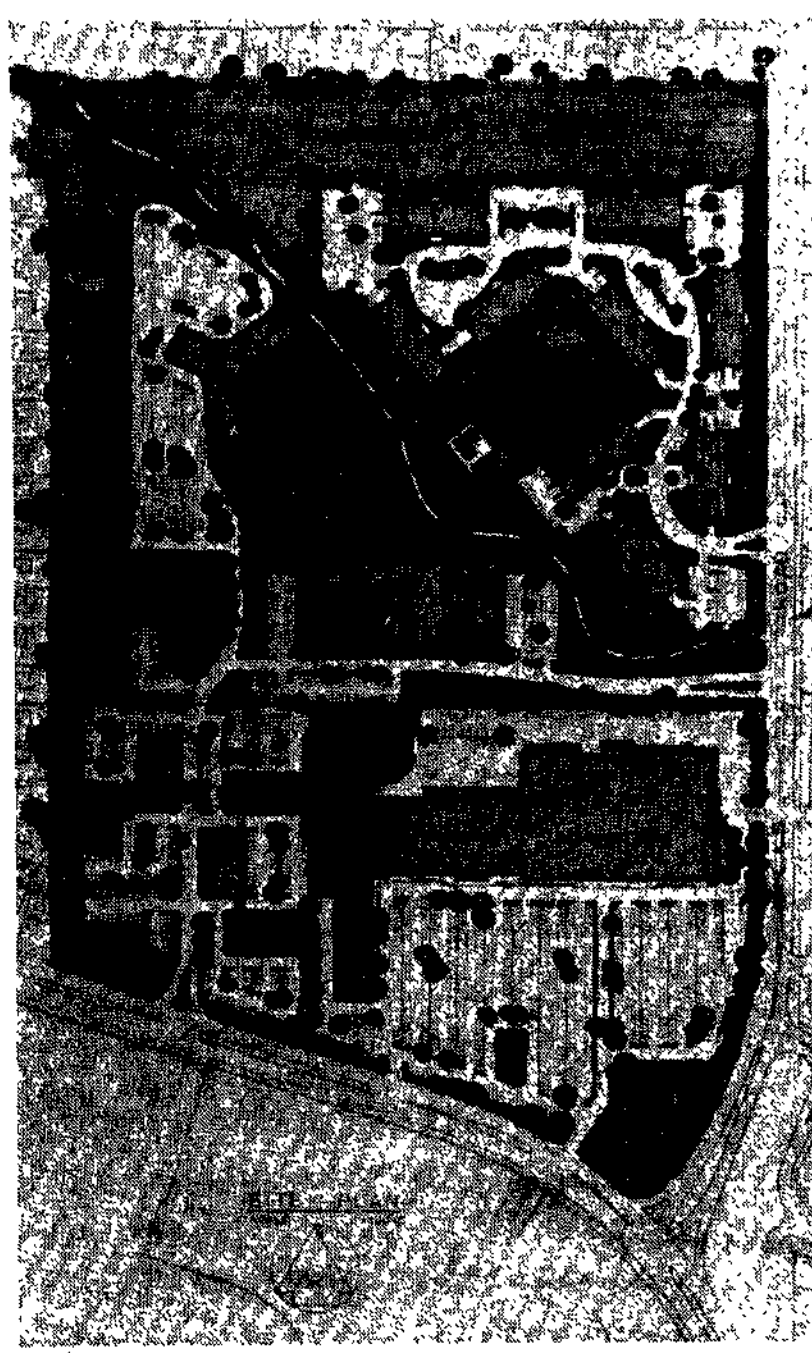

The shopping center would draw from a two-mile area which includes the condominium and apartment projects of Hidden Creek, Ivy Glen, Las Haciendas, Kassaba Pine Trace, San Tropis and a number of other higher density residential areas.

OTHER PROJECTS discussed Friday include a $900,000 shopping center between Dundee Road and Lilac Lane on 4½ acres of land northeast of the Rand-Dundee intersection. Developer of the project, R. J. Klarchek, said the center would have office and retail shops with an auto accessory store, a grocery or delicatessen and a 150-seat restaurant. Klarchek said he had "deleted all those (stores) we consider that might be deleterious" in choosing the general types of stores planned for the neighborhood center.

Construction would begin within six months if rezoning is approved. Klarchek said that a medical building might also be part of the project, although specific uses have not been set for the center.

Klarchek also asked for rezoning for a Jack-in-the-Box restaurant across from the center. Palatine Village Mgr. Anton Harwig requested 21 days to respond to the shopping center projects. Final action will come from the Cook County board after the zoning officials file their recommendations.

REVISED SITE plans for the Old Madrid apartment complex call for office complex, not three more 14-nine 5-story condominiums, an 18-acre commercial area and an 8-story apartment towers.

Mass offered for unity

Representatives from St. Joseph's Home for the Elderly at 80 W. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, recently attended a special Mass of Unity for Senior Citizens celebrated by Archbishop John Cardinal Cody last week.

Palatine senior citizens attending the Chicago Mass included Ann Burns, Myrtle Kenney, Alice Lamberty, Josephine Godley, Alice Farrington, Anna Phipps, Kate Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. John Daly, Frank Kohn and Bill Wardell.

Sponsors Indian girl

Charles H. Gore, 1991 Pheasant Tr., Palatine, is the sponsor of a 10-year-old American Indian girl of the Chemehuevi tribe, through the Save the Children Federation.

Preschool signups June 6

Christian nurture preschool with the First United Methodist Church, 123 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, will be open for all registration June 6 from 9 a.m. to noon at the church.

Children who will be three years old by Dec. 1 will be in one age group, and youngsters who will be four by Dec. 1 are included in the older age group. Three-year-olds will attend preschool from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Wednesdays. The older preschoolers may attend on Mondays, Wednesdays, or both days from 12:30-2:30 p.m.

Details of the program, which includes parental participation, are available by phoning Ruth Hoffbeck at 359-3610, or Joyce Shone at 358-4738.

Police intercept drugs said headed for schools

Drugs allegedly destined for Palatine High schools were confiscated in a raid by police Thursday and five persons were charged with possession of drugs and marijuana.

Agents with the Metropolitan Enforcement Group and the Palatine Police Department raided a house at 600 W. Baldwin Rd. after a two-month investigation into drug activities. Drugs taken during the afternoon raid include several pounds of marijuana, LSD and PCP, an animal tranquilizer, police said. Police also recovered a loaded 22 cal. hand gun.

Total value of the drugs seized is estimated by police at $1,500. The drugs were headed for local high schools, according to Palatine Police Chief Jerry Bratcher.

Nine men and three women were apprehended, including a 15-year-old girl. Five of the subjects were charged. They are Philip P. Devine, 18, delivery and possession of marijuana and possession of LSD; Elmer Dinse, 26, possession of marijuana and hypodermic needles; Trina Urban, 23, possession of marijuana and PCP; James E. Troman, 24, possession of marijuana and PCP and failure to register a firearm. All were living at 600 Baldwin Rd. Steven A. Mulvey, 18, 721 Lanark Ln., Palatine, was charged with possession of marijuana.

The five are scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County circuit court June 10.

Reactions mixed to plans for Old Madrid changes blend with surrounding single family homes is also advocated. One man has suggested the developer reconsider his plans and construct mid-rise buildings between five and six stories around the tower and low-rise two to three story units on the periphery of the property.

"My first choice for development would be single family homes and second is low density condominiums," said C. F. Plazak, 142 Chewink Ct., adding he would like to see Sellergren remove the crane that has been sitting on the property for the past year.

Plazak is opposed to any commercial development on the property saying "we already have enough in the area." He cites the Palatine Plaza on Northwest Highway near Hicks Road and the existing Palatine Mall on Hicks Road near Northwest Highway as proof the area already has enough commercial development.

Palatine trustees Robert J. Guss Jr. and Philip E. Stern, who live near the Old Madrid development and were active in battles to block it, report they have received few calls about the changes in the project. Both attribute it to the steps being taken to keep the residents informed of the change in plans before they are presented to the village board for approval.

Savings and loan seeks to open branch facility here

A branch of a major Chicago savings and loan institution plans to open in Rolling Meadows this year.

St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago has applied to the state for a charter to open a facility in the city. The institution, which has assets of $475 million, would be the first savings and loan in the city.

Association vice president and secretary Joseph Sculli confirmed Friday the association is negotiating for a location in the city which could be open by the end of the year.

"We have had an application pending with the state since Dec. 30 and we expect to be approved July 1," Sculli said. "We hope to be operating by the end of this year, but a lot depends on the granting of the charter, the contracts for building and the rest. We're hoping to open as soon as we can."

SCULLI SAID an exact location for the facility has not been selected, but negotiations are being conducted currently with several property owners.

"I can say that it will be somewhere in the heart of Rolling Meadows," Sculli said. "It will be on Kirchoff Road within three-tenths of a mile of the (Rolling Meadows) shopping center."

The city currently has only one bank, the Bank of Rolling Meadows located in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. A second bank is scheduled to open in August, the Plum Grove Bank, on Algonquin Road near Wilke Road.

TWO OTHER SAVINGS and loan institutions had applied last year for charters to open in the city but one, the American Home Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago, withdrew its petition in August. The other, the Broadview Savings and Loan Assn. of suburban Broadview, applied in September. However, president Andrew Pupils said the branch plans were only tentative.

St. Paul presently has two facilities, one in Chicago and one in Franklin Park which opened in July, 1973, Sculli said. "This (the Rolling Meadows facility) would be our second branch."

Sculli said the city was selected for the branch site because a "need" for the facility exists.

"It's a growing community," Sculli said. "We found that Rolling Meadows was one of the largest communities in Illinois that didn't have a savings and loan."

We have written a lot of mortgages in the city and we saw a tremendous need for a savings and loan there."

THE INSTITUTION could open by the end of the year if plans proceed on schedule, Sculli said. "We hope to be open as soon as we can and the soonest would be the end of the year. We may not be in until 1975, but we hope it can be soon."

St. Paul Federal president is Leo Blaber.

The institution's application for a charter must be approved by the state, which regulates banking institutions.

Gasoline shortage brings down city tax revenue

The effects of the gas shortage earlier this year are being reflected in the sales tax revenue receipts received by Rolling Meadows for January and February.

Sales tax, which provides the city with about one-third its total yearly revenue, was lower for the first months of 1974 than 1973 probably in large part because of the severe gasoline shortage earlier this year, City Treasurer Robert Cole said.

The city receives sales tax in the form of a penny for each 5 cents collected by the state on retail sales in the city. Rolling Meadows has always been one of the leading sales-tax recipients because the Western Electric Co. bills from its Rolling Meadows address.

A three-month lag usually exists from the time the money is collected to the time it is rebated to a municipality. The city recently received its February total.

The sum amounted to $101,736 compared with the 1973 February total of $124,544. January figures for 1974 were $96,875 compared to 1973 January figures of $106,951.

"We were in the heights of the gas shortage and that probably had a great deal to do with it," Cole said. He said there is also usually a lower total in the early part of the year because spending drops at that time. "People are paying their income tax and they aren't buying as much," he said.

Charge youth who threatened motorist

A 19-year-old Rolling Meadows youth who allegedly threatened a man with a gun after the two were involved in a minor traffic accident was charged Saturday by state police with aggravated assault.

Taken into custody was Craig Goeske, 3701 Wilke Road. According to state police, Goeske was involved in a minor traffic incident at approximately 5:30 p.m. Saturday near Rand and Dundee roads. Goeske began arguing with the driver of the other vehicle, Ragner Korthase of Berkeley, and then pulled a gun on Korthase, according to police.

Goeske was arrested at his Rolling Meadows home about a half hour after the incident, police said.

His bond was set at $1,000 and he will appear later in Mount Prospect District 3 Circuit Court.

Cassettes available from city library

The Rolling Meadows Library recently purchased a number of cassettes which are now available to junior high and adult card holders for a one week period.

Preschool and elementary-age children may borrow the cassettes if accompanied by an adult.

Topics range from "The Cinnamon Bear" to "FBI in Peace and War" by Ellery Queen. Also represented are comedy stars Abbott and Costello, Amos 'n' Andy, Burns and Allen and Milton Berle.

A week-long schedule of activities to honor Kimball Hill School principal Mary Csanadi begins today with a song-fest presented by the students.

Mrs. Csanadi, who has been working in Dist. 15 for 20 years, will be retiring at the end of the school year.

"We just all felt that we wanted to do something for her," said Jeanne Achenbach, one of the organizers of the activities. "Everyone on the faculty is involved in the planning in some way," added Carol Norton, another organizer.

The activities start Monday with a special songfest and skits presented by the students. Songs will include "School Days," "This Town is Your Town" and "Happy Wanderer."

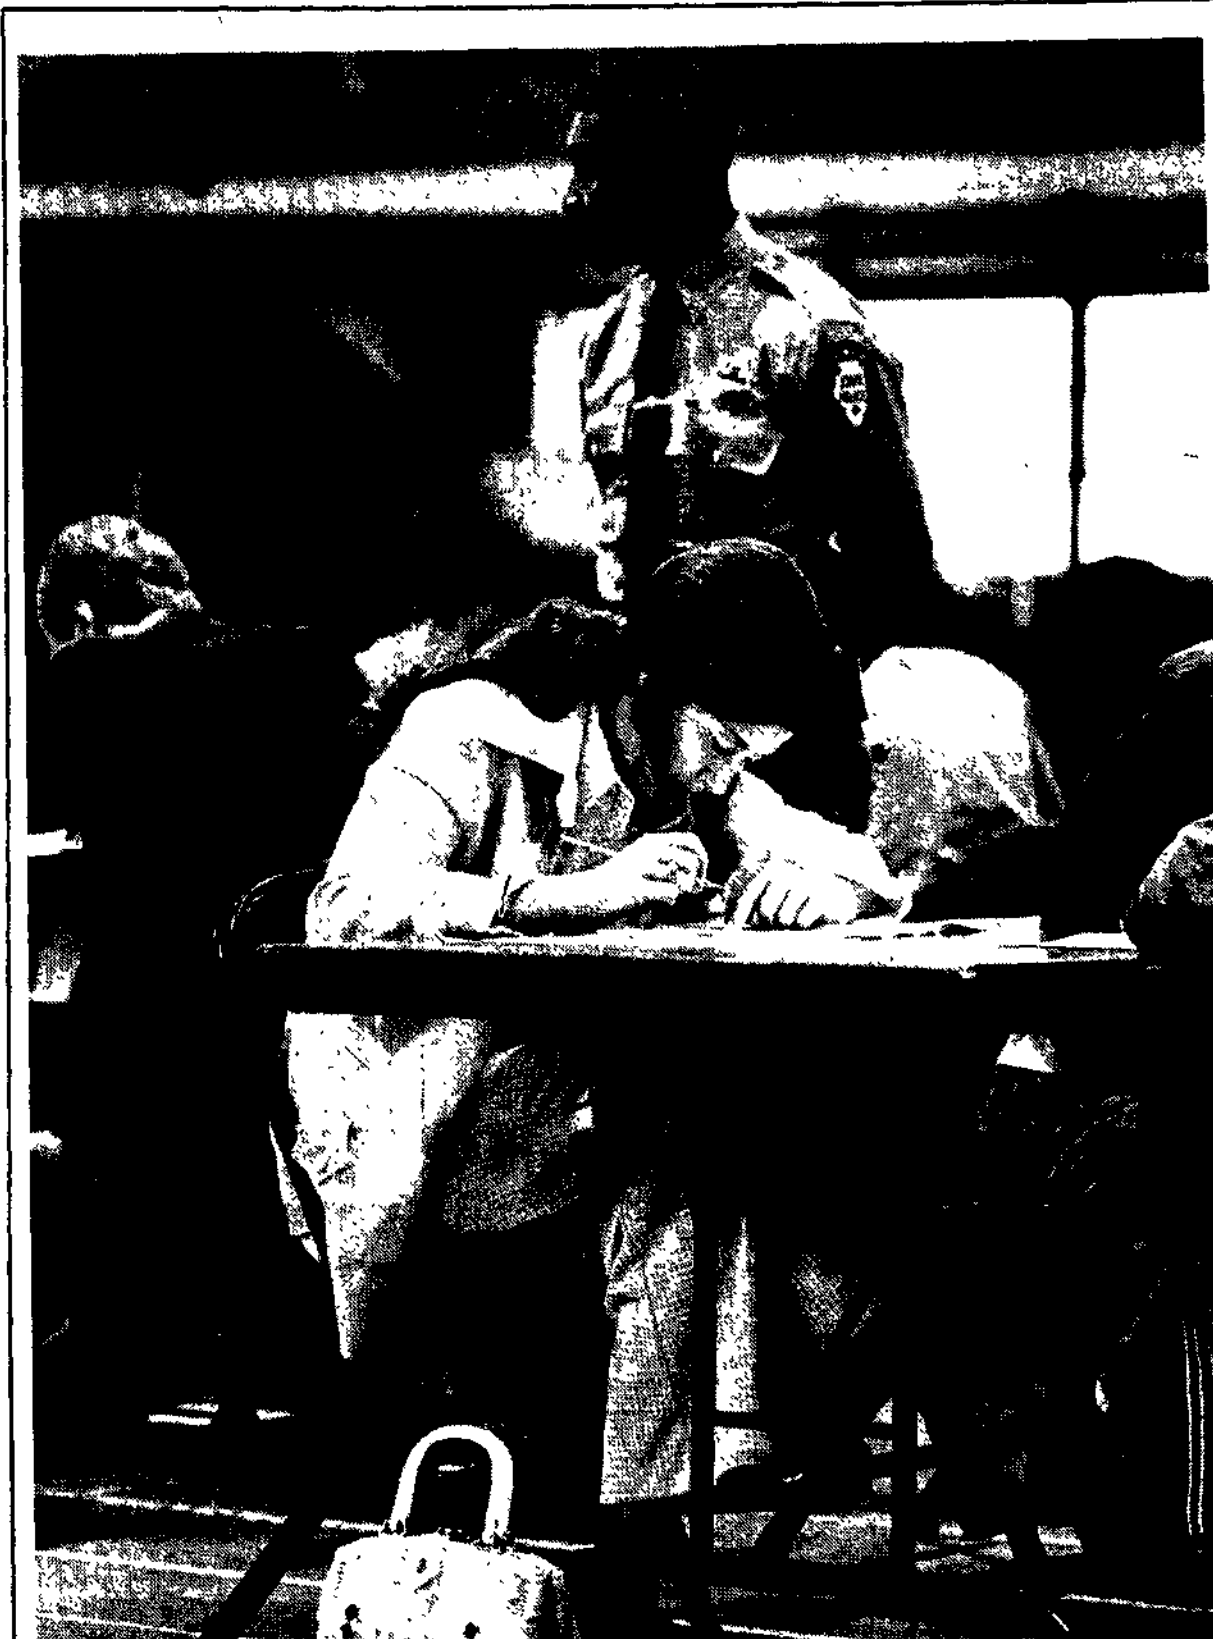

On Tuesday, a retirement dinner for all district personnel retiring this year will be held at 7 p.m. at the Itasca Country Club. Besides Mrs. Csanadi, Anne Hajduk and Frank Lanners; both from Carl Sandburg Junior High School, will also be recognized. Anyone interested in attending can contact the district office at 358-4400.

A PTA sponsored reception will be held Wednesday from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. at the Kimball Hill Resource Center, 2905 Meadow Dr. A reception for district personnel only will be held from 1 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the resource center that day also.

The week ends with a faculty luncheon for Mrs. Csanadi Friday. The luncheon, which will include skits written by the teachers, is open to the faculty only.

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to

Shop-office-motel complex plans revealed at hearing

Details of a 38-acre shopping center, motel and office complex northwest of the Dundee Road-Ill. Rte. 53 intersection were made public Friday at a hearing before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals in Palatine.

Developer Edwin Edelberg, of the Chicago firm of Edelberg-Mayer and Assoc., told zoning officials that the project will include a 150-unit motel and an office building with 77,000 square feet in office space.

More than a year ago, Edelberg had offered more limited plans for most of the property, but testified at that time that he had been unsuccessful in purchasing 20 of the 38 acres. The land had originally been a farm. The proposed commercial area is south of the Hidden Creek condominium apartment project, currently under construction.

THE FIRST PHASE will be started "before the end of the year," Edelberg said. The developer already has zoning for the motel and commercial buildings on 18 acres of the property.

If zoning is approved, the office building and shopping center would be constructed after the motel is completed. A Ramada Inn is located on the south side of Dundee Road, across from Edelberg's project.

The shopping center would draw from a two-mile area which includes the condominium and apartment projects of Hidden Creek, Ivy Glen, Las Haciendas, Kassuba Pine Trace, San Tropais and a number of other higher density residential areas.

OTHER PROJECTS discussed Friday include a $900,000 shopping center between Dundee Road and Lilac Lane on 4½ acres of land northeast of the Rand-Dundee intersection. Developer of the project, R. J. Klarchek, said the center would have office and retail shops with an auto accessory store, a grocery or delicatessen and a 150-seat restaurant. Klarchek also asked for rezoning for a Jack-in-the-Box restaurant across from the center. Palatine Village Mgr. Anton Harwig requested 21 days to respond to the shopping center projects. Final action will come from the Cook County board after the zoning officials file their recommendations.

Wives of policemen form association

Wives of Rolling Meadows police have formed the Rolling Meadows Police Wives Assn. Officers in the organization are Kathy O'Malley, president; Rita Herbert, vice president; and Pat Murphy, secretary-treasurer.

Aims of the organization include to promote the welfare of city police officers and their families, to provide social, educational and creative outlets for policemen's wives, to support charitable causes and to welcome new members of the department and ease the transition into police life.

Mrs. Murphy said membership now includes about half the department wives.

Cook County residents had opposed it

Annexation removes block to construction of hotel

A Ramada Inn on the site of Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in Palatine, which was opposed by residents and Cook County, apparently will be built this summer after annexation to the village.

An annexation petition clearing the way for the construction of a Ramada Inn at Northwest Highway and Quentin Road will be acted on by the Palatine Village Board tonight.

The petition requests the annexation of the 5.75-acre site of the proposed Ramada Inn and three other parcels totaling approximately five acres along Quentin Road north of the village limits.

The annexation removes the final stumbling block to the start of construction on the Ramada Inn. Under the terms of a five-year preannexation agreement and restrictive covenant between the developer, John Bakos, and the village, construction on the controversial Ramada Inn can start when it is annexed to the village. The public hearings on the development have already been held and the project has the village board's approval.

CONSTRUCTION OF the Ramada Inn in unincorporated Palatine Township was temporarily halted last April when the Cook County Board of Commissioners rejected a rezoning request for the parcel. With the project blocked in the township, the only way it could be built was if it was annexed to the village.

Attempts to make the Ramada Inn parcel contiguous to the village on the west failed and that is when Bakos started purchasing parcels for a southern annexation corridor. The corridor goes around an abandoned Gulf Service Station on the southeast corner of Quentin Road and Northwest Highway.

Mark H. Beaubien Jr., attorney for Bakos, said there are no plans for the development of the five acres recently purchased by Bakos.

CONSTRUCTION of the Ramada Inn will be under way by Aug. 1 and the hotel will be completed in about a year, said Beaubien. Construction plans call for a four-story motel with 166 rooms and a one-story commercial building housing managerial offices, banquet facilities and a restaurant. A second phase of the development calls for tearing down Uncle Andy's Cow Palace and constructing a one-story office building with underground parking.

Provisions have been made for 400 parking spaces, low-intensity lighting and landscaping with buffer zones for abutting residential homeowners.

Vicious-dog case to be in court June 20

Dennis Tresidder, 7016 Hawthorne Ln., Hanover Park, is scheduled to appear June 20 in Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court to answer a summons for keeping an allegedly vicious dog.

The Tresidder dog reportedly has bitten four children who live in the neighborhood. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Patricia Kirby, 7028 Hawthorne Ln., mother of a child she said received 30 stitches for head wounds.

Hanover Park police said Tresidder is to appear in connection with a village ordinance that forbids harboring of vicious animals. Police described the summons a "more a civil action" to bring the owner to court for possible action against the dog.

Last Thursday, a judge had set a $1,000 bond, but police said the judge apparently misconstrued the situation. No bond posting was required of Tresidder, police reported.

Mrs. Tresidder said the family intends to give the animal away at the end of an impoundment period required by law after the dog reportedly attacked a child.

The almanac

Today is Monday, May 20, the 140th day of 1974 with 225 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

The German-American inventor of the microphone, Emil Berliner, was born May 20, 1851.

On this day in history:

In 1506, Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1970, House Speaker John McCormack retired at the age of 78.

A thought for the day:

American writer Charles Dudley Warner said, "What small potatoes we all are, compared with what we might be."

Teacher union asks contract be reopened for pay talks

Salary negotiations for next year have been requested by the Schaumburg Education Assn. Although the SEA has completed only one year of their three-year contract, they asked Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education to reopen the contract for negotiation.

The major reason said for the request was the "soaring cost of living." The letter requesting negotiations stated when the current contract was signed last summer, both sides felt a reasonable three year contract might help restrain the rising cost-of-living.

LAST YEAR the SEA signed an unprecedented three year contract. Previously, SEA negotiated annually with the school board.

Last year the multi-year contract was considered to help prevent such dilemmas and allow both teachers and school officials to devote more time to improving the educational quality of the district.

The current contract sets a base salary of $8,840 for next year and allows renegotiation of the contract after two years if the cost-of-living increases more than 4.5 per cent.

THE LETTER submitted to the board Thursday night stated the current contract was considered competitive last year with surrounding districts. But aggregate increases for contracts being negotiated in other districts are predicted to be between 9 to 13 per cent, it said.

The letter also stated a precedent had been set by the board to reconsider contracts because of inflation. It cited the bus service, milk and lunch services as examples.

Gordon Thoren, board president, noted the contract is a negotiable matter that will be considered in executive session.

Jewelry, cash stolen in burglary at home

Schaumburg police are investigating a burglary in which $30 in cash and about $45 worth of jewelry was reported stolen Friday from the Herbert Moeller home, R.R. 1, Schaumburg.

Entry to the residence was gained by prying open a door, authorities said.

Three eighth-grade girls linked to drug incidents

Three eighth-grade girls have been found under the influence of drugs or with possession of drugs while at school since May 1.

Two cases occurred at Addams Junior High School and the third occurred at Eisenhower Junior High School in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

At Eisenhower May 2, the eighth grade girl was found with possession of a substance thought to be marijuana. She was not charged with possession of drugs, however, and is undergoing counseling.

On May 6 a girl at Addams was found cutting class and under the influence of some drug. She admitted she took drugs from the family medicine cabinet.

THE THIRD incident occurred on May 13 when a girl was detained for suspicion of being under the influence of drugs.

Her mother was contacted and the girl was taken to the hospital for treatment.

She also was taken to the hospital in October for treatment of a drug overdose and was placed under psychiatric care for 28 days.

These cases were brought to the attention of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 school board by Gerald J. Lewin, a former school board member. He said he had "heard rumors" about three drug incidents during May.

Gordon Thoren, board president, acknowledged the incidents and indicated that the drug committee is looking into the school curriculum to help prevent a drug problem. However, he said he did not feel three cases denoted a drug problem.

LEWIN REQUESTED that parents be notified through a newsletter about drug incidents so they may watch for deviation of their own children's behavior.

Milt Derr, associate superintendent, said discipline for drug cases varies with the child. All parents are notified to get their involvement. The juvenile officer also is informed and often the district's special services — social worker, guidance counselor and psychiatrist — are called on to help.

"I don't think we're trying to say we don't have cases, because we do," Derr said. "But what defines a drug problem? I'm concerned if there's even one case."

He said the district has had "probably not more than five cases all year prior to this time."

The increase during May follows the predictions set by Larry Walker, Schaumburg Township youth director. According to him, drug incidents increase during the fall and spring when youths have more contact with each other.

He also has stated the district has about 300 junior high school youths who have had some connection with drugs. Included in this figure is alcohol as well as the harder drugs.

Three men charged in offenses over weekend

Hoffman Estates police brought charges against three men and are seeking a burglar after three separate incidents over the weekend.

Police reported they charged both Robert Gaskin, 601 Kelmford, Elk Grove Village, and Bruce Foys, 1800 Ontarioville Rd., Hanover Park, with battery on the complaint of Faustine Martinez, 114 Apache, Hoffman Estates. The charges resulted from a reported auto accident at 5:48 p.m. Friday at Higgins Road and Arizona Boulevard.

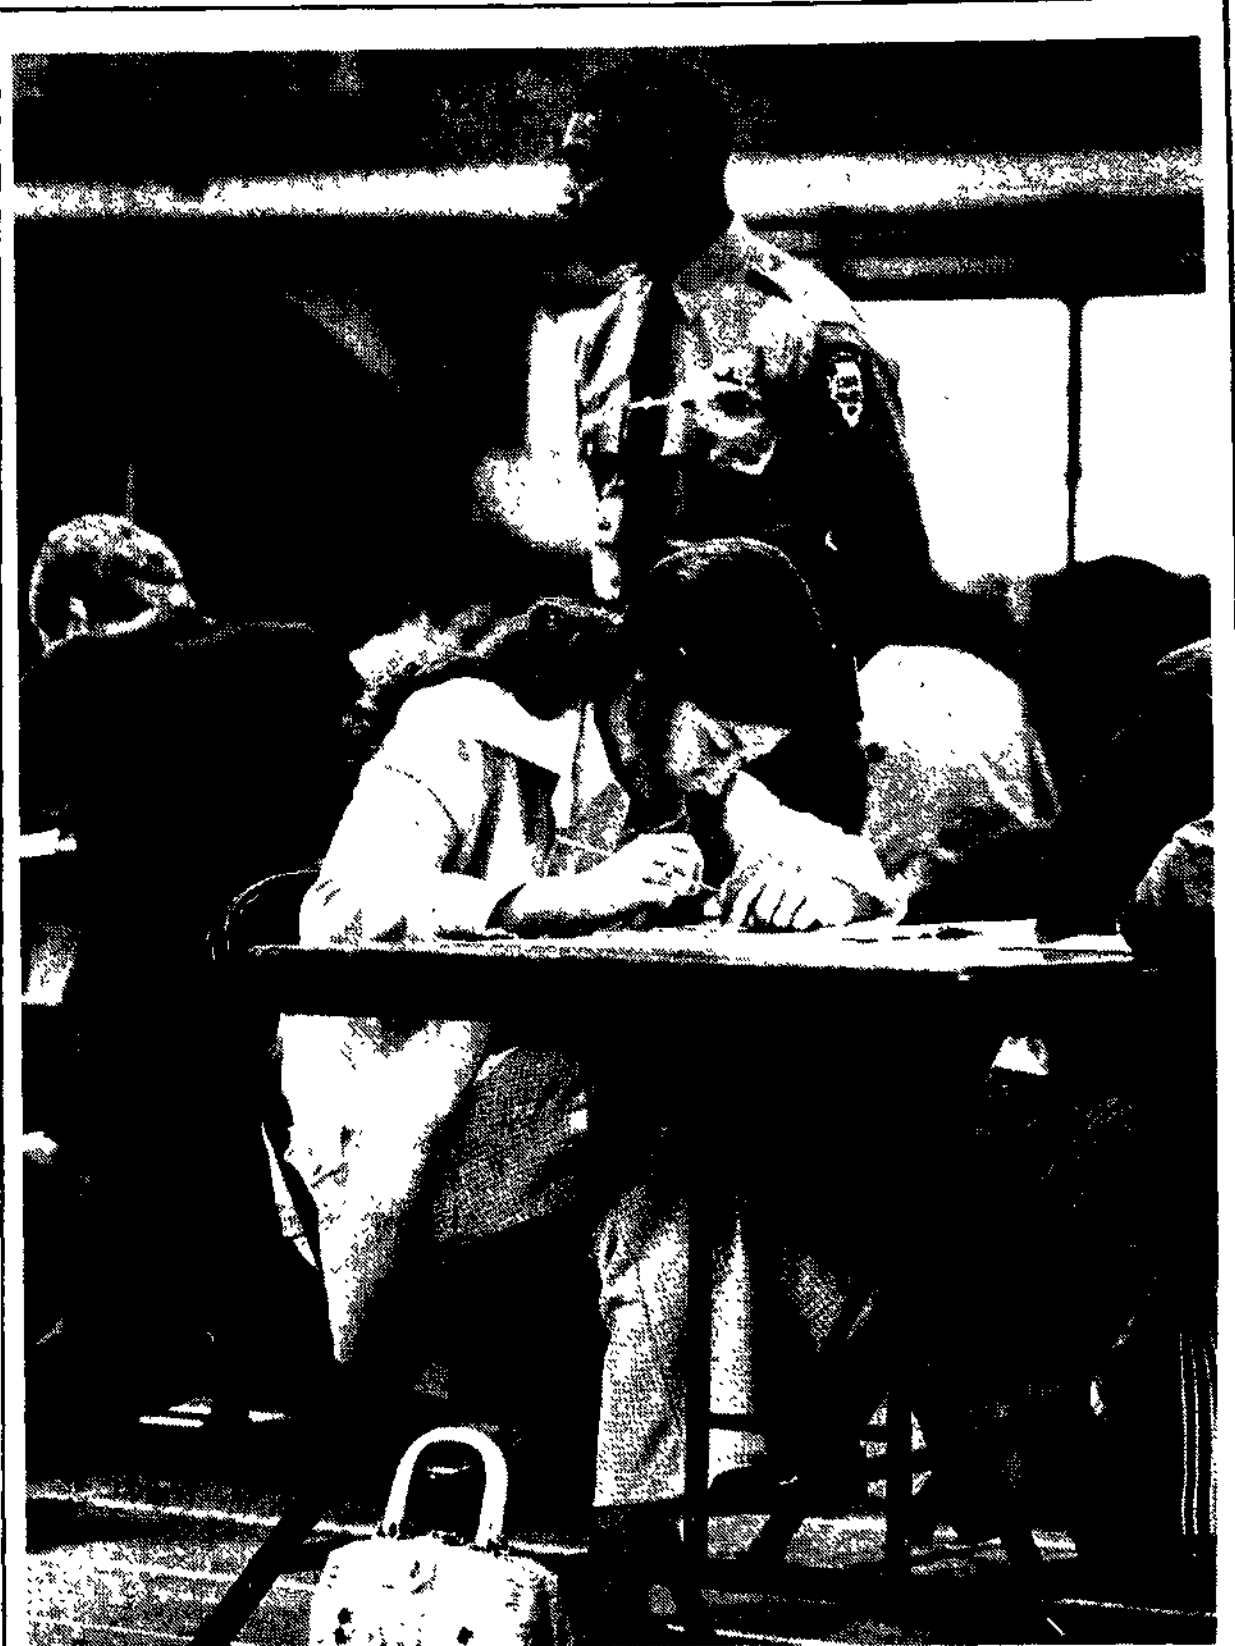

A man identified only as Anthony Lerbach was arrested on a warrant Saturday afternoon and charged with filing a false police report. Police declined to release any details.

Police are seeking the person who reportedly stole $540 in cash from the auto of Edmund Ostos while it was parked in the lot of the future Hi Neighbors Grocery Store, Higgins and Roselle roads. The burglary was reported by Cathi Ostos, 130 Hillcrest, Saturday morning.

Detectives investigate molesting of youth

Schaumburg Police Department detectives are investigating the report of a 16-year-old boy that he was molested while waiting to meet friends in the Mor-Well Barn on Sumac Lane.

The youth told police a man in his mid-forties whom he had seen on his way to the barn approached him inside the barn and struck up a conversation. Offering to show the youth an old date carved on the barn wall in the basement area, he led the youth downstairs and attempted sexual contact. The youth said he refused and was permitted to leave.

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to start, the interest couldn't help but focus more keenly on the two young women in the group. They were, after all, about to make a bit of history.

The two women, 22-year-old Debo-

Village officials eye Timbercrest streets

"We've gotten more attention and cooperation from the village in the past week than from Mor-Well Builders during the past eight months," said Schaumburg resident Ronald Sorg.

Sorg, 418 Cypress Ct., and seven of his neighbors from the Timbercrest subdivision complained to village officials last week of "deplorable" street conditions. They said builders representatives continue to ignore requests to correct "major" problems in their houses. The residents are also concerned because the builder is reportedly selling remaining vacant lands in Schaumburg in preparation for leaving the community.

Families involved live on Cypress Lane and Court and Cottonwood Drive just north of Weathersfield Way.

SORG SAID VILLAGE plumbing and electrical inspectors toured the neighborhood Saturday with engineering department personnel in line with a promise made to residents by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

"From what I understand, within two weeks the village will either take some kind of action against Mor-Well or have the public works department make street repairs and send the bill to the builder," Sorg said.

He explained that the builder promised residents the streets would be paved and public improvements put in as soon as construction was completed in the area.

Sorg said he and his neighbors have repeatedly experienced car problems because of the poor street conditions.

SEVERAL MONTHS ago residents in the same area complained to the village about lack of snow plowing because of the bad street conditions.

At that time, Maury Wroble of Mor-Well said his firm was experiencing problems with a contractor and promised the paving would be done as soon as weather permitted.

Neither he nor Wolf Shipman, the builder's local representative, could be reached for comment.

Sorg said village officials told the residents they could not become involved in problems concerning interior defects unless building or other codes have been violated.

Sorg said Saturday that code violations exist in his house but refused to discuss specific problems "at this time."

Murder plot trial set for Aug. 22

A tentative date of Aug. 22 has been set for the trial of Marlene Swinley, Schaumburg, who is charged with attempting to hire a gunman to kill her husband.

Assistant State's Atty. Charles Sklarsky said the date was set for August because Mrs. Swinley's attorney, Louis Carbonaro, had recently suffered a heart attack. The case is being handled in the Cook County courtroom of Judge Marvin Aspen at the Civic Center, Chicago.

Mrs. Swinley is charged with solicitation to commit murder. She was arrested Jan. 24 after Schaumburg police and Cook County State's Attorney's investigators uncovered a plot by Mrs. Swinley to have her husband, Duane, murdered, authorities said.

Offer to buy site rejected

Village to act to condemn Central School for library

The Village of Mount Prospect is expected to move toward condemnation procedures in an effort to obtain the abandoned Central School property for a public library.

"I don't want to keep horsing around," said Mayor Robert D. Teichert. "We can negotiate till hell freezes over."

He said the owners of the Central School property, Al Magnus and his estranged wife, have turned down the village's offer to buy the 2.6-acre parcel at the southeast corner of Central Road and Main Street in downtown Mount Prospect.

"We made a firm offer and it was rejected," said Teichert. The village offered around $625,000, and the Magnuses sought slightly more, though the two sides reportedly are "not far apart" in their bargaining.

MAGNUS HAD told The Herald May 8 that he and other owners want "to cooperate with the village in every way possible."

Teichert noted that despite the village's intention to sue for condemnation, negotiations will continue, and he expressed optimism that a settlement can be made. "My best guess is that we will be able to reach agreement," he said.

He indicated the village's offer is flexible "to a certain degree," though "not a helluva lot, frankly."

The village board is expected to vote Tuesday night to authorize the village attorney to file suit for condemnation. In seeking to condemn the property, the village must prove that the Central School site would serve a municipal need.

THE VILLAGE is attempting to buy the property for the Mount Prospect Public Library board, which has decided on the site for its new facility. The present library, at 14 E. Busse Ave., has outgrown its quarters.

Meanwhile, the school, built around the turn of the century, has stood vacant since June 1970. It is expected that if the property is secured by the library, the present structure will be removed to make way for a new building. The architectural firm of Wendt, Cedarholm and Tappan has been engaged by the library board to study the feasibility of renovating the school building as opposed to replacing it with a new building.

If an out-of-court settlement fails and the condemnation suit is heard in Cook County Circuit Court, the judge would set the sale price.

Township senior citizen bus program may face cutback

Senior citizen bus service may be affected when Elk Grove Township officials revise federal revenue-sharing fund expenditures.

The township board of auditors will meet in special session Tuesday at 8 p.m. to consider procedural changes in allocating revenue sharing, a move forced by a decision from Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott which says the funds could not be spent by townships on some services — including the bus program.

Elk Grove and Wheeling townships filed suit recently in federal court asking the U. S. Department of the Treasury to overrule Scott's decision, which stated townships may only spend revenue sharing funds for programs allowed under Illinois law.

STATE LAW prohibits townships from becoming financially involved in transportation systems. A letter to Scott from William Sagan, general counsel of the federal office of revenue sharing, apparently concurred with Scott's decision limiting township spending of the federal funds.

Township Supervisor Richard Hall said

auditors originally allocated funds under a proposed Illinois statute allowing them to budget money for any purposes defined as priority expenditures under federal statutes — including programs for the youth, poor and aged.

"Everything we listed in our budget falls under those priorities," said Hall. "But now that the legality of the state law has been challenged by Scott our attorney has advised us to rebudget the funds as though it (the law) doesn't exist."

The senior citizen bus program, started under the now-challenged law, will be affected but Hall said "hopefully we will be able to continue the basic service."

"We will have to tighten up the monthly expenditures for the bus program because we can't spend as much under the new set-up," he said. "We still intend to give service to senior citizens."

Hall said there are "other ways" to fund and continue the programs that have fallen into the grey area of legality under existing laws. "The board has to go over the details of all this so we can continue all of these programs," he said. The board will have to call a special town meeting to get the permission of township residents to allow the budget changes.

"If we lose the lawsuit, we wouldn't want to have money budgeted according to a statute that may be thrown out," Hall said. He added when the suit was filed, township attorneys asked the court for a quick resolution to the case. "Unfortunately, no hearing date has been set and it may be a month or so off."

THE TOWNSHIP recently has had additional revenue sharing problems. The federal office of revenue sharing informed the township in early May that they had been overpaid $99,000 in the federal funds. The township is in the process of repaying the money.

The township budgeted $297,000 in revenue sharing funds for the 1974-1975 fiscal year. Despite the need to repay the $99,000, Hall said there are sufficient funds available to meet all commitments.

Hall pointed out the township has $165,000 cash on hand from former revenue sharing allocations which has not been spent. In addition, they will receive $77,000 next month from the federal office and another $98,000 later this year. The township will have about $328,000 available.

Hearing on Kenroy

Rob Roy plan June 11

Revised plans for developing the Rob Roy Golf Course will be aired at a public hearing June 11.

The special hearing will be conducted by the Mount Prospect Zoning Board of Appeals, beginning at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Kenroy Inc., Skokie, officials briefly outlined the new plans before the village board this week. In general, the firm is seeking annexation and rezoning for 2,000 apartment and condominium units in buildings no taller than eight or nine stories. In addition, an 18-hole golf course would be maintained around the perimeter of the course.

After all evidence and testimony is presented, the zoning board will make a recommendation on the Kenroy request to the village board for action. The zoning board had recommended 4 to 2 against Kenroy's earlier plan to build 4,500 units on the course, and the likelihood that the village board would reject the plan prompted Kenroy to revise its request.

Mount Prospect teachers, board to begin talks

Bargaining sessions between the Mount Prospect Education Assn. and the Dist. 57 school board are expected to get under way by the end of the month. The association presented a proposed 1974-75 contract package to the board negotiating team last week but details of the proposal have not been released.

Robert Novy, chairman of the board's three-member negotiating team, said the committee will review the proposal and expects to be in touch with the teacher negotiators within one to two weeks.

Dave Johnson, association president and a teacher at Lincoln Junior High, said the first meeting between the two sides last week was a very informal session held to present the package to the board.

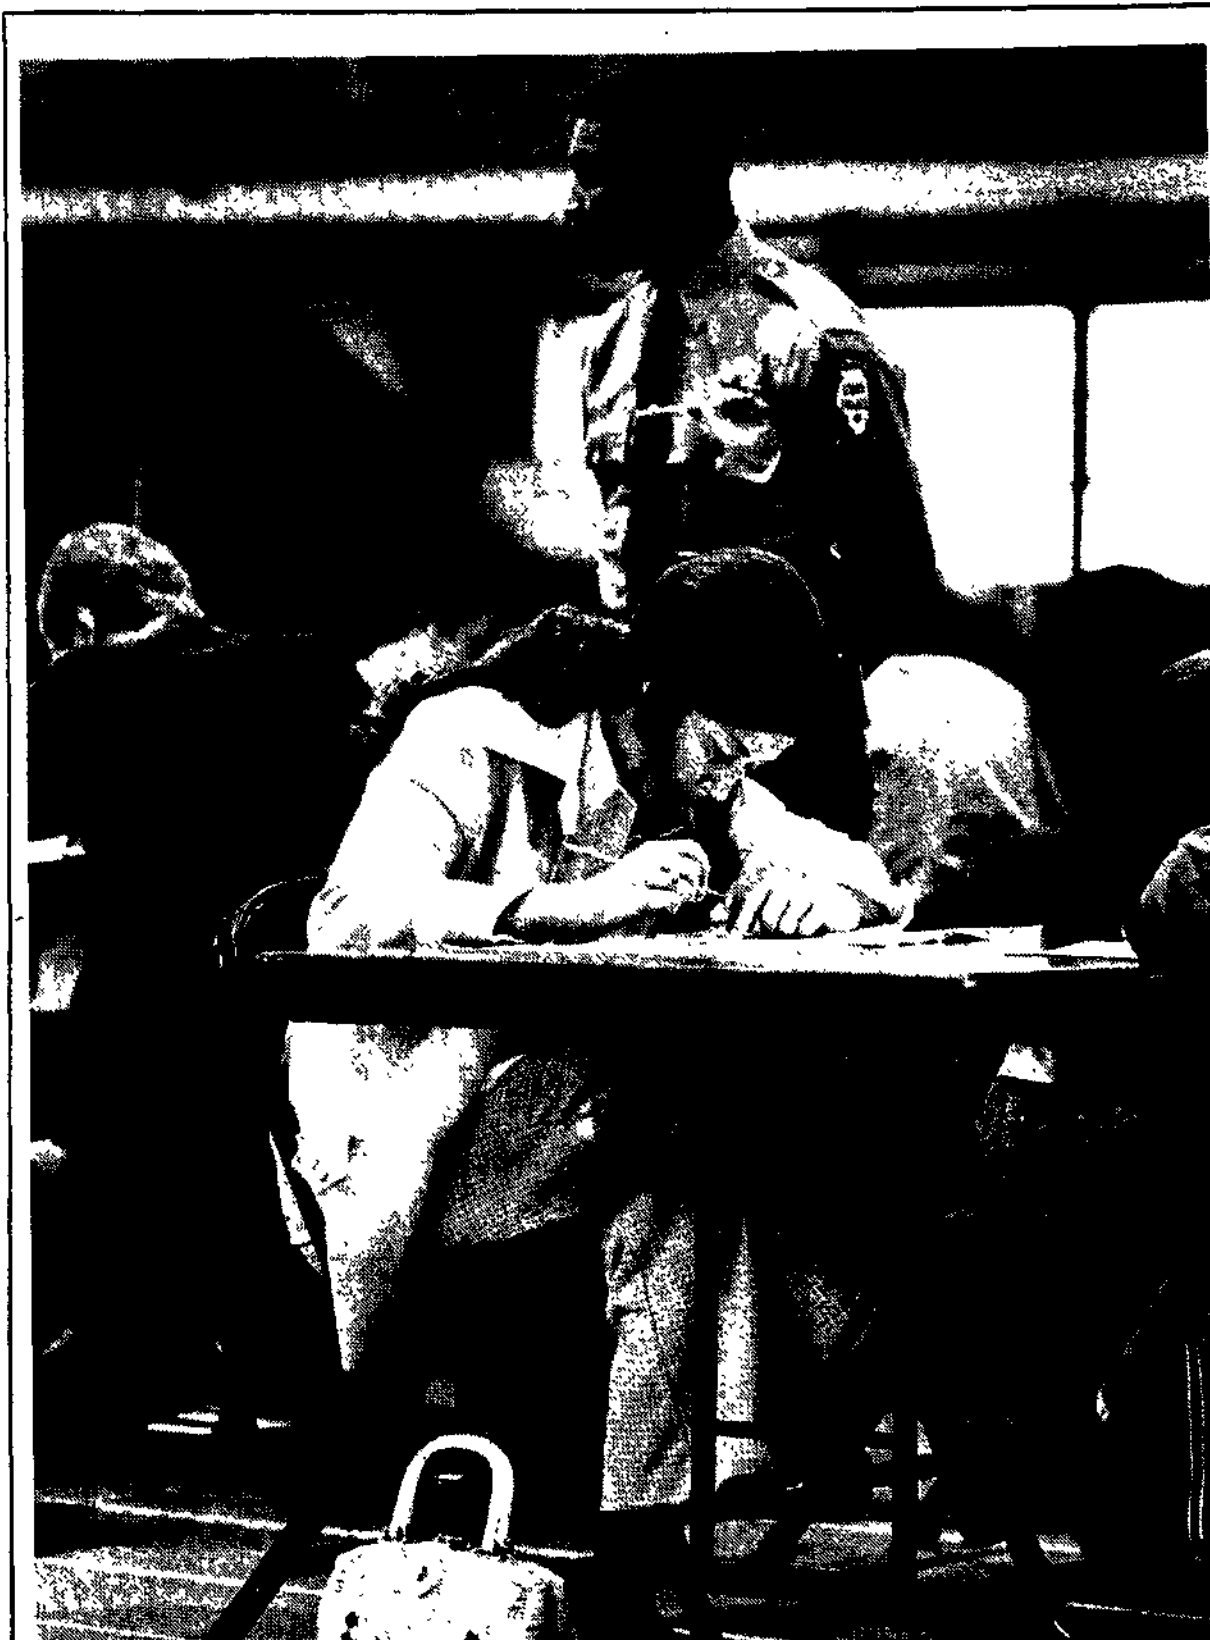

NOVY SAID plans were left very open as to when the two sides would get together again. He added that no decision on the directions negotiating sessions will take has been made.

Novy added that statements regarding negotiations will be released jointly by the two sides. Johnson said it is possible information will be released as agreement is reached on specific points rather than at the conclusion of a contract settlement.

The board negotiating team consists of Novy, Board Pres. William Holloway and Peter Olesen.

In addition to Johnson the team includes Dan Vondran, a teacher at Lincoln Junior High.

Richard Zwieback, who has served as the board's professional negotiator for the past two years, will be used by the board this year only as a consultant.

School official denies Stavros influence

by RICH HONACK

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill sent a letter Friday to U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will stating that James Stavros never interfered in school matters, and did, in fact, help in several community affairs.

James Stavros pleaded guilty to federal charges of extorting $92,000 from three

Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In pleading guilty, Stavros also admitted to having enough control over village operations to prevent construction of the three projects if he opposed them.

Gill told The Herald he wrote the letter to Judge Will to use for consideration at the time of Stavros' sentencing or parole. Stavros is expected to be sentenced June 4 and could get a maximum of 63 years in prison and fines totaling $35,000.

ACCORDING TO Gill, there was an understanding between him and Stavros during Gill's 15 years as school superintendent. "It started when I first became superintendent and a precinct worker came up to me asking me to give someone a job. I went to Jimmy (Stavros) and told him to stay out of the district. He (Stavros) said it would never happen again, and it didn't," Gill said.

Gill also had a meeting with Stavros last spring, when two candidates for the school board began receiving financial aid from Wheeling's To Overall Progress Party (TOP). "I told him (Stavros) to stay out of the election and keep his campaign workers away from the polls on election day. He said it would be taken care of," according to Gill.

The two candidates were easily defeated in the election.

Those were the only times Stavros had anything to do with Dist. 21, according to Gill. "I think he really believed that politics should have been kept out of the school system."

GILL BELIEVES that the letter may cause residents to say he is defending Stavros for his wrong doing. "That is not the case at all. I deplore what took place in this village. But I also think there are two sides to every person, and Jimmy (Stavros) did some good for this village," he said.

"It doesn't take guts to be against Jim-

Ralph Doney sworn in as police chief

Ralph J. Doney was sworn in as Mount Prospect police chief in a brief ceremony Friday morning.

Doney, 40, who is replacing retiring Chief Bert Giddens, was administered the oath by Deputy Village Clerk Marie Hard. Also attending the ceremony was Doney's wife, Beverly, who presented him with his chief's badge, and Village Mrg. Robert J. Eppey. Eppey chose Doney, a sergeant in charge of the detective division, early last week to replace Giddens.

Doney was one of five men within the police department who applied for the chief's job. The ceremony took place in the police chief's office at the village hall.

George Keithley: success story

According to those who know, one of the big new names in the literary field is George Keithley — who grew up in Mount Prospect. His parents, Helen and James B., still live here at 505 S. Hi-Lusi.

Keithley, 38, has written two books, "The Donner Party" and his new "Song in a Strange Land." They are books of poetry, the first two in a series of four that deal with Americana. George is currently working on the third volume which will concentrate on the life cycle in a single community during the four seasons of the year. He is drawing on the experience of growing up in Mount Prospect for this book. A fourth book related to the three will follow.

His book, "Song in a Strange Land," published in March, presents scenes of American life from the young manhood of Lincoln to our own time. Various poems from this book have already appeared in Harper's Magazine, the Yale Review, the Iowa Review and other journals. The book was co-winner of the di Castagnola Award given by the Poetry Society of America.

REVIEWERS say, "It (Song in a Strange Land) should be a strong contender for this year's Pulitzer Prize in poetry." "It moves the heart, stirs the blood, teases the mind." "Keithley captures in tone, the melancholy and grave earnestness of Lincoln and of the time in which he lived."

It is easy to see why reviewers like the book. It is a smooth flowing sequence of poems that read and stand beautifully alone, yet contribute to the whole historical story that is told. Once begun, it is difficult to put the book down.

Keithley got started on his literary career when he was studying political science and preparing for a law degree. Unknown to him, a professor entered one of his pieces in a National Collegiate Short Story Contest. George won the contest and, according to his father, "It was then that he decided to gamble on a writing career."

At present George Keithley is writing full time. He is on leave from teaching at California State University at Chico where he is a professor of English.

HIS FIRST BOOK, an epic poem about the celebrated Donner Party, received widespread critical acclaim. It was excerpted in Harper's Magazine and the Massachusetts Review, chosen as an alternate by the Book-of-the-Month Club, and won the Western Heritage Award for poetry in 1973.

Keithley was born in Chicago and the family moved to Mount Prospect in 1941. He attended Central School in town and Arlington High School. "It was the only high school out here then," said his dad.

George is married to the former Mary Zoe Martoefer of Winnetka. They have three children, Elizabeth, 12, Clare, 11, and Christopher, 8.

George has a brother, James, a creative writer for Campbell-Mithun Advertising Agency in Chicago.

Keithley's first book, The Donner Party, was dedicated to his parents. The second book, "Song in a Strange Land," was dedicated to his children.

'The World's A Playground' theme for park programs

This summer's theme at the River Trails Park District playgrounds will be "The World's A Playground."

Details of the seven-week long activities are included in the park district's summer program brochure, which was mailed to residents late last week. The playground program will be held at Euclid School grounds, Euclid Avenue and Wheeling Road; Feenhanville School grounds, 1400 E. Kensington Rd.; Aspen Trails Park, 206 Aspen Dr.; Burning Bush Trails Park, 1313 Burning Bush Ln., and Park View School grounds, Kensington Road and Burning Bush Lane.

The fee will be $5 per child and $3 for each additional child in the same family. In succeeding weeks, the focus will be on the food and customs of Spanish countries, African countries, the United States, the Far East and Polynesia, Playground Carnival Week, Middle European countries and Scandinavian countries.

OTHER SUMMER activities in the park district include:

- Baton classes — six weeks for $4 and restricted to children who have completed the first grade.
- Golf classes — eight classes in four weeks for children and another for adults at a fee of $9.
- Baseball for boys — Three divisions based on age with a June 1 registration deadline and a fee of $15 for one boy or $20 for two or more boys from the same family.
- Softball league for men — Team competition for the park district championship. Those without teams can sign up, too.

• Powderpuff softball — Women 19 and over may register for teams with play to begin about June 19.

• Tennis lessons — Two four-week sessions at Burning Bush and Aspen parks. All grade school participants must have already finished the fourth grade. There will be 19 classes in each session, meeting at different times and involving different age groups from grade school to adults.

• Northwest Special Recreation Assn. — Special summer day camps for students with disabilities.

• Swimming lessons — Four two-week sessions in various age and skill categories. The district also has available for sale tokens to the Euclid Avenue swimming pool. These tokens and other information and applications for the summer programs are available at the park district office, 1313 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect. The park district telephone number is 298-4445.

my Stavros now. In fact, a lot of the people he helped deny even knowing him. Again it's a matter of principles with me and integrity," Gill said.

While Gill said it was no secret that Stavros was a political force in Wheeling, he was not aware of any specific wrong doings. He added that he was never called before the federal grand jury investigating Wheeling to testify on Stavros' relationship to the school district.

ACCORDING to Gill, he has talked to several people about the letter and said he contacted The Herald about the situation because he wanted the public to get the story first hand, rather than by rumor.

"I'm in the position where everything I say is linked with the school district. I don't think this is wrong, either, because I feel when you're in a community job it calls for you to get into the community process," he said.

Gill said it is about time the people of Wheeling started to take a stand and get involved in the village. "We've got to start getting some integrity and standing up for principles we believe in."

Kenneth Gill's letter to judge

"Dear Judge Will:

"This letter concerns James Stavros, who will soon come before you for sentencing. I would in no way condone any wrong-doing that is involved in his case. In fact I am totally distressed by the situation that has arisen in our community and am pleased that the judicial process is proceeding to bring it all to a conclusion. However, I do feel that at such a tragic time as this public opinion often has a tendency to concentrate only on the negative aspects of a person and that any positive factors in this person's life might never be presented to you. I believe deeply that every man has the right of having all aspects of him made known when he stands in judgment.

"In my 15 years as superintendent, Mr. Stavros was a staunch supporter of the school district. I have also during this time been very active in many charitable community projects and always found him to be concerned and willing to work to help the projects become successful. He was most directly responsible for the first community swimming pool to be built in Wheeling.

"However, the one most important point that persuades me to write this letter is the fact that when he was active politically, he always kept his promise to keep politics away from the school district. In all these years he never wavered from that resolve.

"I am taking the unusual step of writing this letter only as an attempt to give a sketchy picture of the positive side of Mr. Stavros. I hope you will find it helpful in your deliberations."

Two sought in connection with robbery of secretary

Several suspects are being investigated in connection with Wednesday's robbery of a 32-year-old secretary, Mount Prospect police said Friday. Two men are being sought by police.

In addition, police have at least two leads on the car used in the robbery. The car is described as an older, possible 1960, blue Chevrolet with fins in the rear and Bel-Air emblems on the side.

According to the hookup victim, Mrs. Jerry V. Piazza, the car pulled up to the John G. Kokinis Realtors office, 1705 W. Golf Rd., about 8:25 p.m. The driver stayed in the car, in which the engine was running, while the passenger entered the office and asked for a map.

MRS. PIAZZA, 1609 W. Palm Dr., told police that when she returned from a back office with the map the man demanded all the money in her wallet. She said he kept one hand in his pocket. Police are unsure if that hand held a weapon.

The robber took $110 in bills and a small amount of change. The pair then fled in the car through a nearby shopping center parking lot.

The man who entered the office, police said, was between 18 and 20, about 5 feet tall, 165 pounds, thin build, with shoulder-length "dirty blond" hair and brown eyes. He was wearing blue jeans with holes, sandals and a long-sleeved blue-and-gray print shirt. Mrs. Piazza told police the man had his hair parted in the center.

The second man, who never left the car, was described as having long hair.

Lions Club fund raiser set for May 25

A fund-raising event will be sponsored May 25 by the Mount Prospect Lions Club.

The event, open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. in the VFW Hall, 601 N. Main St. Admission is $2, with $1 worth of play money returned. Tickets are available from Lions Club members; at Louie's Barber Shop, 9 E. Prospect Ave.; Friedrichs Funeral Home, 329 W. Central Rd.; and at the door.

Proceeds will help support Lions Club activities. During the past year, the Lions donated more than $11,000 to civic groups and blind organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, senior citizens, Lambs Farm, historical society, American Field Services of Prospect High School, Clearbrook Center, St. Raymond teen group, Prospect Band, Pakistan relief, CARE, Hadley School for the Blind, Illinois Federation of Blind, Illinois Blind Action Committee, Leader Dog for Blind, Lions Summer Camp for Blind and Skiing for Blind.

In addition, a typewriter and wheel chair were donated to a local youth with cerebral palsy; a kidney machine was given to another local youth, and glasses were provided to local youngsters.

Funds are raised through this event, Lions Candy Day and the annual carnival at Lions Park.

More than 2,500 library books missing

Some 2,593 library books are circulating without the Mount Prospect library's permission.

Mount Prospect librarian Mary Jo Hutchesons said the 2,593 books are those found missing in the library's on-going inventory. So far, 38,606 books have been inventoried. This is slightly more than half the total 72,397 books.

If any of the books are found, the library will welcome their return.

67 votes defeat largest bond issue in village history

$16.6 million flood control referendum fails

by KURT BAER

Arlington Heights residents have rejected, by a margin of 67 votes, a proposed $16.6 million bond issue for flood control throughout the village.

Despite rain and cool weather Saturday, a relatively large number of voters went to the polls to decide the bond issue, which would have been the biggest in village history.

Unofficially, a total of 2,332 ballots were counted in favor of the referendum, and 2,399 opposed.

Fifty-four of the 67 net votes that sent the referendum down to defeat came out of the Pioneer Park precinct, where residents turned down the proposition 127 to 181. Plans to use part of the park to construct a storm water pond have been an unresolved controversy since the flood control program was first announced 1½ years ago.

TRUSTEE FRANK PALMATIER, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding and a major referendum supporter, listed three possible alternatives in the wake of Saturday's No vote.

- To resolve the sources of controversy and hold another referendum.

- To issue a lesser amount of bonds to buy the land needed to implement the program, with the actual construction of the projects drawn out over a number of years.

- To begin work on the most critical projects now using federal revenue sharing funds.

"I don't really have a definite notion of what to do next," Palmatier said minutes after the results were known Saturday night.

"WE'LL HAVE TO get the interested people together to discuss what the next move will be. I want to hear what people think generally," he added.

Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said that the closeness of the vote throws the decision of whether to issue bonds to begin the program back to the village board of trustees.

"I'd be disinclined to consider issuing bonds if it had failed 2-1, or 3-1. But with a difference of 67 votes, I don't know that we've really determined anything," Walsh said.

Village officials have been informed that legally they have the power to issue the full $16.6 million worth of bonds without a referendum because of Arlington Heights' standing as a home rule municipality.

"WE'VE NEVER had the details of that opinion," Walsh said, adding that, if the board decides to go ahead with a bond issue, an obvious option would be to sell something less than the $16.6 million needed for the entire program.

A bond issue of $16.6 million would add about $50 to an average Arlington Heights homeowner's tax bill in 1975. The amount would decrease slightly every year for the next 20 years.

Palmatier said he considered the turnout of nearly 5,000 voters good for Arlington Heights. "There have been some village elections where we've had a lot less."

He conceded that the Pioneer Park issue probably hurt the referendum package, but added, "At least we didn't lose big, which I had thought was a definite possibility."

STRONG VOTES in favor of the flood control proposal were registered in the precincts of Camelot Park (136-52), Olympic Park (175-92) and St. Viator High School (141-73). All represent areas within the village that are plagued with flooding problems.

Walsh said Sunday that he had not analyzed the vote by precinct, but he suspected residents who cast ballots on Saturday "represent the hard core on both sides of the issue." The average voter, he said, may not have taken the time to understand the significance of the relatively complex flood prevention program.

"The returns were fairly consistent with what you'd expect on a bond issue of this magnitude," he said. "But still, not as many people (turned out) as you'd like to express an opinion."

Will vote halt subsidy for bus system?

The defeat of Arlington Heights' $16.6 million flood control bond issue Saturday may significantly lessen the chances of a village subsidy for Metron Systems bus operations.

Repudiation of the proposed bond sale at the polls is likely to force the village board of trustees into a conservative position relative to the spending of its federal revenue sharing and utility tax funds.

Revenue sharing or utility tax money have been identified as the only two possible sources for a village subsidy for Metron. Estimates on the cost of that subsidy have gone as high as $84,000.

THE CHAIRMAN of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, Trustee Frank Palmatier, has said repeatedly that if the flood control referendum loses, he will recommend virtually a total commitment of revenue sharing to flood control.

The first priority, according to Palmatier, would be to buy the proposed sites for six major stormwater reservoirs before the land is picked up by developers.

On the other hand, if the referendum had been ratified, it would have freed up a million dollars in unspent revenue sharing.

Under these circumstances, an appropriation to continue Metron's operation for three, or even six more months could have had an easier chance of passing.

The subsidy issue is expected to be decided by the village board tonight. At a meeting last Monday, five trustees were split over continued financial support of the bus company, three in favor of a subsidy, two opposed.

WITH THE referendum results before them tonight, trustees will have a new perspective on how they want to spend the village's federal revenue sharing.

Three trustees — James T. Ryan, Alice Harms and Palmatier — have said that bus service in Arlington Heights has not yet had a fair trial period. The addition of dial-a-bus, possibly a fourth commuter route and stepped-up marketing have been put forward as ways to bolster the failing commuter bus service.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh and Trustee Richard Durava, however, have said that Metron serves such a small number of people — about 200 riders a day — that a major infusion of village money is unjustified.

Without a village subsidy, Metron president Claude Luisada says he will have to shut down bus operations by the end of the month.

4-H to 'share the fun'

The Arlington Heights 4-H clubs will present a "Share-the-Fun" evening to the residents of the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ernst's Highland Lads and Lassies will present an old time vaudeville act; Mrs. Audrey Padgett's Golden Nuggets, a modern day Snow White story; Mrs. Ronald Kindwall's North Point Neatniks, the Yellow Submarine and Mrs. Anne Larson's Dukes and Duchesses will give a skit on a typical 4-H meeting.

All skits were written, costumed and staged by 4-H members.

Youth, 17, arrested after high school blast

A 17-year-old Buffalo Grove youth was charged with criminal damage to property Friday, after he allegedly set off an explosive device in a Buffalo Grove High School locker.

Arrested was Tim Mastandrea, 114 Golfview Terr. who is to appear June 18 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Damage was estimated at $300 by Buffalo Grove police.

School principal Clarence Miller said, "We've talked with him and he doesn't know why he did it." Miller added that no one was injured in the incident, which he said may have been caused by a cherry bomb or several firecrackers.

The lockers damaged are located in Building C on the high school campus in the second-floor general locker area.

The explosion, according to Miller, occurred about 8:15 a.m. Friday. However, the police department did not learn of the incident until 1:25 p.m. and the fire department was told at 4:10 p.m.

Police Chief Harry Walsh said only the high school youth officer had been told and that was about 9:30 a.m. while he was home. The officer then went straight to the school and the rest of the police department learned of the explosion later.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said, "I'm very disturbed that this department was not called to check the rest of the building (for additional explosive devices)."

New era at hand: lady state troopers

The mood in the gymnasium Saturday was relaxed and the sergeant in charge proved a master at putting the 27 young people at ease. But when time came for the testing to start, the interest couldn't help but focus more keenly on the two young women in the group. They were, after all, about to make a bit of history.

The two women, 22-year-old Deborah Brush of Mount Prospect and 26-year-old Chicagoan Pat Carter, were among the first women hoping to become Illinois State Police troopers.

Bottoms up! The men of the Laseke Disposal Co. in Arlington Heights visit some 15,000 homes twice a week, and that takes some hustle.

Laseke employs about 30 men, two to a truck, to make the rounds to your backdoor. The 55-gallon cans they carry weigh up to 150 pounds when filled.

Area drivers make a union wage of $5.60 an hour.

PTA notes

Ridge School PTA will hold its annual bake sale Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school, 800 N. Fernandez.

Exhibit night will be 7:30 p.m. that night and the bake sale again will be opened from 7 to 9 p.m. Parents are invited to the evening event to visit their children's classrooms and to take note of the curriculum.

A "Spring Festival" will be presented by the students of Olive School Tuesday at Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights.

Children's choir and physical education demonstrations will be featured. The event will be held through the efforts of Kathy Rausch, music teacher and Robert Osborn, physical education teacher.

Westgate School students, under the direction of Madeline Sauerbier, music teacher, will entertain PTA members Tuesday at 8 p.m. during a regular meeting at the school, 1211 W. Grove.

Officers will be installed. They are Ruth Rudd, president; Kay Svoboda, vice president; Dick Onnen, treasurer and Jan Gustafson, secretary.

Ellen Grady, learning center director, will be awarded a life membership to the PTA in honor of her dedication and service to Westgate School.

A special meeting for parents of kindergarten children will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde.

Alan Swanson, principal of Greenbrier School and primary staff members will explain and discuss plans for a primary school program which will involve their children.

Also during the meeting, there will be an installation of PTA officers. They include Lorry Hellstrom, president; Joyce White, vice president; Carol Zundel, secretary; and Barbara Riccio, treasurer.

Kensington School PTA will present a panel discussion, "Potentially All Children are Gifted," Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in the school library at 201 S. Evanston.

James Montgomery, director of instruction for School Dist. 25 will be moderator of the panel which includes Marilyn Meissner, director of the North Suburban Service Center; Olivia Burnett, learning center teacher; Camille Kunkowski, teacher for the deaf at Kensington and Joyce Rosley, substitute teacher.

Baby-sitting service will be available and refreshments will be served.

A book fair and doughnut sale will be held by the Ivy School PTA in conjunction with the school's exhibit night on Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at 2211 N. Burke Dr.

Parents are invited to view children's activities at the school. A special exhibit by the school's physical education teacher and students will be presented.

Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 will sponsor a workshop for parents of preschool children on Thursday at Olive School, 303 E. Olive.

The workshop is open to parents and will begin at 1:15 p.m. in the multi-purpose room.

Barbara Bachelor of the University of Illinois will speak on early childhood development.

Other speakers include Ruth Griffith, head of children's services at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library; Dr. William Kuhn, whose practice is in Arlington Heights and Barbara Kurp of the North Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

Several Dist. 25 teachers will speak on learning activities that could be done in the homes.

Parents interested in attending are urged to call the district administrative office at 253-6100, ext. 287.

School official: Stavros never gave interference

by RICH HONACK

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill sent a letter Friday to U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will stating that James Stavros never interfered in school matters, and did, in fact, help in several community affairs.

For several hours Friday morning, Gill met with Herald reporters to discuss the letter, which he wrote at the request of Stavros' brother, August. Gill said he wrote the letter "as a matter of principle."

James Stavros pleaded guilty to federal charges of extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false 1972 income tax return. In pleading guilty, Stavros also admitted to having enough control over village operations to prevent construction of the three projects if he opposed them.

Gill told The Herald he wrote the letter to Judge Will to use for consideration at the time of Stavros' sentencing or parole. Stavros is expected to be sentenced June 4 and could get a maximum of 63 years in prison and fines totaling $35,000.

ACCORDING TO Gill, there was an understanding between him and Stavros during Gill's 15 years as school superintendent. "It started when I first became superintendent and a precinct worker came up to me asking me to give someone a job. I went to Jimmy (Stavros) and told him to stay out of the district. He (Stavros) said it would never happen again, and it didn't," Gill said.

Gill also had a meeting with Stavros last spring, when two candidates for the school board began receiving financial aid from Wheeling's To Overall Progress Party (TOP). "I told him (Stavros) to stay out of the election and keep his campaign workers away from the polls on election day. He said it would be taken care of," according to Gill.

The two candidates were easily defeated in the election.

Those were the only times Stavros had anything to do with Dist. 21, according to Gill. "I think he really believed that politics should have been kept out of the school system."

GILL BELIEVES that the letter may cause residents to say he is defending Stavros for his wrong doing. "That is not the case at all. I deplore what took place in this village. But I also think there are two sides to every person, and Jimmy (Stavros) did some good for this village," he said.

"It doesn't take guts to be against Jimmy Stavros now. In fact, a lot of the people he helped deny even knowing him. Again it's a matter of principles with me and integrity," Gill said.

While Gill said it was no secret that Stavros was a political force in Wheeling, he was not aware of any specific wrong doings. He added that he was never called before the federal grand jury investigating Wheeling to testify on Stavros' relationship to the school district.

ACCORDING TO Gill, he has talked to several people about the letter and said he contacted The Herald about the situation because he wanted the public to get the story first hand, rather than by rumor.

"I'm in the position where everything I say is linked with the school district. I don't think this is wrong, either, because I feel when you're in a community job it calls for you to get into the community process," he said.

Creative dramatics at Pioneer Park

A program in creative dramatics, including pantomime, improvisation of action and dialogue, will be offered to children aged 5-11 this summer at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.

Two sessions of the creative dramatics workshop have been scheduled, June 24 to July 19, and July 29 to Aug. 23. Children 5-6 will attend the Monday Wednesday and Friday sessions from 10 to 11 a.m.; 7-9 from 11 a.m. to noon, and 10-11 from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

All workshops will be held at Pioneer Park and the registration fee is $15. Interested persons may obtain further information by calling Pioneer Park at 394-4949.

Teacher has 'day' because he's 'good guy'

Teachers at Arlington High School were sporting buttons announcing "Mr. Boesel Day" Friday, in honor of Robert Boesel, veteran English teacher at the school.

Boesel wore a button which said "Me?"

The day was planned by teachers Fritz Micheals, Charles Zeller and Robert Schonta who announced the special event Friday morning in the faculty bulletin. The day was planned, according to the announcement "just because he's a good fellow."

Boesel has taught at Arlington for 19 years, in yearbook adviser and teaches humanities and a class in detective and science fiction. There were 68 buttons made up for the event and, according to one English teacher, "They were all worn. The students wanted them but we didn't have enough."

The local scene

Students at Rand Junior High School, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd., will hold a talent show today at 8:15 p.m.

The theme of the show is "Random Samples" with 20 acts. Scenes of Keystone Cops, tumbling, group singing and dancing will be included. The faculty will provide live music.

Tickets are 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

Club to visit arboretum

The Friendship Club of St. James Church in Arlington Heights will sponsor a trip Tuesday to Morton Arboretum near Lisle.

Participants will meet at 9:15 a.m. in back of the parish center at 841 N. Arlington Heights Rd. The cost of the trip, which includes a luncheon at the Swedish Manor Housse in Glen Ellyn, is $4.50 per person.

A pot luck lunch is being planned for June 4 at 11:30 a.m. Members are requested to call Tracy Malcor at 259-4212 to indicate what food dishes will be brought to the luncheon. Members are also requested to bring their own tableware and serving spoon. A trip to the Arlington Park Race Track will be discussed.
